

Block Nurse Program remembers its roots as it replicates

By Colette Snyder

Thoreau said, "...if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours."

In the five years since the dream of the Block Nurse Program took form, over 185 clients in District 12 have been provided a variety of services by neighbors, volunteers and professionals who have a commitment to helping elderly members of their community continue to live as fully as possible in their own homes.

"Older persons have much to offer and we all benefit by helping them remain a part of community life," says JoAnne Rohricht, chairperson of the board of directors of the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program. "It's a sensible way to provide care. It's accessible, familiar and consistent, and it's cost effective to draw on volunteers in the community for a number of services not available from home health agencies. Staff live close by so there's continuity and it's more personal." Marjorie Jamieson, executive director of the program adds, "It's a full circle of continuous care. One client specifically requested to return to the Block Nurse Program for care after a hospitalization." "Families stay involved and remain part of the care. They don't pull back. Because they can turn over the [actual physical care] bathing, etc. they are free to be the daughter or niece. It frees them for the nurturing role," Rohricht explains. The fundamental difference between the Block Nurse Program and other home health care providers is that the Program is neighborhood-owned. A vital component for success is voluntary commitment to the care of the elderly in the community by their neighbors. The trained volunteers fill the many needs that cannot be met by other home health agencies such as companionship and transportation. Quality of professional services provided is assured by the Ramsey County Department of Public Health Nursing, as employer of the nursing staff.

There is work ahead, and excitement too, in the challenging project to reproduce the program in other communities. The board of directors has grown from 7 to 17 to meet the challenge and to find out whether the Block Nurse Program can work in other communities.

Rohricht says, "The two key roles for the new board are overseeing evaluation [of the program] and finding funding for communities. There has to be a central effort to raise funds or communities would be competing for them."

Management of the program in each community is, however, strictly local. Each neighborhood has its own board of directors. Jamieson clarifies, "We are committed to decentralized management. When we began to write

Area arts programs grow apart

By Michelle Christianson

Last month Siamese twins were separated in a dramatic operation so that each could live and breathe on its own. In like manner, the St. Anthony Park Arts Forum has separated from the Music in the Park Series so that each may have a fuller and more useful existence.

The Arts Forum was begun under the auspices of COMPAS with a commission to generate interest in the arts. Its most successful and ultimately its primary focus has been the Music in the Park concert series. The Arts Forum is strictly a neighborhood organization, whereas it has become more and more apparent that Music in the Park has a broader, more metropolitan scope. Thus the decision to split into separate groups with separate boards of directors.

"It's really a positive rather than a negative step," says Julie Himmelstrup, artistic director of Music in the Park. "We will have much better resources for fund raising and will also have better contacts to apply for metropolitan grants. And the Arts Forum will be freed from its obligation to spend most of its time and resources fund-raising for us and can expand its scope."

Pat O'Connor, president of the St. Anthony Park Arts Forum, echoes that thought. She is clearly excited about the possibilities opening up for the Arts Forum. She sees it as a clearinghouse—to help people get together and to let people know what's going on. To aid in the latter, the group will run a quarterly calendar in the Bugle detailing everything happening in St. Anthony Park connected with the arts.

People are encouraged to call O'Connor at 646-3520 or Cathy Daly at 646-1911 to add items to the calendar.

The Arts Forum is also compiling a directory of teachers, performers, artists and those interested in the arts in the area to help people get in touch with each other. O'Connor and Daly are the phone contacts for this project as well. They hope to get people together in a variety of ways—e.g., book discussion groups, chamber music groups, poetry or play readings, visual arts groups, etc. They already have plans to begin visual arts evenings at the library with speakers from the neighborhood. Their hope is that participants will then share expertise and ideas. The Arts Forum also will continue to support the Community Chorus.

Music in the Park also has an ambitious agenda for the year. It has planned concerts featuring Romuald Tecco of the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra with Dennis Russell Davies; the Ware-Patterson Duo, a flute and guitar duo; Cynthia Phelps, viola, and Karen Follingstad, piano; Carol Liberman, Baroque violin, and Mark Kroll, harpsichord; and the Clark-Schuldmann Duo of cello and piano. The group will be able to attract nationally-known names as well as local talent with its new status.

Voyageurs venture north

Sarah Hobbie, Falcon Heights, is one of three area women who spent much of the summer reliving the life of the voyageur.

By Kathy Malchow

Have trouble planning ahead to next week? Or is even the end of the day too far in the future to worry about? Then think of the preparation required for a six-week, 780 mile camping/canoeing trip! That kind of planning was undertaken in January and extraordinary journeys were completed this summer by several young women from the St. Paul area, including Liz Flinn and Sophie Munholland of St. Anthony Park and Sarah Hobbie of Falcon Heights. They all participated in "voyageur" trips sponsored through YMCA Camp Widjiwagan, headquartered in Ely.

Before reading further, get your map of Canada and find the town of Baker Lake in the Northwest Territories north of Manitoba. That hamlet was the destination of the "Dubawnt River trip" taken by Flinn, a June graduate of Central High School, and five others who became good friends along the way.

(Hobbie was the leader of a second all-woman voyageur trip that included Munholland and four others. They followed a different Canadian route. There was also one men's voyageur trip out of Camp Widjiwagan this summer.)

Flinn and her five

companions chose their route, planned and brought meals and clothes for six weeks, things to keep occupied during the times they weren't in their canoes, and, perhaps most important, decided they could stand each other's company for that length of time knowing they probably would not encounter anyone else.

Needless to say, all the women were experienced campers who had to be in top shape before they could undertake the "by invitation only" trip. (Camp Widjiwagan, which draws people from across the U.S., has three levels

D-12 sponsors meeting with Parks & Rec

In an effort to pursue the District Council's priority of ensuring continued staffing and increased programming at the So. St. Anthony Recreation Center, a meeting will be held on Oct. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the meeting room of the Rec Center.

Neighbors who have expressed concern over the programs offered at the center are invited to attend and let the Parks and Rec people know what the community wants in the way of classes, organized sports or special events. Additional programming is being provided through the Mayor's Better Neighborhoods Program.

Activities involving sixth grade and under will be considered first, but a request for junior high and senior high programming will be implemented if the interest is shown. Various possibilities have been suggested such as a boys' and girls' club, after school arts and crafts classes, fencing club, 4-H club.

Recycling continues to grow

August recycling figures are in and show steady growth in the program. In August, 610 District 12 residents participated in the free curbside recycling program. This is the best we've done to date and we're still growing. To the recycler, thank you for your dedication and energy. If you are wondering how you can become a part of this neighborhood movement call our office at 646-8884.

Many people have called our office about tire recycling. According to the Minnesota Energy Alternatives newsletter a tire recycling company is now accepting scrap tires at a new plant in Babbitt, MN. This is great news for all of us if the facility operation proves successful.

In the past, used tires were buried in landfills or illegally dumped in our parks and open spaces. Landfilling tires does not work because the tires do not stay buried—they work to the surface within a few years.

In 1985, the Minnesota State Legislature passed a law that prohibits disposal of tires in landfills and requires the reduction of large piles of tires.

At Tirecycle, whole tires are ground into a fine powder. The metal and fiber are separated from the rubber, and the rubber is then treated with a proprietary polymer compound developed by the parent company. The final product is sold to manufacturers throughout the U.S. who make rubber-based sealants, adhesives and coatings.

At this point transportation of used tires to Babbitt is not provided by Tirecycle; however, we will keep you informed about the availability of this service to area residents.

Our curbside recycling day is the second Wednesday of every month.

Lawnsigns are available by calling our office; or the Neighborhood Energy Consortium.

Composting yard waste

Residents are urged to either leave grass clippings on the lawn as a mulch or compost the clippings with other yard waste. Reusing yard waste instead of sending it off with the trash is another way to reduce trash output. In the fall, 30 percent of the solid waste in the metropolitan region is made up of yard waste. Composting grass clippings and leaves can provide us with a valuable resource in maintaining our lawns and gardens.

The District 12 compost site will be open three weekends this fall. The site, located on Robbins between Bayless and Marvel, will be open 10 a.m. -4 p.m. October 10-11, October 17-18, and October 24-25. Place grass clippings and leaves in the marked location; no brush or tree branches will be accepted. All containers must be emptied and removed.

Recycling winner

Iris Charvat, 1132 Raymond, David Cari/Seth Dahlin, 1128 Raymond, and Agnes Banitt, 1136 Raymond are this month's winners of the recycling lottery and will share the $50 prize money. Charvat's address was selected at random and was observed to have properly prepared recyclables on the curb at 7 a.m. Charvat said, "I started recycling because I saw a lawnsign about recycling. Now all my neighbors recycle, four out of five houses on the block. I want a lawnsign, too!"

Recycling works, thanks to neighbors like these. Congratulations!

Thanks to volunteers

Leon Cariveau, Josh Stokes and Bryant Virnig distributed fliers in South St. Anthony Park to announce the public hearing with Mayor Latimer concerning the closing of the Rec Center. The interest shown by the community has resulted in the opportunity to plan future programming for the Center.

Area co-ops meet challenges of changing times

By John G. Shepard

Four months ago shoppers entering the door of SAP Foods on Raymond Avenue were greeted by the distinct aroma of smoke from an arson-caused fire that did over $10,000 worth of damage to the co-op. Today, customers are met with the delicious smells of home-made soup and sandwiches, the shiny metal and glass surfaces of a larger new walk-in dairy cooler and, on a recently acquired refrigerated display case, an elevated island of colorful fresh fruit.

The new sights and smells at SAP Foods are manifestations of other changes at the co-op that are less obvious, including an evolving relationship between SAP Foods on Raymond and its partner co-op with the same name on Cleveland (the two stores are commonly known as "SAP Too" and "SAP I," respectively). These signs of vitality are also the result of adaptations that both co-ops are making to the economic and social conditions of the 1980's.

"We want to offer people an easier store to shop in so that their shopping experience is a pleasure," said Helen Dufault, one of SAP Too's five staff coordinators. "Shoppers want cleanliness, orderliness and convenience," she continued. "That's why we're expanding our deli section, offering more packaged foods, adding more attractive displays and making sure that the produce always looks good."

To accomplish these ends, SAP Too has plans to refurbish and expand its kitchen, adding two sinks that will bring the food preparation area up to health department standards. Further plans call for a second cash register to be purchased along with a check-out counter that will have a built-in bakery display case. The counter and additional register will also create a new "express" check-out lane, an accommodation to the new breed of co-op shopper: the person on a lunch break from work who drops in for a cup of soup and a sandwich.

"People who come in regularly for groceries tend to be a different crowd from the noon lunch shoppers, though I've noticed that someone who drops in for a sandwich a few times may begin to explore our special ethnic foods after a while," Dufault said. "We also have been catering more and more to those with special dietary needs—people on salt-free diets or who are looking for foods low in sugar or made without wheat."

The financial health that has enabled SAP Too to make these changes can be traced in part to a decision made in March of 1986 by the SAP Foods board of directors. At that time, facing an economic climate increasingly dominated by convenience stores and large discount food chains with well stocked health-food sections, both of the SAP Foods stores were in financial trouble. Memberships and volunteer involvement were declining and costs were beginning to exceed income. In response, the board decided to give the two co-ops a greater degree of financial and managerial autonomy while preserving their association with the board and a shared public identity.

After weathering a lean transition period of staff cutbacks, both co-ops have responded positively to the change in policy. Though less successful than its larger partner, SAP I has been able to keep operations in the black, accumulating enough profit in recent months to purchase a new freezer. Efforts at SAP I to improve customer service include free customer parking now available behind the store and plans—given a good showing at membership renewal time in January—to implement some of the changes that SAP Too is

Editorial

It's your money

"Put your money where your mouth is," my mother used to admonish me. In South St. Anthony Park the adage could well be reversed. Tax money allows city governmental departments to do their work. Since our money is already there, we might as well tell the people charged with the distribution of that money what our priorities are.

Currently things are up for grabs at the South St. Anthony Park Rec Center. There's a big question about who will eventually manage the building— Parks and Recreation or Municipal Athletics. But management is only part of the issue. The immediate question is, What should be happening in the building? What sort of programming should come of the 1100 program hours assigned to the facility?

District 12 and Parks and Rec are co-sponsoring a meeting October 8. It's a meeting designed expressly to give neighbors a chance to talk. It's a meeting called to tell the people using our tax money for youth and athletic programming how to use it.

Improvement of services at the Rec Center is a priority of the mayor's Better Neighborhoods Program. That priority was based on District 12 Community Council's evaluation of neighborhood needs. But all that will result from that goal-setting is frustration over misused money if neighborhood residents don't show up at the Oct. 8 meeting to clarify how athletic, social and educational programming could help them, their kids and their neighbors.

Your money is already there. Now's the time to put your mouth to work telling city agencies what's needed. Now's the time to tell city leaders how to spend your money.

A word about Grantham

Dear Editor:

Your interesting article on the origins of street names in the Park did less than justice to Grantham, which is described as "a village in England near London." Grantham is an old town in Lincolnshire with a population of about 30,000 and is over 100 miles from London. It is appropriate for this town to give its name to a street in the vicinity of the University campus. Sir Isaac Newton was educated at the King's School, Grantham which by then was already 300 years old: it is still an independent boys' grammar school. Newton came of farming stock and was the first in his family to be able to write. Anyone interested in physics and mathetics would find pleasure in a visit to the stone farmhouse at Woolsthorpe, six miles north of Grantham, where many of Newton's possessions can be seen. It was in the garden there where his attention was said to have been caught by a falling apple.

St. Wulfram's parish church in Grantham is described in Collin's Guide (ed. by John Betjeman) as "one of the most important town churches in England from the architectural point of view...[which]...must have been a wonderful sight in the 15th century." Externally, its great glory is the magnificent 14th century tower and spire. This can be seen from express trains traveling between London and York or Edinburgh; other trains from King's Cross station stop at Grantham.

October, 1987

Dear readers:

Over the past year, the Park Bugle has featured front page stories about the St. Anthony Park centennial, a 500-mile bike ride, a Lauderdale band concert, the changing Falcon Heights businesses, Arny Delger's 50 years of healthcare delivery and the new ParkBank building—all activities important to the vitality of the communities we serve.

These stories and others like them are written by writers mostly from our neighborhoods. In fact many of us know them well enough to say, "Hi, nice job on that piece in the Bugle."

The Twin Cities Neighborhood Press Association recognized these writers. Warren Hanson placed first in the Best Illustration category, second in the Best Column category and second in the Best Ad division. Truman Olson placed second in the News Photo section. John Shepard won first place for the Best Historical Feature category. Nancy Haley received honorable mention for a photo.

The Park Bugle is in the midst of its annual fund drive. As I mentioned in my letter to those of you who get your Bugle in the mail, "Your annual support makes up the difference between what we receive from our advertisers and the cost of publication...Most of the income for the Park Bugle comes from advertising (85%) but your contributions (13%) are essential to make up most of the rest."

We also need those of you who pick up your Bugle to renew your support of the paper by mailing the clip-out coupon below with your contribution. We hope to increase our contributions by 7% over last year's total. One of the reasons for this increase is the expense of the fire in the Bugle office and our subsequent relocation to the Healy Building.

You make it possible to publish the Park Bugle each month. We think the writers and staff do an outstanding job with the opportunity you give them. We hope you agree and will renew your support.

The Parade of Garages

by Warren Hanson

Did you miss the Parade of Garages a couple of weeks ago? If you did, it's too bad. It was really something.

You weren't the only one who missed it, though. The turnout was pretty disappointing. But there wasn't much publicity for the event. There was one small notice in the classified section of The Bugle between an ad for a home handyman and the announcement of the Fall Festival at the Congregational Church. The notice read as follows:

St. Anthony Park Parade of Garages, this Thursday evening, 6:30 p.m. Meet at the hardware store.

I have always had an academic interest in garages as architecture, so I went down to the hardware store at 6:30 on Thursday, along with a few other guys from the neighborhood who had raced through supper, skipped dessert, and left their families sitting at the tables shaking their heads. (I say "a few other guys" because the group was entirely male. It was very apparent to me, and it should come as no surprise to you, that the American garage has yet to be liberated.)

Stu McIntosh handed out maps of the parade route, and the small knot of garage aficionados was off for an evening of alley aesthetics.

Our first stop was a stunner, a brand new two-car behind a house on Chelmsford. We didn't need our map to find it. It was the only garage on the block with chamber music lilting from its open door. The proud owner had borrowed his son's boom box and tuned it to public radio for the occasion. He met us at the door with a tray of little sandwiches. A cookie cutter had been employed to cut white bread into stars and moons, and processed cheese spread tinted green and red with food coloring had been squirted on top with a cake decorator. "Ordure?" he asked, obviously pleased with himself for getting the tour started on such a lofty note.

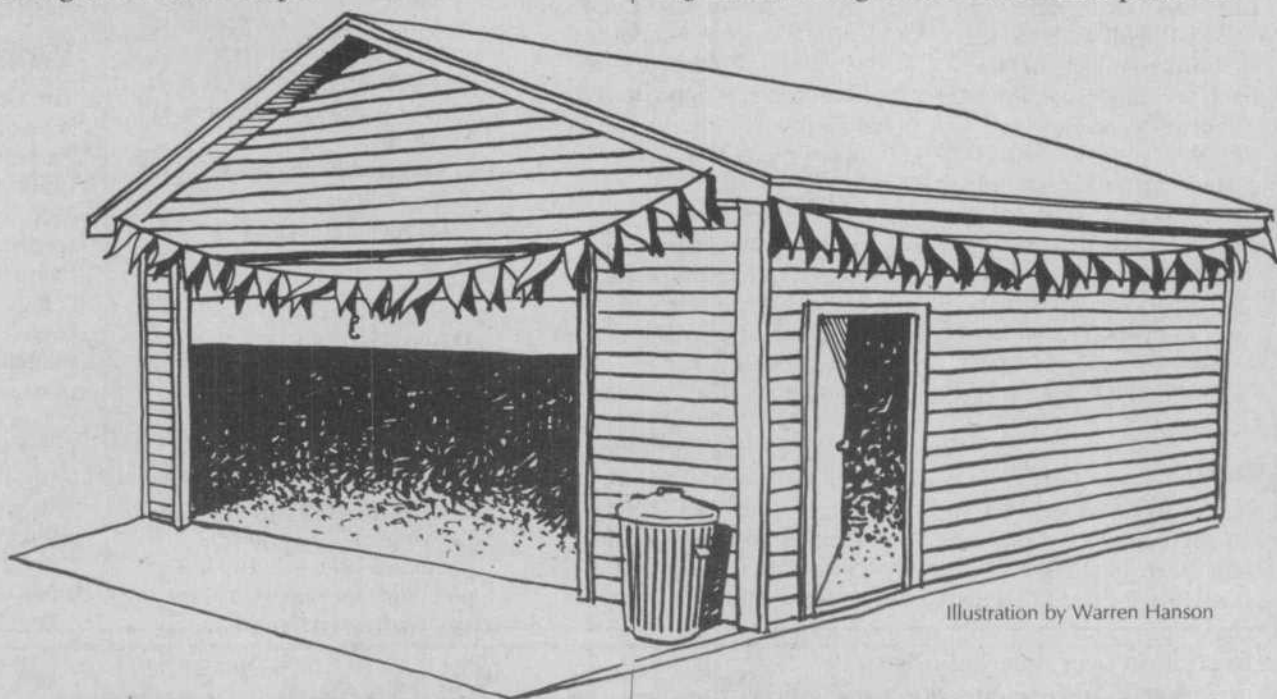

Inside the garage was like a gallery. On the left-hand wall were the garden tools, each hanging on a plastic-coated hook, in an orderly row. In front of this display was one of those velvet-covered ropes suspended between two chrome posts, like they have at the White House, which gave the message in the most highfalutin way, "Look, but don't touch." A few from our group went over to study the arrangement, as though it were the Mona Lisa. On the front wall, roped off like the garden tools, was the peg-board. Each hammer, each screwdriver, folding gun and hack saw, was perfectly hung by a little metal hook. And behind each tool, painted on the peg-board was a precise silhouette of the tool that belonged there, so that there would be no mistaking where each tool belonged when its task was done.

There were two velvet ropes along the right-hand wall, one for the mower and one for the snow-blower, both of which had obviously been recently steam-cleaned and waxed.

We gratefully bade our first host adieu and moved up the alley, as the strains of a string quartet diminuendoed behind us.

Our next stop was a striking contrast to the first, although just as impressive in its own way. It was a vintage stucco one-car, with all its original equipment. It was owned by a little old lady who only opened it up on Sundays to drive to church. No garden tools here. No mower, no blower. Just a small, low-mileage automobile, carefully centered on a cement floor that had never seen an oil stain, surrounded by walls into whose studs no nail had ever been driven for the hanging of jumper cables. This was a garage in its virgin state, the way nature meant it to be. As we stood there in respectful awe, not one of us uttered a sound. We knew that this garage deserved silent respect. It was the same feeling I imagine I would have upon seeing the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

And speaking of paint jobs, the next garage on our list was in the alley between Hendon and Buford. It was a garage that made a bold statement about its owner. For covering the entire double door was a painting of a scene, done in gaudy oranges and purples, of a deer hunter heroically bagging a buck at sunset in the woods of northern Minnesota. Inside, the walls were bedecked with hunting trophies, the lifeless heads of deer and moose and bear. The roof trusses were stuffed with fishing gear, canoe paddles, and ammo boxes. There was a calendar next to the door, with a picture of a scantily-clad young lady holding a high-powered rifle. And parked in the midst of all this monument to macho was a four-wheel-drive vehicle of such obviously enormous power that it had to be chained to the floor, lest it get loose and terrorize the neighborhood. It was black as death, with a row of yellow lights on the roof for spotting wild game in the dark. The artillery which was usually displayed in the gun rack in the window had been removed at the request of the parade organizers. And the tires looked like they could take the voracious, venomous, vitriolic vehicle up and over anything (or anyone) standing in its way. This garage was not for the faint of heart. I was relieved to move on.

Our maps directed us over to Grantham Street, to what was described on our sheets as "a tidy little tuck-under." But when we got there we found that what once had been a garage had been turned into a family room. The garage door had been replaced with a cinder block wall, with an aluminum storm door and smallish picture window stuck artlessly into it. There was general grumbling among the group, and the consensus was that this one should never have been included in the Parade of Garages. Then one of the group said he thought that it belonged to the brother-in-law of one of the parade organizers, who was a realtor, and that the house was going to be for sale soon, and we all realized that this was his way of giving the property some advance exposure to the market. But it backfired, because we all walked away muttering some fairly unpleasant things about the garage and the house and the brother-in-law and the realtor and realtor's ancestors.

We were all glad to see that the next garage on the list was one that we had all looked forward to. It belongs to one of the most successful guys in the neighborhood. He's an advertising executive and makes tons of money and has an office on top of a big office building in downtown Minneapolis with windows all around. And he has nine secretaries and his wife is an attorney and they vacation on Maui every winter and his kids go to private schools. Well, you know what? His garage is nothing special! Plain white door, plain lap siding, plain gable roof. Of course, inside it he keeps two matching sports cars that were hand-made in Belgium, but the garage is nothing special at all. We all felt kind of good about that.

The last garage on the list was mine. Now my garage is nothing special either. In fact, the rest of the group pointed that out to me in no uncertain terms. One said that the garage door was the cheapest one available at Builder's Barn. Someone else pointed out that the siding is the kind of stuff molded out of some sort of paste. They all wanted to know why I had thought my garage deserved to be in the Parade of Garages.

Well, the truth is that I don't think my garage deserved to be in the Parade of Garages. But when I first had heard about the event, I had been shrewd enough to volunteer my own garage for the finale. You see, I knew that by the time we got to the end of the list it would be pretty dark, and I didn't want to walk home alone.

Letters

Thanks for the flowers

Dear Editor:
Congratulations and thank you to Park businesses! I can't recall when the planters and odd nooks and corners of outdoor space have been more attractive than this summer along Como Ave. in the business area. The excellent choice of varieties of flowers is evident, as is the continuing care which they have been given. These mini-gardens enhance the architecture and design of the setting. I hope that we individually take the opportunity to walk in and say "thank you" to our merchants. Look around as you walk along Como.

Community resource person sought

The St. Anthony Park/Merriam Park Community Education Program is seeking a responsible person to coordinate the Community Resource Program at St. Anthony Park Elementary School. The general goal of this program is to enrich the learning experience of students in the regular educational programs by expanding and improving the use of human and physical resources potentially available within the community.

The position is available immediately, entails a self-directed flexible schedule of approximately 12 hours/week, with salary established by the school district as an hourly rate.

Inquiries should be directed to David Larson, St. Anthony Park Elementary School, 293-8738. Applications will be accepted through Oct. 15.

Theologian to preach

Dr. Gabriel Fackre, Abbot Professor of Christian Theology at Andover Newton Theological School, Newton Center, MA, will be the preacher at the installation service of Dr. Patrick Green as senior minister of St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ, 2129 Commonwealth Ave., Sun., Oct. 25, 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend this celebration.

The church celebrated its centennial last year and Patrick Green will be the 12th senior minister in the church's history.

Dr. Fackre's widely read first volume of The Christian Story

(Eerdmans, 1978) appeared in enlarged and revised form in 1985, confirming him as one of the foremost ecumenical theologians in the country. He completed work on the second volume of his systematic theology, Authority and Revelation, the following year.

Shopping spree

Minnesota Fare SHARE (Self Help and Resource Exchange), a project of Ramsey Action Programs, Inc., is holding a SHARE-O-RAMA and invites all Fare SHARE participants and the general public to a shopping spree being held at the Fare SHARE warehouse, 807 Hampden Ave., Oct. 2-3, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission is free, free parking is available. Refreshments will be sold.

SHARE-O-RAMA is an opportunity for the host sites and other friends of Fare SHARE to display and offer to the public their specialties such as craft, bakery, collectible and rummage items. The 50,000 square foot warehouse will be transformed into a large shopping bazaar.

Fare SHARE food packages typically contain 15-20 items consisting of meat, vegetables, fruits and staples for which the participants pay $12 in cash or food stamps and work two hours in volunteer community service. The food packages are registered for and picked up at local community host distribution sites. St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church is such a site.

Language classes

A French language class for seniors is offered on Thurs. afternoons from 1-2:30 p.m. for six sessions starting Oct. 15 at the International Institute of Minnesota (IIM), 1694 Como Ave.

Classes for ages 55 and over in English as a Second Language, French, German, Japanese, Spanish and Swedish are held once a week in the afternoons between Oct. 13 and Nov. 17 as well. Focus is on basic communication skills and discussion of customs and culture.

Wynia & Marty Oct. 26

State Representative Ann Wynia and Senator John Marty have scheduled a town meeting for Mon., Oct. 26, 7:30-9 p.m. The meeting, which is open to all area residents, will be held in the auditorium of the Merriam Park Community Center, 2000 St. Anthony Ave.

The town meeting will give participants the opportunity to ask questions about legislation and discuss a wide range of issues with their legislators. As Rep. Wynia pointed out, "every legislative session we address thousands of issues. It really helps to have public input on these matters."

Sen. Marty agreed emphasizing, "this is a good opportunity for people to let us know how they feel about different issues—that's why I encourage everyone to attend."

CPR class

A CPR (Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation) class will be conducted at St. Anthony Park Elementary School on Sat., Oct. 10 and 17, 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. This class is open to anyone age 13 and over, including adults, who desires to become Red Cross certified or recertified in CPR or who just wants to learn the techniques of this lifesaving measure. The fee is $15. Registrations will be taken at the Community Education Office, 293-8738.

Films for kids

Free films for children will be shown in October at the St. Anthony Park Branch Library, 2245 Como Ave. On Fri., Oct. 16, at 3:30 p.m. see "A Pocket for Corduroy" and "The Remarkable, Riderless, Runaway Tricycle" and on Fri., Oct. 23 at 3:30 p.m. "Winnie the Pooh & a Day for Eeyore" and "The Wizard" will be shown.

For ages 5-12, the IIM will be offering classes in French, German, Italian, Japanese, Spanish and Swedish from Oct. 3-Nov. 14. Those classes, providing immersion in the new language, are held on Sat. mornings from 10-11:30 a.m. The curriculum includes greetings, commands, numbers, colors, body parts, clothing, animals and food. In addition classes in conversational Spanish are available for the same age group at the same time.

Call 647-0191 for information on any of the classes.

United Way at Commonwealth

On Oct. 12-16 Commonwealth Healthcare Center will celebrate United Way Week. In support of this fine organization, a fund raiser will be going on throughout the week at the home.

On Mon., Oct. 12, the week will be kicked off by guest speaker Karl Kassulke at 2 p.m. and again at 3 p.m. There will be a film and refreshments as well. A special invitation is extended to the community of St. Anthony Park to support and attend this special day in honor of United Way. For further information, contact Paula Arnold, 646-7486.

Country Festival

St. Anthony Park Methodist Church will hold its annual Country Festival on Sat., Oct. 24, 9:30 a.m.-7:30 p.m. "Come and enjoy the festival and find arts, crafts, baked goods, food stuffs, antiques and collectibles," say the organizers. Morning and afternoon refreshments as well as lunch will be offered to shoppers. Child care is available from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. for children five and under. The day will end with an old-fashioned roast turkey dinner. First seating is at 4:30 p.m.; second seating is at 6 p.m. Cost of the dinner is $5.50 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

Community Service Awards

St. Anthony Park Association (SAPA) presented its Aug. and Sept. Community Service Awards to Jean Carlson, manager of Speedy Market, and to Joan Dow-Styve, past president of the organization.

Pointing out that virtually all St. Anthony Park residents at one time or another read Speedy Market's bulletin board out of curiosity or necessity, SAPA was showing appreciation to Carlson for having literally saved this neighborhood opportunity. Architects for the store's renovation had done away with the board. Carlson required the plans to be redrawn, stating that it is a 'community necessity.'

Dow-Styve was commended for her unique efforts which have revitalized SAPA's leadership role in the community and also for her numerous other activities which contribute to the quality of life in St. Anthony Park.

The Community Service Award was initiated in July by Dow-Styve when the first award was presented to Margot Monson. Suggestions and nominations for recipients of the award are invited and should be directed to any member of the SAPA board of directors.

Computers in St. Anthony Park

Judy and Wells Anderson, residents of St. Anthony Park, will be featured at the St. Anthony Park Association dinner meeting Tues., Oct. 13 held at the United Church of Christ at Chelmsford St. and Commonwealth Avenue.

They are well-qualified to explore the influence of computers in education, homes and business and to discuss what they see in the future. Judy has developed and published software in the educational field. She has received the Certificate of Merit as National Electronic Learning Educator of the Year for programs for four to eight year olds. She is now an assistant principal at Richfield Intermediate School where she is adapting programs in mastering management. Wells is a lawyer in the insurance field and is developing and modernizing programs in that field. They will demonstrate computer applications during the program.

Dinner will be served at 5:50 p.m. and the program will begin at 7 p.m. Members will be called for dinner reservations. Non-members may call 647-9104 for reservations by Sun. evening, Oct. 11. If you must cancel, please call the same number. Dinner costs $4.25. Children under 12 are half price. Free child care is provided and should be arranged for when making reservations.

Be a supporter... be a member

Be sure you have joined or renewed membership with the Association so you will have a role in supporting our Association's activities serving the community.

Next month

Mark your calendars for Nov. 10 when St. Anthony Park resident and popular author Marjorie DeBoer will discuss her experiences writing four popular novels including her most recent book, A Duet for My Lady, being released by Warner Books in Oct. Other upcoming programs include our Dec. 8 holiday dinner and musical event and the Jan. 12 presentation by David Lanegran and Judy Flinn of the new book about historical development of St. Anthony Park. We are repeating the popular progressive dinner in Feb.

Youth credits environmental learning experience with saving life

Hans Neve is home in St. Anthony Park safe and sound. Now he can reflect on his summer adventures in the wilderness.

By Sandra Keifert

Hans Neve of St. Anthony Park, a 15-year-old backpacker, credits his life to the Environmental Learning Center (ELC) located in Isabella, MN. On July 12, Neve was separated from his backpacking group in the Colorado Rockies. He decided to camp on his own using the skills he learned at the Environmental Learning Center.

The authorities were notified of Neve's absence by one of the group leaders and another backpacker. The Search and Rescue Team was alerted, but their search the night of the twelfth was unsuccessful. The next morning the group was greeted by Neve, who had made his way back in the early morning hours.

His adventure began at 10 a.m. when he and six other backpackers left Sky Ranch, located approximately sixty miles from Fort Collins, Colorado, for a Rocky Mountain trail. Around 4 p.m. the weary backpackers decided to make camp. While the others were resting Neve couldn't sleep. He could see and hear a river that he had spotted earlier on the trail map. He decided to walk down to the enticingly cool water.

The mile excursion to the river was exhausting. "I couldn't make it back up. I hadn't had any dinner. I've never been so tired in my life," said Neve.

Knowing that he probably couldn't get back to camp that evening, he made a small hut out of logs and pine branches. The hut was large enough so he could "just squeeze in there and keep warm." (In this region the temperature often drops down to 32° at night.) Neve then went in search of food. He discovered some "old man's beard" and ate three handfuls. He said, "It was one of the worst things I have ever eaten."

When darkness settled in Neve was certain that he didn't want to attempt returning to camp, since "you can get killed doing that."

Meanwhile one of the group leaders and another backpacker walked all the way back to Sky Ranch to notify the authorities that Neve was missing. The volunteer Search and Rescue Team was alerted, and they promptly began their arduous task. They examined Neve's tinfoil imprints of both his tennis and hiking shoes. Two teams of dogs and a helicopter were alerted.

While the team searched through the night, Neve had a nightmare. He dreamt that he was rescued by a helicopter; however, the rope connecting him to the helicopter broke, leaving him to plunge down onto the ground.

Despite his nightmare and precarious situation, Neve woke up the next morning with a positive attitude. He spotted something familiar, five grey rock ledges. He knew that the trail lay beyond this rock obstacle. Neve said, "I didn't consider myself lost. I knew where I was, it was just a matter of getting back. I was so tired."

Neve scaled one ledge at a time, resting at each ledge. He knew he had to be cautious. "If I slipped and fell I probably wouldn't have stopped until I got to the river," he said.

Around 8 a.m. Neve nonchalantly walked into camp. A Search and Rescue man in hunting orange said, "Hey! That looks like Hans." He could hardly believe Neve's fortitude.

Neve arrived hungry, thirsty and happy. He had only a few cuts and bruises. He was given lots of oatmeal, water, hot chocolate, and some urgently needed rest. After 15 hours of separation, he still decided to go on with his group.

Although Neve was not a tenderfoot, his survival is impressive. In fact, he credits his life to the Environmental Learning Center (ELC) located in Isabella, MN, 250 miles north of the Twin Cities. Neve said, "Isabella probably saved my life."

Neve, like many other fifth and sixth graders from St. Anthony Park Elementary School, participated in the Environmental Learning Center's program. The elementary school has been participating for fifteen years.

The ELC has full-time naturalists and part-time graduate students teaching a variety of courses. St. Anthony Park parents and teachers also teach. When Neve was at Isabella he took classes about edible foods, ropes, wall climbing, orienteering, tree identification, Chippewa Indians, canoeing and survival. Neve learned many techniques at the ELC that made it possible for him to survive. He learned to make his "just squeeze in there and keep warm" shelter in his survival class. Neve also said, "I probably would have tried to cross the river or something dumb like that if it wasn't for Isabella."

Neve is not alone in praising the Isabella program. Blanche Burroughs, a St. Anthony Park teacher and chief organizer of the trip, says the Isabella experience is a highlight of each year. "It's probably one of the best positive impact experiences I can provide," said Mrs. Burroughs.

She lauds the program for the social and educational experiences it provides. "Isabella creates a team feeling that is felt throughout the entire year." The ELC also provides in depth environmental science skills that many 'city kids' would normally never experience. This year 5th and 6th graders will be at ELC Oct. 5-9.

Funding for the Isabella program comes from various sources. Each fourth of July there is a chicken BBQ. In the fall students sell Happenings booklets. St. Anthony Park Elementary School has even received a grant from the Dayton Hudson Corporation. Some families have given memorials to the Isabella program in remembrance of their son or daughter.

The cost increases each year. Last year the entire program, including transportation, cost one hundred dollars. Parents pay according to their ability. Some even donate money.

The continuance of the Isabella program depends entirely upon fund raising. The ELC experience is, in the minds of students, teachers and parents, critical. As Mrs. Neve said, "Isabella saved his life. I want that experience for all the kids at St. Anthony Park school."

Seminary president installed

The Service of Installation for the Rev. David L. Tiede, Ph. D., president of Luther Northwestern Theological Seminary (LNTS) is scheduled for Sun., Oct. 18, 4 p.m. at Central Lutheran Church in downtown Minneapolis.

The Rev. Dr. David Preus, general president of The American Lutheran Church will deliver the sermon and conduct the rite of installation. He will be assisted by the Rev. James Crumley, Jr., presiding bishop of the Lutheran Church in America, and the Rev. Will Herzfeld, bishop of The Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

A reception will follow the service at Central Lutheran Church in the parish hall. The public is welcome to attend both the service and the reception.

Dr. Tiede was named president of Luther Northwestern by the LNTS Board of Directors on May 30, 1987. He assumed the position Aug. 15. Tiede, a nationally-known theologian, author and lecturer, has been a member of the LNTS faculty since 1971.

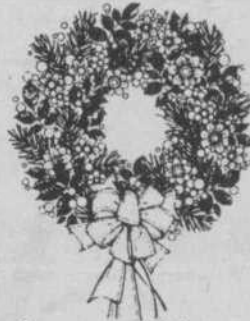

Luther Northwestern Theological Seminary is a seminary of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and is the largest Lutheran seminary in the United States.

RESPONSIVE EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP

Prepared by Volunteers for Sonnen, Marcy Leland, Treasurer, 2078 Temple Ct., St. Paul, MN 55104

How to succeed in looking for a church by really trying

1. Ask the minister how the church serves your community, our nation and people overseas.
2. Ask what you can do to help in these programs.
3. Ask how the church will help you and your family know and live the Christian faith.
4. Ask the church school to show how it can really educate your children.
5. Visit a Sunday morning worship service.
6. Drop in at the coffee hour afterward and get acquainted.
7. Start now.

We'll be glad to talk with you. We are the United Church of Christ, a people-alive church, 1.75 million members strong; come join us—for worship and church school, 10 a.m. this Sunday—as we journey together toward the twenty-first century.

Project Insulate holds meetings

Have you insulated your sidewalls? Attic? Crawl space? Rim joist? Have you sealed leaks in your attic and ceilings? Are your windows and doors caulked and weatherstripped? Is your home free from drafts and ice dams?

If you answered "NO" to any of these questions, your home does not meet minimum energy standards. Luckily, a new program is under way to help you upgrade your home's energy efficiency and bring it up to standard.

Project Insulate is a comprehensive energy service soon to be offered in the St. Anthony Park area. The program includes neighborhood workshops, free home energy audits, low interest financing, guaranteed contractors, and infrared inspections. Sponsored by the City of St. Paul Better Neighborhoods Program, Project Insulate is making its debut in District 12 this fall.

The program begins with free workshops that will provide information on common energy problems and solutions which will help you make your home more comfortable and energy efficient.

Energy audits, scheduled at the workshops, can provide you with further details about your home's specific energy "problem areas." The audits are performed by trained energy professionals certified by the State of Minnesota. After making a thorough inspection of your home, the auditor will write actual bid specifications for any recommended energy improvements so you will know exactly what needs to be done.

If you decide to proceed with the auditor's recommendations, Project Insulate will provide guaranteed contractors who have agreed to perform a high standard of work at reduced cost to program participants. All work is guaranteed and the program features post-installation infrared inspections to assure high quality work. Any work not meeting the program's standards will be corrected by the contractor at no charge.

Finally, to help finance energy improvements, low interest MHFA loans—with no income limits—will be available at 8% interest. You can borrow up to $5,000 with up to 5 years to repay. The Project Insulate staff will be available to guide you through the process from start to finish, making it easy and inexpensive to prepare for the coming winter heating season.

Project Insulate was developed by the Energy Resource Center and the Neighborhood Energy Consortium. These two nonprofit agencies have been working together since 1981 to provide a variety of energy services to St. Paul residents.

The workshops and audits are free. A service fee is collected to help cover the costs of the guaranteed contractor and infrared inspections portions of the program.

Project Insulate will hold workshops in each of the 16 residential planning districts in St. Paul over the coming year. The program is scheduled to kick off in District 12 the second week in October. Introductory workshops will be held at the Lutheran Campus Ministry Building at 1407 Cleveland Avenue North on Thurs., Oct. 15 at 7 p.m. and on Sat., Oct. 17 at 9 a.m.

The meetings last approximately 60 minutes. Refreshments and free child care will be provided. You must be registered to attend. To register for one of the workshops or to learn more about Project Insulate, call the Energy Resource Center at 227-7847.

SUNDAY BRUNCH:

A TRUE STORY

Wanna hear a wonderful food story—almost a fairy tale, except it's true? OK. It's one of those Sunday mornings like they don't make anymore. You head over to one of your favorite haunts, Muffuletta In The Park. There you encounter, to your virtually unbearable delight:

Orange or Spicy Tomato Juice • Homemade Muffins & Caramel Nut Rolls • Fresh, Fresh Fruit • Eggs Benedict • Eggs Florentine Carbona • Crispy Vegetables & Homemade Dressings • Sherried Mushroom Bisque • Pasta Salads • Pan-roasted Chicken with Wild Mushrooms • Pacific Salmon, Poached in White Wine Served with Dill Sauce • Fettuccine Alfredo • Homemade Sweet and Tangy Lemon Sherbet

All that served in an elegant setting and for only $10.95; Your little folk, $5.95. Isn't that a terrific story? No villain, not a lot to think about, happy ending. Good family entertainment.

Brunch at Muffuletta: 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sundays

Quarterly Arts Calendar

By St. Anthony Park
Arts Forum

This is the first effort at a quarterly calendar covering arts in St. Anthony Park, so if your favorite event is skipped, please accept our apologies.

Drama/Literary

Patchwork Theater—"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," Murray Junior High School, Oct. 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 24 at 8 p.m. and Oct. 18 and 25 at 2 p.m. Tickets $6 adults, $5 children and seniors. This theater just moved to St. Anthony Park and this is its first production here.

Books—Marjorie DeBoer is going to have a busy time this fall. She'll be autographing her new book, "A Duet for My Lady" at Books Underground, St. Paul Campus, Oct. 8, 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. The St. Anthony Park Arts Forum and St. Anthony Park Writers' Workshop will also sponsor a reading and autographing event for Marj at the St. Anthony Park Library Community Room, Oct. 11 at 3:30 p.m. On Nov. 10 at 5:30 p.m. she will speak at the St. Anthony Park Association meeting.

Music

St. Anthony Park Community Chorus began its new year with vocal interviews in Sept. The group rehearses every Tues. at 7:15 p.m. at Murray Junior High School. The chorus will be giving the Christmas program at the St. Anthony Park Association meeting Dec. 8, 5:30 p.m. For more information about the chorus call Mary Jane Munson, 644-2321.

Music in the Park—The series begins Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. at St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ with Romuald Tecco, violin, and Dennis Russell Davies, piano. Those who know this fine series will be glad to know that season tickets will be available soon. For more information call Julie Himmelstrup, 644-4234.

Visual arts

Raymond Avenue Gallery is currently showing Jerald Kreps' paper objects, along with the works of 13 others who are regularly shown at the gallery. A show of baskets by Char Ter Best, Rise Petersons and Delores Boyer opens Nov. 20. The gallery is run by Joseph Brown at 761 Raymond Ave., and is open Mon.-Fri., 10 a.m.-4 p.m.; Sat., noon-4 p.m.

After School Art is sponsored by Community Education/Minnesota Museum of Art from 3:45-5 p.m. on Mondays at St. Anthony Park Elementary School. For more information call 293-8738.

Peter Leach's classes in pottery, creativity and haiku will begin in Oct. You can find him in the studio Tues. evenings and Wed. mornings. A brochure for classes is available by writing to Peter Leach, 2325 Endicott St., #209, St. Paul, MN 55114 or by calling 642-1735.

Minnesota Weavers Guild will sponsor its annual Fiber Fair at Bandana Square, Nov. 6, 7 and 8. There will be handwoven scarves, rugs and garments. Call 644-3594, 9 a.m.-noon, Mon.-Fri. for information.

Goldstein Gallery will open a graduate student show called "Seventeen New Designers Emerging" to run from Oct. 18-Dec. 15. The gallery is located in McNeal Hall on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota and is open from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri. and 1:30-4:30 p.m. Sat. and Sun.

Do you know of something that will be happening in St. Anthony Park in the arts in Jan., Feb. or March? Music at your church? A quartet? A meeting of jazz enthusiasts? Book clubs? A drama group that reads together? A meeting of a bead society? We want to know it all, so please call Cathy Daly, 646-1911, or Pat O'Connor, 646-3520. The deadline for the next calendar will be Dec. 11.

WELCOME TO WONDERFUL ST. ANTHONY PARK

The Park is not just a place to live, it's a very special way of life. Quaint shoppes, winding and wooded streets, interesting neighbors, and lovely older homes are just some of the special features of our neighborhood.

Knudsen Realty Company sells the vast majority of the homes sold here. Many of the sales are made to people who have contacted us and allowed us to keep their names on our waiting list. When a new home becomes available, we immediately contact the people on our list so they may be among the first to view the property.

This somewhat unique and unusual method of doing business has served our customers well. Unlike any other company in town, we specialize in the Park and work here almost exclusively.

If you are interested in a home in the Park, please contact us so that we may stay in touch with you.

Thanks, and Welcome to the Park!

United States Constitution commemorative coins are now available at ParkBank. The gold and silver coins are the only U.S. legal tender keepsakes of the bicentennial of the constitution. The coins are being minted in quantities limited by Congress—a limit of 10 million silver pieces and one million gold.

The legislation that allowed for the commemorative minting provides that a portion of the coin's cost will go toward reducing our national debt. Mint officials expect proceeds from coin sales to contribute about $50 million towards the debt retirement.

Origin of street names in St. Anthony Park—an English legacy

This is a continuation of an article begun in a previous issue that pursues the historical background of street names in St. Anthony Park.

By Art Helland

Langford Park: Nathaniel P. Langford (1832-1911) and his second wife, Clara, were two of the developers of this street in 1885. Born in upstate New York, Langford came to St. Paul in 1854, where he worked in banking. In the 1860s he was Collector of Internal Revenue in Montana during the gold rush days. He organized the expedition that discovered Yellowstone Park. He authored two books about his experiences in the West. In St. Paul, he was the primary organizer of the investors for St. Anthony Park and much of today's Como Ave., as it runs through St. Anthony Park, was formerly Langford Ave. Langford died one of St. Paul's most colorful and respected citizens.

Larpenteur: Originally Minneapolis Ave., the name was changed by the City Council in 1904. Auguste L. Larpenteur (1823-1919) was born in Baltimore, grandson of a French emigre. As a young man, he moved to St. Louis and subsequently to St. Paul in 1843 as one of its first twelve settlers. He helped lay out the original city and claimed 160 acres in the Midway, near Lexington Parkway and University Ave., which he sold to his uncle Eugene who farmed it. Engaged in the fur trading and merchandising business, Larpenteur built his family home in 1860 near what is today Dale St. and Interstate 94, and called it the "Anchorage." He spoke French, English and several Indian languages; he moved, thought and acted quickly; and was well regarded by all who knew him. In the later years of his life, he was the oldest living settler in St. Paul, and it was for this reason that the street was renamed in his honor.

Long: Originally Sidney St., the name was changed in 1886. Origin unknown.

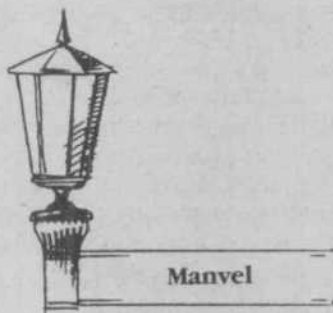

Ludlow: Previously Nourse St. The name was changed in 1940.

Luther Place: Previously Grantham St. The name was changed in 1938 because of the street's proximity to Luther Seminary, known today as Luther Northwestern Seminary.

Manvel: Allen Manvel of St. Paul was general manager of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway whose tracks ran through St. Anthony Park near this street. After applying this street name in 1885, Manvel moved to Chicago in 1891.

Myrtle: The popularity of this name at the time led to its naming in 1881.

Pearl: Opened as Pym Street. The name was changed in 1910.

Pelham: This boulevard was named in 1887, like many other street names in the area, for a resort village near New York City, in Westchester County bordering on Long Island Sound. At that time, the village contained a number of elegant country houses, an association which made it a desirable street name, a status name so to speak. Pillsbury: Originally Main St., the name was changed in 1886. This name may refer to Charles F. Pillsbury (1828-1888), a lawyer engaged in the real estate business. Born in Maine, he moved to Minneapolis in 1854 and was subsequently in business with Allan and Eustis, real estate dealers in this area. This name should not be confused with the founder of the Pillsbury flour company.

Priscilla: Priscilla Mullens was the wife of John Alden. Their names are immortalized in The Courtship of Miles Standish by Longfellow, a popular poem when this street was named in 1885. Longfellow died in 1882.

Raleigh: Sir Walter Raleigh (circa 1552-1618), an English military and naval commander, made several early explorations of North America. He was a popular figure when this street was named in 1885.

Raymond: Bradford P. Raymond (1846-1916) was a college president when this street was named in 1885. Born in Connecticut, he was a student at Hamline University after the Civil War. He was elected president of Lawrence University, Appleton, WI, serving from 1883-1889, and was later president of Wesleyan University in Middletown, CT.

Robbins: Daniel M. Robbins (1830-1905) was a leading businessman in St. Paul when this street was named in 1885. He had large investments in real estate and was very active in the organization of the Minnesota Transfer Co., near the street bearing his name. Robbins was also president of the Northwestern Elevator Co. which owned more than a hundred elevators along the Great Northern Railway tracks.

Scudder: The Rev. John L. Scudder was pastor of the First Congregational Church of Minneapolis when this street was named in 1885. He most likely had a financial interest in the property.

Seal: One of several streets named in 1887 as part of St. Anthony Park South. Probably a personal name.

Seminary: In 1889, the Lutheran Seminary moved from Robbinsdale, MN, to the block at the west end of this street. A large building was constructed for the school facing on Englewood Ave. and Horton Park. The following year this street was renamed Seminary Ave. In 1917, the Lutheran Seminary united with two others and formed Luther Theological Seminary on Como Ave. in St. Anthony Park. In 1973, the site of the earlier seminary was bought by the St. Paul Housing and Redevelopment Authority who demolished the old buildings and constructed a public housing project for the elderly. The seminary is now known as Luther Northwestern Seminary, as the result of yet another merger.

Standish: Miles Standish (1584-1656), whose romance involving John Alden and Priscilla Mullens was recorded in Longfellow's poem The Courtship of Miles Standish, served as inspiration for this 1885 street name.

Tainter: Andrew Tainter (1823-1899) and his wife, Bertha, were investors in St. Anthony Park when this street was named in 1885. Born in Salina, New York, Tainter settled at Menomonie, WI, in 1846 where he later became a partner with John H. Knapp in what developed into one of the largest lumbering corporations in the world. He was an investor in St. Anthony Park but never lived in Minnesota.

Territorial: Congress appropriated money to the War Dept. in 1850 for the construction of a road from Point Douglas, via Cottage Grove, Red Rock, St. Paul and the Falls of St. Anthony, to Fort Ripley (near New Ulm). Then, as now, good roads were considered a necessary part of national defense. Except for an alley mentioned under Van Buren Ave., all that remains of this early road between the Twin Cities is the few blocks now labeled as Territorial Road. Frances Blake, the fourth grade teacher at Baker School, told the class a very interesting story about Territorial Road. She said the road was the main artery for the Indians and traders traveling from the St. Paul river boat landing to St. Anthony Falls.

University: Because this street first ran between the University of Minnesota and Hamline University, it was given this name in 1874. The establishment of the Minnesota Transfer Yards, however, blocked the course of the street, and it was necessary to shift the eastern end of the avenue one-half mile further south. Thus Melrose Ave. assumed the name of University Ave. and the original University Ave. became Minnehaha Ave.

Valentine: Platted as Pierce St. in 1885, the name was changed in 1940 to avoid duplication. Perhaps some romantic had his or her hand in naming the avenue.

Vandalia: This was a popular and common name when the street was platted in 1881.

Wabash: The river which forms the border between Illinois and Indiana most likely prompted this street name in 1881.

Wycliff: Part of St. Anthony Park, this street was named in 1885 for John Wycliff (1320?-1384), an English religious scholar who, by his criticism of the Roman Catholic Church, sowed the seeds of the later Reformation.

The writer acknowledges with thanks the contribution made to this article by Donald Epsom in granting permission to excerpt from his book, published in 1975, entitled The Street Where You Live, which is a guide to the street names in St. Paul. This book can be purchased for $4.95 plus $2 postage by writing to him at 889 Grand Ave., St. Paul, MN 55105, or by calling 227-5216.

Letters

Congrats & memories

Dear Buglers:

I have recently had the good fortune of seeing several copies of the Park Bugle, and would like to subscribe.

Just to add one additional fact to the memories of Como Ave. from Doswell to Commonwealth—Dr. Normal Bentley and Dr. Albert Brunner were officed above Kusterman's Drugstore following World War I through World War II. Dr. Bentley was a physician. Dr. Brunner was a dentist. They came to St. Anthony Park during World War I and were stationed on the St. Paul Campus with an army cavalry unit that was being trained there.

I congratulate you on an outstanding newspaper and look forward to receiving it. Willard L. Boyd [grant] proposals we did not want to be a parent organization. A decentralized community approach to solving problems is relatively new and the Ford Foundation recognized that." A year ago the program received about $130,000 from the Ford Foundation for replication of the program.

The three-year demonstration project to replicate the Block Nurse Program will provide data from a broader, more representative client base for evaluation of the Program's effectiveness in helping other neighborhoods meet their own needs.

Rohricht says, "We believe there's a great need for this kind of care and we hope by gathering data, to convince policy makers of the extent of that need and that neighborhoods can meet the need by combining formal and informal care."

To date, the Block Nurse Program has been replicated in one community in Oregon. In Minnesota, three metro area communities and one rural community are in various stages of the program's development process. What does it take for a community to succeed in developing a Block Nurse Program of its own? Jamieson answers, "The specific criteria are lengthy, but primarily there has to be community commitment and a history of working together."

What becomes apparent, in looking at the way the Block Nurse Program is structured, is that without responsive government, and without the participation of community members with the knowledge and skill to interlink with the various entities that make up the supports of the program, and without the thousands of hours of volunteer effort, the Block Nurse Program would have been only a dream without direction. Instead, it has become a living, growing model of citizen participation.

Dear Neighbors:

We want to take this opportunity to thank you for the support we each have experienced from our friends and neighbors in the Park. This has contributed to our individual success as well as helping to make our office of Edina Realty the #1 in the St. Paul area.

As you look ahead and contemplate changes, we anticipate serving your real estate needs as your "neighborhood professionals". We have many services to offer you.

- Each of us has lived in the Park a minimum of 14 years.
- We not only specialize in the Park, but are also comfortable beyond this area, being capable of working with you directly or we can make a relocation referral anywhere!
- Our office is conveniently located and open seven days a week.
- Our company is part of two multiple listing services, giving us access to both the St. Paul and Minneapolis real estate properties and companies. We know the multiple listing service is one of the best ways to provide you with a strong marketing impact.
- We offer an in-house magazine, Twin City Homes, with a circulation of 140,000. Response to these ads have proven to be three times as effective as the newspaper classified section.
- Edina Realty also offers professional affiliated organizations in financing and title insurance. These departments have the latest in new programs and technology.
- Most important, you will find us to be totally efficient, highly effective and very enthusiastic.

Please call us if you wish to discuss the value and sale of your home, the best selling season or possible things to do before selling and we will be right over.

Sincerely,

Carol Weber

The Twin Cities Marathon — set for Sunday, Oct. 11 — stands out as a premier event that unites the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul. The First Banks support this spectacular effort by helping sponsor the 26.2-mile race.

We hope you'll be among the thousands of spectators that day, and that you'll keep an eye out for familiar First Bank faces. About 40 employees are running the race, while another 200 employees will supply t-shirts, water, food and information at the finish line.

Put your community first... the United Way

Red and yellow leaves are one sure sign that fall is on its way, and the United Way campaign can't be far behind.

The United Way campaign raises money to meet the health and human care needs of our community. By using over 90 percent of contributed dollars directly to meet those needs, the United Way is one of the most efficient ways to make our dollars work the hardest. That makes good financial sense.

As your business or neighborhood United Way campaign gets underway this fall, consider giving generously.

of campers: explorer, advanced explorer and then, if it's felt one is qualified, voyageur.) "We all had to be certified in CPR, senior lifesaving and first aid," Flinn said, "and we practiced running the rapids at Taylor's Falls and on the St. Louis River in Cloquet." As it turned out, they didn't have difficulty navigating the Dubawnt River but were glad of the training "because the river was fast moving with a lot of whitewater," she recalled.

The journey began in Ely on June 28 with two days at Camp Widjiwagan. The women then went to Lynn Lake, Manitoba, literally the last town on the road. Next they were flown to Wholdaia Lake in the southern part of the Northwest Territories. Then they were on their own! The route followed the Dubawnt River to Dubawnt Lake, crossed the lake on the northwest side and continued up the river to Baker Lake, a community of 1200 Inuit Native Americans. They had a deadline: a plane was to pick them up at Baker Lake on Aug. 14 at 11 a.m. to take them to the train station for the return to Camp Widjiwagan and the traditional end-of-trip banquet.

Their equipment included two tents, three plastic canoes, eight food packs that weighed 100 pounds each, plus clothes and personal items.

During the first two weeks there were trees nearby to provide wood for campfires. They brought fresh veggies to cook and freeze-dried food to which they merely had to add water. Later on in the trip the surrounding countryside turned bleak (that part of the Northwest Territories actually is called "the barrens") "so we cooked on our stoves instead of over a campfire and ate a lot of pasta," Flinn said. "We really enjoyed the few treats that we brought along—especially the

M & Ms," she added. Drinks were mostly water and Kool-Aid.

By the middle of the trip, the women found themselves five days behind schedule mainly because of rainy weather and strong headwinds. "Once we got going on the water it wasn't so bad, but we had problems launching the boats on windy days into the huge waves coming onto shore. We got to wondering whether we were in Hawaii instead of the Antarctic," Flinn said with a laugh.

They kept occupied during "windbound days" by keeping journals, reading and playing games. "We could read until midnight because the sun didn't set until that late," she remarked. Flinn said it never did get completely dark. Other monotony-breakers were the gifts each woman brought along to present at different times along the way to the others. One of the favorites was play-dough.

The windbound experiences made them realize how much they needed to work with nature. "Our training taught us that we were the visitors and needed to treat the environment with respect. We practiced 'minimum impact' camping"—which meant they tried to disturb the original natural state as little as possible.

The wildlife habitat was not as compelling as the weather. They encountered many birds, including peregrine falcons, arctic rabbit and fox, and one musk ox. None provided a threat, except for one incident when falcons dived at the campers when they got too close to a nest of young ones. Flinn said they were prepared for bears but didn't see any. If they had, "we would have run for the canoes and paddled out into the water."

They did come in contact with two other canoes from a fishing camp on Dubawnt Lake during the four and a half days it took to cross that body of water. "The men seemed to be pretty impressed with what we were trying to accomplish," she said.

Black flies proved to be the most inconvenient and irritating part of the trip. Flinn recalled the number of bites she and the others had on their legs, and said they wore hats with bug nets over their faces throughout the trip. They even ate with the nets in place. "The flies were bad, but they didn't ruin the trip by any means," she emphasized. "After we returned to Widji, though, we learned that the other women's group didn't experience any flies along their route!"

Being behind schedule contributed to an exciting climax. With Aug. 14 coming closer and closer, they didn't think they would meet their deadline. To make up for lost time they paddled 46 out of the last 48 hours, only to arrive at Baker Lake at 4 in the afternoon on Aug. 14—five hours after the plane was supposed to leave with them on it. "We were so glad we finished the trip, but were very discouraged because we knew the plane had left without us and we wouldn't make our train connection in time to get back to Camp Widjiwagan for the celebration banquet," Flinn recounted. But the mood quickly turned to elation when they discovered that even though they had missed their scheduled plane, another one, which had been rescheduled because of a flat tire, would arrive at midnight, allowing them to make the train connection after all.

"The best remembrances I'll have of the trip are of the five other women—getting to know them all was great—and the satisfaction of being able to finish such a challenging course," she said. "We were the second all-woman group that we know of to do the Dubawnt River trip."

Flinn has now joined the ranks of dozens of young people from St. Anthony Park (some not so young anymore) who attended Camp Widjiwagan over the years. Several current and former residents are alumni of voyageur programs of the 1950's, '60s and '70s.

Now that these plans have been realized, both groups can soar and community residents who have benefited from their previous work will benefit even further from their separate efforts.

St. Anthony Park writer Marjorie DeBoer will see Publication of her latest historical novel, A Duet for My Lady, in Oct. An "American Regency Romance" from Warner Books, the book is set in 1820 in London and Philadelphia, and involves the troubled romance between a Philadelphia heiress and a maverick English journalist.

DeBoer's previous books include Crown of Desire (1983), The Unwelcome Suitor (1984) and The Whitbourne Legacy (1985).

Former St. Anthony Park resident Judy Larson and Bill Hinkley have recently released an album of folk music entitled Out in Our Meadow. Larson grew up in St. Anthony Park and her brothers Jim and John and their families still live here. Larson and Hinkley are the musicians featured on the St. Anthony Park Centennial Calendar drawing for the month of July.

Garrison Keillor called them his "co-conspirators" in the early development of A Prairie Home Companion (PHC). Keillor makes a guest appearance on the album and it features six numbers from early PHC broadcasts.

The record is available at Miller Pharmacy.

Jim Thottungal, 16, of Lauderdale took first place in pastels at the Minnesota State Fair. The winning picture was executed in white pastel and showed a can of Classic Coke.

Although this was Jim's first art entry, he has previously won awards for his photography, including a grand prize at the Michigan State Fair before he moved to Lauderdale.

Because the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program won an award from Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government and the Ford Foundation's "Innovations in State and Local Government" in 1986, Marjorie Jamieson was invited to attend this year's award ceremony in New York City on Sept. 17. She also participated in a seminar where perceptions of how innovative programs are initiated and managed were discussed. The Harvard faculty research effort is examining the issues of how innovation occurs in the public sector and what environments facilitate its success.

School News

St. Anthony Park Elementary

There have been some changes in the teaching staff at St. Anthony Park Elementary this year. First of all in kindergarten we have Miss Odland and Mrs. Verner; both of them taught last year. The first grade teachers are Mrs. Thelander, Mrs. Just, Ms. Nelson (who is new) and Ms. Honkanen (who is also new to this school). The primary team is composed of second and third grade. The teachers are Ms. Anderson, Peters, Swartz, Blaske and Kelly. Ms. Swartz is again the team leader. Finally, the intermediate team includes 4th, 5th and 6th graders. Last year we had two classes of each of those grades.

Here's something interesting. Last year Ms. Shroeder taught 4th grade. She left us to practice ministry. Also last year Mrs. Huffman taught in the 6th grade. She went to Battle Creek School to be the environmental program director. O.K. In 4th grade this year we have Ms. Wilson, Ms. Roe and Mrs. Olson. In the 5th grade we have Mrs. Rossi, Mrs. Blevins and Mrs. Sanford. Mrs. Blevins and Mrs. Sanford are job sharing, which means one of them teaches in the morning and the other in the afternoon. Now, finally the 6th grade has Mrs. Burroughs and Mr. Beck. Last year Mr. Beck helped run Discourse, which is a computer system at the school.

Murray Junior High

Murray Jr. High school will start out the school year with an Open House for parents on Thurs. Oct. 8, from 7-9 p.m. It will give parents a chance to meet with teachers, and to find out the goals and objectives of the classes. SRA tests for all 7th and 8th graders will be given on Oct. 7-9. The State Teacher convention is Oct. 15 and 16. There will be no school for students on those days.

—Laura Malchow

Central High School

I entered Central High School on Sept. 8 to find a school full of tanned and cheery faces, ready to face another year of school. Most people looked familiar except for the freshmen and two new administrators. William Dunn has taken over as our new principal. Previously, he was the principal at Ramsey Junior High School. Louis Kanarati is also new to Central as one of our three assistant principals.

Central's annual homecoming festivities will begin on Oct. 5 and conclude on Oct. 9 with a dance at Central. Homecoming activities include a tug-o-war, a pajama breakfast at a local restaurant and the football game with Humboldt.

The Central Student Council would like to invite all alumni of Central High School to participate in the Homecoming alumni social held at Central on Thurs., Oct. 8, 6 p.m.
—Charlie Kersey

Falcon Heights Elementary

The school is sponsoring an Adopt-a-Bush program this fall to help raise money for landscaping the school grounds. "We believe the Falcon Heights School staff, students, parents and community members are proud of their school and the excellent educational opportunities we provide here," says Ellen Blank, principal. "The time has come to upgrade the school grounds in order to capitalize on this pride and excellence."

People who are interested in becoming involved in the Adopt-a-Bush program can make a contribution in two ways—first by sending a check to Falcon Heights Elementary School in care of the Adopt-a-Bush program; second by volunteering time on planting day, Sat., Oct. 10, 9 a.m. Suggested monetary contribution is $10 but all contributions will be most appreciated. Volunteer to plant by contacting the school, 633-8150.

Brimhall Elementary

Bicentennial year was kicked off Sept. 17 with an assembly program which included State Auditor Arne Carlson, the Roseville American Legion, presentations from school personnel, recitation of the preamble to the Constitution by five 6th graders and the distribution of American flags to all students.

Corpus Christi School

A Caribbean cruise on the Love Boat of TV fame will be the first prize in a drawing to be held at the fall festival at Corpus Christi School on October 11. With the theme "Peace at Sea," the ship will set sail on February 20, 1988, for a week's cruise. Second prize is a microwave oven or a freezer, and third is a VCR or a TV.

The festival will be held at the school on County Road B and Fairview from noon until 5 p.m. There will be games for adults and children, food, a plant sale, a bake sale, and a white elephant booth. Proceeds go for school expenses. Corpus Christi is open to children of all faiths from St. Anthony Park, Lauderdale, Falcon Heights, Roseville, and Southeast Minneapolis. Sister M. Josine Winter is the principal.

American Education Week

The Roseville PTA Coordinating Council invites all residents in the school district to have a look back at education at the turn of the century as a prelude to American Education Week (Nov. 15-18). The one-room school house at Gibbs Farm Museum will be open for the celebration Sun., Oct. 25, noon-4 p.m. There will be a teacher in the classroom that day and visitors can experience what it was like to go to school using individual chalk boards instead of paper or notebooks. General admission will be charged by Gibbs Farm, $1 for students and $2 for adults.

Patchwork Theater moves to Murray

North Suburban Patchwork Theatre will open its 13th production at Murray Junior High School, 2200 Buford Ave., on Oct. 9. While not really superstitious, board president Colleen Danner did say "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" almost didn't happen at all. After renting theater space for more than five years through the Roseville School District, the realignment of the schools there forced Patchwork to look for a new home. A frantic summer, which included dropping a planned production of "My Fair Lady" and searching for a new theater, ended practically in Patchwork's backyard with Dave Larson, John McManus and Murray School. Not only is Patchwork producing "Forum" at Murray, they also plan a spring production, "Barefoot in the Park," there.

"Forum" is a rowdy musical by Stephen Sondheim, set in ancient Rome. While the story is old-hat, "boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-gets-girl," the sub-plot of slave wants freedom makes "Forum" a laugh-ridden, fast-paced comedy. A talented cast directed by Henry Hebert, Falcon Heights, includes Catherine Brander and Judi Kaper, St. Anthony Park; Kathy Aschenbrener and Steve Nelson, St. Paul; Susan Pepin, Roseville; Shannon Maloney, Shoreview; Helen Chorolec, Mike Devine, Bob Durkee, Janice Murphy, Deanne Roe and Hazen Markoe, Minneapolis; with Collin McAninch, Circle Pines and Steve Worth, Fridley.

"Forum" opens Oct. 9, 8 p.m. with a toga party following the show. To encourage playgoers, Patchwork will deduct $1 from the ticket price for people who come in a toga. There will be a discounted senior citizen matinee Oct. 18, 2 p.m. Other play dates are Oct. 10, 16, 17, 23 and 24 at 8 p.m., closing with a matinee Oct. 25. Tickets are available at the door or can be reserved by calling 490-0666 or 429-2120 Mon.-Thurs. 1-7 p.m. or Sat. 9-12.

Gibbs Farm celebrates fall festively

Fall is in the air and it's time to celebrate summer's bounty with Gibbs Farm Museum's Annual Harvest Festival, Sun., Oct. 4 from noon to 5 p.m.

Start with performances of traditional dance and music, then savor a tempting barbeque or a harvest stew. Whether it's watching a craft demonstration, trying your luck with the raffle, or simply basking in the turn-of-the-century excitement, you're in for an afternoon to remember.

The festivities begin at noon and last until 5 p.m. The afternoon will be highlighted by the performance of the North Country Cloggers. This Twin Cities dance troupe will perform Appalachian-style, Lancashire, and Canadian waltz-style clog dances. The dance is fueled by knee-slapping fiddles and bluegrass music. Next you can compare the art of clogging with the traditional square dance or join in and try your hand at it.

Come hungry, and enjoy bratwurst and hot dogs roasted over an open fire, smothered with sauerkraut. Freshly picked apples, plain or covered with lots of caramel will provide the perfect dessert for our harvest vegetable stew served with cornbread. Or perhaps you prefer old-fashioned doughnuts, muffins and apple and pumpkin pie slices enjoyed with hot spiced cider or steaming coffee. Work up an appetite by taking a ride on a real hay wagon pulled by a team of draft horses.

There will be dancing and eating and looking and learning at the Gibbs Farm Fall Festival Oct. 4.

There will be demonstrations of woodcarving, blacksmithing, sauerkraut making, quilting and hair weaving. Costumed guides will be baking pies in the wood-burning stove and hand dipping beeswax candles. There's something for everyone. The museum's raffle will feature prizes including a handmade embroidered comforter and overnight stays for two at some of Minnesota's and Wisconsin's famous bed and breakfast inns. Raffle tickets are $1 each or 6 for $5.

Gibbs Farm Museum, a National Historic Site, is owned by the Ramsey County Historical Society and is located on the corner of Cleveland and Larpeur Avenues in Falcon Heights. For further information call the museum at 646-8629.

Bugle Ads Work

"My ad each month in the Bugle is very important to my business as a constant reminder to people of my services. A lot of people tell me 'I saw your ad in the Bugle' and 'I feel like I know you because I always see your ad in the Bugle.' I like getting a lot of business from the community because I live here, but the Bugle has brought me many customers from outside the area too. The Bugle has been good for me!"

Obituaries

George Williams

George Williams, retired proprietor of the Falcon Heights Hardware Store, died on Sept. 14 at the age of 80. Born in Austin, MN, Williams opened the hardware store on Larpen Avenue in the mid-1940's. He retired in the early 1970's.

Survivors include a sister and brother. He was preceded in death by his wife, Lillian.

Stella Bly

Stella Nummedal Bly, former missionary to China, died at the age of 89 at Lyngblomsten Care Center. She was a former St. Anthony Park resident. Mrs. Bly and her husband, the late Herman Bly, spent many years in China as missionaries for the Lutheran Church.

She is survived by a daughter, two sons, ten grandchildren and a sister.

John Stensvaag

The Rev. John M. Stensvaag, a longtime professor of Old Testament at Luther Northwestern Theological Seminary in St. Anthony Park, died of a heart attack on Aug. 29. Stensvaag, 76, suffered the attack while vacationing in British Columbia.

Stensvaag was also a leader in the merger of the Lutheran Free Church with the American Lutheran Church. Born in Bergen, Norway, Stensvaag came with his family to Racine, WI, at the age of 14. He earned his bachelor's degree and his theology degree from Augsburg in Minneapolis. After serving different congregations, he became a professor at Luther Northwestern in 1963 and remained there until his retirement in 1981.

Survivors include his wife Hannah, two sons, two daughters and nine grandchildren.

Wallace Brookins

Wallace Brookins, a resident of St. Anthony Park for over 50 years, died at Commonwealth Nursing Home on Aug. 16 at the age of 86.

Mr. Brookins and his wife, Avery, moved to St. Anthony Park in 1934. Their children, Carleton, Charles and Louise grew up in the community and attended local schools.

Born in Ogdensburg, NY, in 1900, Brookins was reared in Ottawa, Ontario, and received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Toronto at Guelph, ONT. He received his master's degree in agronomy from the University of Nebraska and his doctorate from the University of Minnesota where he later was an extension agronomist.

Brookins was well-known as a promoter of flax production in Minnesota and the Midwest. Following retirement, he returned to the St. Anthony Park area and did repair work in many area homes. He also worked at Park Hardware.

He was preceded in death by his wife. They are survived by all three children, Carleton in Roseville, Charles in Cottage Grove and Louise in Arizona. There are 11 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The family requests memorials to the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program, which served Mr. Brookins during the last months of his life, or to the St. Joseph Hospital Hospice Program in St. Paul.

Co-ops from 3

service. It's an idea that we'd like to be able to pursue."

Coordinators at both stores indicated that the changes they are making result from recent pressures affecting the co-op movement in general. "There is a definite trend toward consumer co-ops [that rely more heavily on paid memberships and staff management] and away from volunteer-run worker co-ops," said Passi. "We have fewer volunteers to work with and in general people have less time to give."

Dufault noted that although there is still a faithful core of supporters who have been active with St. Anthony Park's co-ops since the "golden days" of the 1970's, today's clientele is more diverse, including greater numbers of families and older adults and less college students than there used to be. The new consumer-oriented approach that both stores are adopting and the greater variety of foods that they offer also reflect a co-op philosophy that would not have been thinkable 15 years ago.

"The first time we put Cheerios on the shelves," recalled Dufault with a smile, "even though the cereal was low in salt and sugar, we had a petition drawn up and signed by members to protest the idea."

For St. Anthony Park's co-ops it seems that the times, indeed, are a-changing.

Why are there so many acorns this year? People ask the question as they rake, or shovel, their yards or try to walk on suddenly cluttered sidewalks. University horticulturalists says it's simply been a year with good growing conditions for White and Bur Oaks. With plenty of rain last year and an early spring this year, the trees have had plenty of chance to produce. And produce they have, much to the amazement and dismay of local residents.
