

Murray High School 50th reunion Back to school... back to memories

By Michelle Christianson

The Murray High School class of 1940 has always had to break new ground. Its members were the first sophomore, junior and senior classes to attend the school and now it will be the first class to celebrate its 50th year class reunion.

The group will have a tour of the present Murray Junior High School at 11 a.m. on Sat., Sept. 22, with a box lunch in the library. Then the next evening they will meet for dinner at 6:30 p.m. at Hafner's Supper Club where Don Hastings will be the master of ceremonies. There will also be an optional brunch at the Lido Restaurant on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Pansy (Clark) Peterson, head of the reunion committee, says they expect about 75 people to attend. They haven't been able to locate about 20 people out of the class of 122. Twenty-two people have died.

Their 45th reunion was the first since their 15th reunion. They were able to find people then through the phone book, mailings and word of mouth and had quite a good response. Most of the same people will attend, plus more.

Bob Brokopp says he's just happy to be alive to attend his reunion, recalling several who had died since the 45th reunion. He remembers the close-knit group they were when they attended Murray and the fun they had as innovators of school institutions that lasted for many years.

Brokopp, along with the shop teacher, Mr. Bergup, started the rifle club that continued for many years at Murray. Brokopp had received a small rifle for Christmas and thought it would be fun to have a club. The group practiced at Como Pavillion using Como's rifles.

Peterson was involved in many activities. Like many of the other students, she had looked forward to leaving Murray after 9th grade to go to Central or Mechanic Arts (one of the "big schools") and was dismayed at the decision to turn Murray as well as Monroe, Wilson and John Marshall into high schools. So she and the others did all that they could to help Murray become the same type of school as Central. They designed the yearbook and the class ring, started the Murcurie (the school paper) and wrote the words for the school song—"really bad words," according to Dee (Roth) Shosten—that were later changed.

Peterson was the first editor of the school paper and starred in the operetta "Lela Walla."

Marian (Berge) Ed, Donita (Roth) Shosten, Virginia (Lundquist) Groene, and Pansy (Clark) Peterson met outside the former front door of Murray Junior High to reminisce about the same building 50 years ago when they were members of the first graduating class at Murray High School. They'll be remembering more tales soon at their 50th class reunion.

An update on the McCann family of renovators

By Roald Sateren

Jim McCann loves taking a sledge hammer and demolishing old walls. His brother, Jack, likes cutting utility pipes from the ceilings of old buildings and watching them drop to the floor. Their sister, Sandy, has been known to rip up old floor boards and toss them out second story windows.

The mastermind behind all this demolition is the man they call "Chuck" while on the job and "Dad" when they go home.

Chuck McCann owns the Update Company, a family-run business located near the corner of University & Raymond. The Update Company buys, renovates, leases and maintains buildings in the area.

Originally from Superior, Wis., McCann came to the Twin Cities in 1950, just after high school, and started an apprenticeship in painting.

After serving in the Korean War, McCann returned home and formed a commercial painting company in 1957. Today, the Schletty McCann Company is one of the largest commercial painters in the Twin Cities. A few of its larger projects have been the Minneapolis Convention Center, the Metrodome, and Galtier Plaza.

McCann sold his share in Schletty McCann three years ago, though his wife, Terry, still remains one of the principal owners. She was the company's bookkeeper for years and is the first female member of the Painting & Decorating Contractors of America.

During the 1960s and 1970s, McCann had to keep buying and renovating larger buildings to house the expanding business. This led him to form the Update Company, his renovation business, in 1973.

As Update grew, so eventually did the involvement of his family. The kids say, and Chuck would agree, that he never officially hired them. They just always happened to be there when he needed help. Ever since they were in high school the kids—Sandy, Jim, Jack and Lynn—have worked off and on for their father.

Sandy (McCann) Jacobs, 28, is a business management major from the University of Minnesota. She is Update's office manager, bookkeeper and leasing agent.

The fraternal twins, Jack and Jim, 26, share many responsibilities. According to their father, Jack is in charge of construction and Jim is in charge of maintenance. Jim is a business major at St. Thomas and Jack attended the U of M for a couple of years.

Lynn (McCann) Young, 34, has also worked at Update but is currently raising a family and helping her husband with his business.

Everyone involved agrees that it can be both enjoyable and tough working in a family business.

When they all lived at home, "things got a little close, sometimes," according to Sandy.

For Jack and Jim the long hours have been frustrating at times. Most people's work day

Annual cleanup is Sept. 15

Fliers that serve as vouchers to use the dumpsite have been mailed to residents of St. Anthony Park. The annual neighborhood cleanup on Sat., Sept. 15 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. has moved to a new location this year—Energy Park Drive, adjacent to Minnesota Wire and Cable.

Residents who have not received their fliers by Sept. 7 are asked to call the office at 292-7884 and we will arrange to mail one once your address in the district is verified. The cleanup is only for residents of St. Anthony Park. The capacity of our site and dumpsters provided are limited by the amount of funding the City of St. Paul has allocated to our area.

This year some of the costs of the cleanup will be borne by residents who will pay a $2 entry fee for each trip to the site. Seniors who have curbside pickup will also be asked to pay the fee. The fees collected will help defray the increased costs of hauling and disposal of the trash collection.

Items accepted at the dumpsite include general refuse, furniture, mattresses, carpets, brush and tree branches suitable for chipping, appliances, car parts, any metal, concrete, and batteries. Tires will be accepted at a cost of $1 each and a charge for appliances has been set at $6 each.

Items not accepted at the dumpsite include household hazardous waste, including paints, oil, paint thinners, solvents, herbicides, pesticides, etc. Cans, bottles and newspapers can be recycled on regular curbside recycling days (2nd and 4th Wednesdays).

Volunteers are available to help seniors and handicapped persons on the day of the cleanup. Only items placed on the curb will be picked up by our crews. Help with yard and alley cleanup is also available. For help in curbside pickup, call the council office by Wed., Sept. 12.

Meet Julie Krahn — Block Club Organizer

A Wisconsin native in her second year at Luther Northwestern Seminary, Julie Krahn began her duties as Block Club/Outreach organizer on Aug. 1. She has a master's degree in social work from the University of Wisconsin and served as a social work and administrative intern at the Waisman Center on Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Neighborhood Crime Prevention Program, City of St. Paul.

As Block Club organizer she will continue the effort to initiate Block Clubs in the neighborhood through a project sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Community Council and the St. Anthony Park Association. Funding for this program was obtained in 1988 through a grant from the Minneapolis Neighborhood Self-Help Initiatives Program (MNSHIP) and a recent grant from the

In applying for the position, Krahn said, "I love the St. Anthony Park area with its small town, close knit neighborhood feeling. The interaction between the seminary and the community has helped me feel I belong. I'm committed to the neighborhood and excited about the opportunities to do outreach here."

The third issue of the Networker will be delivered door-to-door by your blockworker during the week of Sept. 3. Call Julie Krahn, Outreach Coordinator, 292-7884, if you do not receive your copy.

Volunteers needed to display recycling lawn signs

Lawn sign volunteers are the most effective advocates for recycling in the neighborhoods. They talk to the people on their block about recycling and keep them up-to-date about solid waste issues. The lawn sign volunteer puts the recycling sign out twice each month and spends some time telling neighbors how to use the curbside program as well as giving out information on how to save money by getting a low-volume garbage rate.

Lawn sign volunteers receive a quarterly newsletter full of useful information about how to help keep our air and water clean, reduce energy use, and basically make our neighborhood a better place to live.

If you would like to be a lawn sign volunteer in St. Anthony Park, call the Council office. Join 125 dedicated neighbors. They have helped the district achieve 73% participation in curbside recycling, with June collections at a high for the year—43 tons!

Home Rule Charter meeting planned

The Ramsey County League of Women Voters will have a discussion and informational meeting on the Ramsey County Home Rule Charter Thurs., Sept. 13, 7-9 p.m. at Falcon Heights City Hall, 2077 Larpenteur Ave.

A panel will speak on the background of the Home Rule Charter, Initiative and Referendum and Recall, Bonding, and Charter Provisions.

The Home Rule Charter serves as a constitutional blueprint and allows more decisions to be made at the local level by elected officials. Although some cities in Minnesota have home rule charter, this is the first time in Minnesota's history that the state legislature has allowed a county to draft a charter. On Nov. 6, 1990, voters will have a chance to decide whether to adopt this county constitution.

Come and ask questions of panel members. Those who cannot attend can view the presentation live on Cable TV North Central. Questions can be phoned in during the live program from 7:30-9 p.m. Call 644-5050, Falcon Heights City Hall. A panel member will answer your question.

Further questions should be directed to League of Women Voters St. Paul at 644-9176.

History happens

We recognize it days, years, sometimes decades later. On November 6, residents of Ramsey County can make history and KNOW it. We will vote on whether or not Ramsey County has a home rule charter. It will be the first, and perhaps the only, time in Minnesota this happens.

Cities have had home charter for years, but counties in Minnesota can only do what the Legislature allows. As a result, Ramsey County has been forced to go to the State Legislature for special laws for everything from exchanging a 25 foot strip of park land to bonding for needed capital improvements. In 1987, the Legislature passed a law to allow a 17 member Charter Commission in Ramsey County to study and decide if a home rule charter should be drafted and put before the voters.

The Commission heard testimony and debated for 10 months before deciding to draft a charter. It was not a decision lightly undertaken. More months of study of other charters, consultation with the 17 municipalities in the county, drafting, review, and redrafting followed. The fate of the document produced will be decided November 6 by the simple question on the ballot:

Shall the proposed new county charter be adopted?
___ Yes ___ No

In the coming weeks, all citizens will be able to read the charter and decide the way they want to answer that question. The League of Women Voters, the Ramsey County League of Local Governments, and the St. Paul Pioneer Press will be distributing copies of the proposed charter. Its 12 succinct chapters form a "mini-Constitution" for county government that will allow local elected officials to decide local government issues without going to the statewide elected body.

The League of Women Voters will be releasing a study of the document that gives both pros and cons and is also sponsoring a public meeting to discuss the proposed charter on Sept. 13, 7-9 p.m., at the Falcon Height City Hall. Citizens interested in a copy of the League study can contact the Saint Paul League at 644-9176.

The information is available, the opportunity is at hand. All citizens in Ramsey County should help make history on November 6 by informing themselves and then VOTING on the proposed charter question on the ballot. It can only happen once unless the Legislature passes another special law.

School support

Dear editor,

I was thrilled to read the letter to the editor from Tim Smith of the Carter Avenue Frame Shop and Stewart McIntosh of Park Hardware Hank. As the new principal at Murray Junior High, I am so pleased with the community and business support. We at Murray are fortunate to have a strong, active School Association and Site Council, both of which have made it much easier to provide quality education for our students.

I do want to thank Mr. Smith and Mr. McIntosh for their letter of support and others for their consideration of participation in helping our schools.

Nancy Nielsen
Principal, Murray Junior High School

Dear editor:

I wanted to express my thanks to Tim Smith of Carter Avenue Frame Shop and Stewart McIntosh of Park Hardware Hank for their letter of support for St. Anthony Park Elementary School and Murray Junior High School.

During the past two years, I have been the principal at St. Anthony. I am very grateful to the St. Anthony Park community for the help they continually give to the schools. This type of encouragement from parents and other community members is one of the unique features of your area. I know that the school staffs and students gain much from the feeling that their community cares.

We are proud of our schools. Both Nancy Nielsen and I extend an invitation to you to come and visit us. Our buildings are always open to visitors.

Dog bite affects insurance

Dear editor,

The following St. Anthony Park incident may help other dog owners realize possible results from one dog bite.

Our 15 lb. West Highland White Terrier, "Sparkle," bit a mail carrier while I was walking him on a leash last August. The dog's hostility to mail carriers occurred because he was maced as a puppy. The bite occurred below the knee and was not serious.

After apologizing, I applied first-aid spray and a bandaid. The events that followed are briefly described here in chronological order:

1. Ten days after the bite we were sued by the mail carrier for "damages."
2. Following an investigation, the mail carrier was awarded a settlement made by our homeowner's insurance policy in November 1989.
3. In June, 1990, we were informed by our insurance company that our homeowners' insurance policy would be nonrenewed on our annual premium due date of August 26, 1990. No direct, prior warning or explanation of how this unilateral, adverse decision was arrived at was given to us by our insurance company.
4. We initiated a search for homeowner's insurance through other carriers. This proved astonishingly difficult; we had approximately 20 rejections in one week. No one was willing to pick us up because the dog bite loomed as a major risk factor, and we wished to keep the dog. Most of them didn't care if it was a minor cut by a small dog; the lawsuit and its implications were all that mattered.

5. In early July, realizing the difficult position of being unsuccessful in obtaining new homeowner's insurance, we filed a complaint against our insurance company through the Minnesota State Commerce Department.

6. In order to increase the probability of obtaining insurance, we submitted a detailed account of the event, pictures of the dog and our home security measures to keep the dog in our yard, and evidence that mail delivery to our home was stopped. We also had a petition signed by our neighbors acknowledging the gentle, loving nature of the dog, lack of hostility, etc.

7. In July, 1990, a stroke of good fortune fell on our behalf, and our policy was reinstated, because our insurance company did not follow the appropriate procedure for declaring the potential nonrenewal.

8. In early August we were informed by our insurance company that "we had not likely heard the end of the dog bite incident."

9. Within the last week we finally secured insurance with a different carrier.

The message is clear. Beware a single dog bite, no matter how serious!

No lawn parking

Dear editor:

Thanks, but no thanks—if you will.

The "glowing" remarks of Verna Wanamaker, Barbara Clark and George Murawski in the August, 1990, Park Bugle probably read well to a special interest lawn-parking consortium who, by packing meetings with their raucous behavior, have led many on the Saint Paul City Council to believe that they are doing a great public service to the West Como neighborhood and the City of Saint Paul in addition to humanity as a whole. They do not represent the views of the majority of the residents in the area involved by far. The opposition is much more reserved but does have very strong feelings about the matter and have not packed the meetings as have the parkers as there is no monetary gain for them.

The parkers may feel that meeting people, fixing flat tires, doing it for so long, foiling burglary attempts, keeping lost kids until 1:30 a.m., and doing so for 50 years is a desirable thing. Is it really so? It appears that the Cities of Saint Paul and Falcon Heights Police Departments along with the Minnesota State Fair "lost and found" people, who are paid to handle those situations, do so with a lot more understanding, expertise and safety. Automobile owners remedy flat tires every day on their own.

I wonder how many of the parkers would be out there enjoying the camaraderie and doing all of those "good deeds" if the City were to put a prohibition against charging for parking in any manner as an amendment to the Ordinances. The almighty dollar is what stimulates the parkers' interest—not all of the supposed benevolences that we hear. In surveying the entire parking allowed area in the neighborhood during the 1989 State Fair, only one "Free Parking" sign was apparent in a yard. However, it was tied into a sizeable charitable donation—and so, not really free.

Until 1988, there were a scattering of lawn-parkers in the neighborhood, mostly along Snelling Avenue, which was obnoxious enough. With the sudden benevolence of the City Council in allowing parking in the entire area, it has really created an unwieldy mess that is degrading to the community, City and ruins a good neighborhood. Where has the pride of ownership and community gone? Generally, the lots in the area are only 40 feet wide; some corner lots are even 37 feet in width. Yet, people are mandated by the City Council to put up with a yard full of cars next door, in some cases on both sides of these small lots, adjacent to bedrooms, far into the night. Desirable living conditions? Community pride? Hardly.

The City Council's so-called "compromise" this year, initiated by Councilmember Paula Maccabee, amended the Ordinances to allow curb jumping in order to accommodate parkers. In its own regulations, the City requires prescribed curb cuts and thicker main sidewalk crossings when driveways are installed to serve residences.

In the new "compromise," all regulation of curb and sidewalk crossings are thrown to the wind. The City's own Traffic Engineer recommended against the curb

Betty's Back-To-School Recipe Round-Up

By Warren Hanson

Well, it's that time of year again, when vacations are over, the kids go back to school, and active families resume their busy, busy fall schedules. And it's the time of year when harried homemakers, like you, could use a little help in giving your families nutritious meals that taste good AND are quick and easy to prepare. So this month, I thought I would give all you hard-working moms (and dads, too!) a few hints that will make your life in the kitchen a little less hectic.

I asked a neighborhood expert to help out and share a few of her valuable household secrets with us. Betty (who asked that we withhold her last name) is a wife and mother of three active children. At the same time, she maintains a career as an airline stewardess, so she is often gone for days, even weeks and months, at a time. In fact, she jokes that when she comes home from a trip, she has to show her company picture I.D. badge so her family will recognize her!

Betty's husband is a minister at a local church. With all the prayer breakfasts, youth gatherings, hospital visits and meetings about the new educational wing, he rarely has time to linger over a leisurely meal with his family.

And the kids! Soccer, Cub Scouts, choir practice, football, piano lessons... the list goes on. With such a frenzied schedule, how does Betty make sure that her family gets good-tasting, well-prepared, nutritional meals and snacks? I asked her, and she was good enough to share a few of her handy hints with our readers. So here are some of Betty's favorite recipes for the chaotic upcoming back-to-school season. Enjoy!

ITALIAN DINNER EXPRESS

Ingredients:

- One telephone directory — yellow pages
- One telephone
- One heaping check book

Open the telephone directory to the "P" section. Find the category heading for "Pizza Delivery." With the left hand, lift the telephone receiver, and with the index finger of the right hand, dial the largest phone number that you see on the page. (If one of the numbers is printed in red, choose that one. For a more authentic Italian flavor, choose the one with a picture of a little man with black curly hair and a black mustache standing in a gondola.) Tell the voice on the phone that you would like a large pizza delivered to your home. Select your favorite toppings. Hang up the phone and set the kitchen timer for 30 minutes. When the bell rings, take your check book to your front door and open both. Place the pizza in the middle of the table, put the biggest piece on your own plate, then call the family to enjoy a piping hot Italian delight. And you didn't even make a mess in the kitchen!

CUB SCOUT COOKIES

Ingredients:

- One automobile
- One heaping check book
- Tooth picks
- Construction paper
- Scissors
- White glue

When Betty's son has to take cookies to the Cub Scout meeting after school, these festive cookies are always a hit. After the kids have left for school, get into automobile and drive to Sherman Bakery. Ask for two dozen peanut butter chocolate chunk cookies. Add a generous portion from check book. Place cookies in automobile and drive home. Take cookies from bag and arrange them on the ugliest plate you have, so that people will know it came from your home. With scissors, cut little flags from construction paper and glue them to toothpicks. Let set. Just before school gets out, stick the little toothpick flags into the cookies, carry the plate to your automobile and drive to the site of the Cub Scout meeting. The kids will love them, and the den mother will wonder how you had time to bake. And you didn't even make a mess in the kitchen!

QUICK'N'EASY ORIENTAL SUPPER

Ingredients:

- One automobile
- One checkbook
- Chopsticks

Illustration by Warren Hanson

Here is a fast, simple and nutritious meal with something for the whole family. In automobile, drive to nearest Chinese take-out restaurant. From menu, choose the item that has the most ingredients. There is usually something with vegetables, chicken, noodles, shrimp, beef, cashews and rice all in one square white bucket. If you get confused, just order Number 17. Also pick up two dozen fortune cookies. Add entire contents of check book. Place fortune cookies and Number 17 on floor of car and drive home, being careful not to turn corners too quickly. To serve, scoop generous portions onto each plate. Don't worry about serving too much. No matter how much you dish up, there will always be some left over. Next, hide all the silverware, give each member of the family a pair of chopsticks, then get ready for family fun! For dessert, pass around the fortune cookies and a clean hammer to open them with. If you don't like the fortune you get, take another cookie. Don't worry about overeating... you'll be hungry again soon. So much fun! So many vegetables! And you didn't even make a mess in the kitchen!

COWGIRL BEANS

- One 53 oz. can pork'n'beans
- Construction paper
- Ribbon

Here's a hearty main course from the days of the covered wagons! Open the can of pork'n'beans. Wrap a piece of construction paper around the can and tie with ribbon. Serve. (And you didn't even make a mess in the ol' chuck wagon!)

Well, that's all we have time for today. Thank you, Betty, for sharing some of your time-saving secrets with us. And join us next time, when we give you some useful hints on how you can fool your dentist into believing that you floss regularly. Until then, good-bye, and have a good, GOOD day!

Forum to honor neighbors

By Ann Bulger

The third annual St. Paul Neighborhood Forum will be held on Sept. 22 from 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m. in Brady Hall at the College of St. Thomas. It is open to anyone interested in St. Paul neighborhood issues.

As part of the program, the Forum Awards Committee will honor outstanding citizens from St. Paul's neighborhoods. A committee from District 12 has submitted nominations for awards in three categories.

For Neighborhood Honor Roll, District 12 nominated two neighbors.

Robert Hahnen has supervised the patriotic essay contest at St. Anthony Park Elementary School for the past 13 years.

Mary Mergenthal has served as editor of the Park Bugle for six years and was active in leadership of Northern Lights 4-H Club. She also directed youth choirs at St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church for 20 years.

For the Leadership or Special Program Award, four local names have been entered. There will be one winner from each of the 17 district councils.

The three District 12 nominations are Music in the Park, spearheaded by Julie Himmelstrup, the Minnesota Women's Press, founded and edited by Mollie Hoben, and the St. Anthony Park Leisure Center, headed by Marge Hess, Henrietta Miller, Don Harvey, and Nancy Wenkel.

Music in the Park presents a series of concerts each year at the St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ.

Minnesota Women's Press features articles by and about women. The paper provides a forum for women's viewpoints, as well as accomplishments.

The Leisure Center is sponsored by five churches in St. Anthony Park. Weekly meetings provide senior citizens with activities, fellowship, a hot meal, and a program.

District 10 nominated its environmental committee for this award. The committee sponsored an Earth Day celebration at Como Park in April.

The Community Activist Award is named for Elizabeth

Clark, a former resident of South St. Anthony Park, now deceased. One person in the city will receive this award. Nominee from District 12 is Mary Libera, who has been active in the Block Nurse Program and in advocating rights for the handicapped. She is a lecturer at Corpus Christi Church and has been a teacher in the Religious Education program, as well as a leader in a study group for adults.

Carol Osip served as chairperson for the District 12 Award Committee. Other members were Ann Bulger, Joan Dow-Styve, Marvin Chapple, Judy Schumacher, Sandra Jacobs, and Alice Magnuson.

The Neighborhood Forum also features a keynote address by Dr. Vivian Jenkins Nelsen—community organizer, manager, and consultant. A resident of the Willard-Homewood neighborhood of Minneapolis, Nelsen is president of the International Institute for Interracial Interaction, Inc., INTER-RACE. She has served on the Governor's Committee on Drugs and Crime, the Children's Hour Film Board, and the Minnesota Chapter of the Political Congress of Black Women. She also has been recognized by Presidents Ford, Carter, and Reagan for her work on refugee resettlement, urban policy, and women's issues.

Workshop topics under consideration are: reaching out to other cultures, environmental issues, block networks, efficient meetings, youth, the media, and crime.

For more information about the forum call either Ann Copeland, 228-3218 or Jerry Jenkins, 228-3258.

Former St. Anthony Parkite Dan Stock has "made it big" with Zubaz. He's made it so big that now he's going to make them small, too.

Zubaz bring the jungle to the city

By Linda S. Foster

What ARE Zubaz?

1. Jungle animal patterned clothing worn by many two-legged mammals.
2. A "fabricated" expression used at gyms, meaning, "In your face."
3. The name of an internationally successful business located in Roseville, partly owned by a former St. Anthony Park resident.

Answer: ALL OF THE ABOVE.

Zubaz is a company founded by Dan Stock, who grew up on Hillside Ave., and Bob Truax, from Burnsville. Two years ago Stock and Truax, owners of Twin Cities Gym, were looking for ways to supplement their incomes. They developed the idea of making comfortable exercise clothing in bold jungle patterns. A prototype for some loose-fitting pants was made, the material was purchased locally, and manufacturing began at the Minnesota Correctional Facility in Shakopee.

Although the knit fabric used today is made to Zubaz specifications in North Carolina, the cutting and sewing is now done in North Carolina and Florida, and the colors, patterns and sizes have expanded, the international headquarters and distribution center has remained in Roseville.

Travel and 60-70 hour work weeks are both part of Stock's job as head of marketing and promotion. His efforts have led to orders from J.C. Penney, Dayton-Hudson, Macy's, Herman's and Foot Locker.

Stock's interest in athletics (he was active in sports at Langford Park and at Murray High School, class of '77) and his current connections in the sports world have helped him sell Zubaz to the National Football League. The company makes pants, shirts and caps in team colors for all 28 NFL teams.

But Zubaz are for the jungle gym set as well as the for the gym set: They are already popular with school age children. Infant and toddler Zubaz will be on the market soon. There are also plans for high fashion items.

If you're trying to spot local celebrity, Dan Stock, walking down the street, don't look for someone wearing a coat and tie. You'll only find Dan in his Zubaz.

Erwin VFW Post remembers St. Anthony Park veteran

By Kathy Malchow

On Sat., Sept. 8, memories of Joseph A. Erwin will come alive. A celebration honoring the 70th year of VFW Post 458 will take place that day at the Lester Tjernlund American Legion Post in St. Anthony Park. Much of the program will be devoted to the VFW group's history and its namesake, Joseph A. Erwin.

Erwin was a young man from St. Anthony Park, born in 1899. He went to Baker School on Raymond Ave., Guttersen School on Como & Hillside, and graduated from Central High School. Then he enlisted in the U.S. Marines in 1917 at age 17 and was sent to France during World War I. His Marine regiment was attached to an army infantry division about 45 miles outside of Paris, where it is recorded that Erwin fought in three ground battles. He was wounded in battle and died on Oct. 4, 1918, at age 18.

Erwin is buried in Flanders Field, the U.S. military cemetery in Belgium. He is one of 368 members of the U.S. armed forces killed in World War I who are buried there. Erwin's mother, Luella, went "on a pilgrimage" to visit his grave in 1929, according to research reported by Ed Dyrda, a World War II Marine who's been active at the Erwin Post for 43 years.

The Erwins were members of what is now the St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ, on Commonwealth & Chelmsford. Church members and visitors to that building may recall seeing a rock outside the front of the church with a memorial plaque on it dedicated to Joseph.

Luella was a charter member of the Ladies' Auxiliary at Post 458 and was named a Gold Star mother, since her son had been killed in battle.

The Erwin VFW Post, started in 1920, was only the second Post instituted in St. Paul. At that time the group met in one of the buildings on Raymond Ave. near University, Dyrda said. The Post's headquarters is now at 957 Front Ave.

Erwin has been remembered several times "officially" over the years. For example, in 1941 the Ladies' Auxiliary of Post 451 presented a gold leaf framed picture of the signing of the Declaration of Independence to Guttersen 2350 Territorial Road, with the program beginning at 7 p.m. Cost is $10. Everyone who attends will receive a history booklet that recalls the Post's members and activities.

There are no charter members left, according to Dyrda, but their memory, as well as memories of young

Joseph A. Erwin

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie in Flanders field. (second stanza)

School. Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the men's group have marched for years in the St. Anthony Park Fourth of July parade.

And now in 1990, 72 years after Erwin's death, everyone is invited to his Post's 70th birthday. There will be a dinner beginning at 6 p.m. at the Tjernlund Post, Joseph A. Erwin, will surely not be forgotten.

Canadian poet, John McCrae, who also died in 1918, wrote the famous poem about Flanders Field, quoted above, during the time he was a physician in France during World War I.

The "Open House"

One of the recent trends in real estate sales is the "Open House" method of selling a home. An "Open House" does just what the name suggests; it opens the house to the general public and, hopefully, generates an interested buyer.

An "Open House" gives a real estate agent the opportunity to spotlight a particular property and it gives both the agent and the seller a chance to hear viewers' opinions together and to make adjustments in the market strategy if necessary. "Open Houses" are usually held on either or both Saturday and Sunday afternoons, but can be anytime.

When a property is first listed, it is also common for an agency to hold an "Agents Open House" to give all the area Multiple Listing agents an opportunity to preview the house at the same time to see if it fits their buyers' needs. This minimizes disturbances to the seller and the seller's family.

An "Open House" is a popular and effective means for marketing most residential properties. If we listed your property we would discuss if this marketing technique is best for you.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please call Edina Realty, 2803 Lincoln Drive, Roseville. Phone: 636-3760. We're here to help.

and sidewalk jumping process for damage reasons and particularly for safety reasons. At a pro lawn-parker packed community meeting, the group manipulated a "no restriction" parking vote through without the opposition having the opportunity to be heard. So, where has the "compromise" come into being that is glorified by Ms. Maccabee? It is only a ploy to allow basically unrestricted parking. Compromise? Hardly!

While some lawn-parkers have been getting away with the illegal lawn-parking in the past, presently facetiously permitted, now is the time to call it quits. They have had their fun and made their "bundles" by using the community and city for their personal gain at the expense of both. Commercial parking enterprises should not be conducted on residentially-zoned property. This is the second year of a two-year trial period for the City Council's relaxed Ordinance. It should not be allowed to continue beyond this year. Let's try to improve the area, the city and their image rather than to tear them down as is now being done.

Also to be considered are the rights and safety of those using the sidewalks—our children and other everyday users. The "compromise" places them at much greater risk of accident and also violates their rights of free passage along walkways not designed and planned for driveways.

Mary Mergenthal: As you know, the St. Anthony Park community has many parking problems involving the University of Minnesota student parking, all pretty well controlled by City parking limits on the streets as requested and insisted upon by its residents. When the proposed Fair Parking ordinance revision arose, District 12 overwhelmingly took the position that it did not want to be included in the lawn-parking allowed area. The adamant position was recognized by the City Council and the St. Anthony Park area was excluded even though some of its residents had parked cars in their yards. You could expect and would certainly receive a loud negative outcry from the Highland Park, Crocus Hill or any other nice area in the city if lawn parking was proposed for their communities. Paula Maccabee continually refers to how neat it was that her father would load up the family and go off to the Fair, parking in one of the yards and gladly paying the fee. It is doubtful if he would open his yard for or welcome commercial lawn-parking in his neighborhood.

We have enough bad areas in the City of St. Paul, let's not create any more! We simply cannot understand your support for such a degrading activity, particularly when the District of the Park Bugle's home location is decidedly against the lawn-parking activity.

The City of Falcon Heights has prohibited lawn parking right along and seems to get along just fine with the Fairgoers—and with each other. It can happen in St. Paul, too.

We were pleased to be included in the circulation of the Park Bugle and hope that it will continue. It is interesting, well-done, and contributes a fine service in bringing Falcon Heights, Lauderdale, St. Anthony Park and the West Como communities into a sense of unity.

Robert H. Brokopp

Thanks for flowers

Dear editor,

I'm taking this opportunity to write and say a great big "thank you" to the merchants in St. Anthony Park for the lovely flower gardens along the avenue this summer.

Almost every day I walk along the avenue and stop to look at each one.

Many times I've seen other people doing the same thing so I know I am speaking for many.

Thank you for giving us this beauty to look at.

Carolyn Nielsen

Trim those hedges

Dear editor,

I would like to issue a challenge on the behalf of all walkers in St. Anthony Park to all of you who own property that includes public sidewalk. Try to walk directly down the middle of the sidewalk from one end of your property to the other. Can you do this without ducking, swerving, or otherwise leaving the middle of the sidewalk? Now try the same exercise after a rain, when the foliage is wet. For some of you this will give new meaning to the phrase "reach out and touch someone!"

Not only is this a matter of aesthetics, it also has to do with safety. More and more often I see people walking in the streets rather than fight with trees, bushes and undergrowth.

If this letter makes you a little uncomfortable, perhaps it is time for you to get out the pruning shears or even the chain saw. I, for one, will be very grateful.

Minnesota Weavers Guild marks golden anniversary

By Ann Whittemore

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Minnesota Weavers Guild in St. Anthony Park. Founded in 1940 by Hilma Berglund, Mrs. Lynwood Downs and Mrs. George Glockler, the Guild was originally comprised of 26 charter members who each paid their membership dues of 50 cents. For the first fifteen years, most meetings were held in members' homes, although the Walker Art Center was often used, as well as the Minneapolis Art Institute, the Minneapolis Vocational School, and the University of Minnesota. Speakers came from as far as Winnipeg to lecture on such subjects as "Warp and Weft Rep Weaves," "Two-Shuttle Weaves," and "Open Work or Lace Weaves." In 1945 the Guild displayed its first public exhibit, containing over 200 hand-woven articles, at the Minneapolis Public Library. Other exhibits followed, and Guild members held "round robins," travelling to cover seven Midwest States sharing ideas and techniques.

Although the Guild had always played a strong role in educating weavers through study groups and lectures, the first formal classes were not held until 1955, when the Guild found room, after a long search for appropriate space, in the basement of the YWCA. It had been expected that this location would help boost Guild membership, but in fact, membership declined.

In 1968, the Guild moved to Como & Carter in St. Anthony Park, where the Textile Workshop flourished. It was during this period that the Guild grew to its highest membership, containing over 800 members in 1974. With such a renewed interest in natural fibers during this "flower-child" era, space was short for classes and workshops, and the Guild relocated in Dania Hall at Cedar-Riverside. This lease, too, became unsatisfactory, and again the Guild moved, this time to its present location in the Chittenden and Eastman building on Raymond & University.

No one is exactly sure who these weavers are or when the photo was taken, but all agree these women are examples of the sort of people who started the Weavers Guild of Minnesota and have profited from its classes and programs.

Today the Minnesota Weavers Guild boasts about 400 members, and continues its educational workshops and classes. It is presently the largest teaching guild in the U.S., with classes in the textile arts taught by independent contractors who are experts in their fields. Members also present programs to schools, fairs and community organizations such as the Minnesota Zoo. The Guild still participates in the Minnesota State Fair, and also holds the annual Fiber Fair, a sale of members' work. This year Fiber Fair will be at Har Mar Mall, Nov. 2-4.

In celebration of the 50th anniversary, members' work will be showcased at the Guilded Threads exhibit at the Paul Whitney Larson Gallery in the University of Minnesota St. Paul Campus Student Center, 2017 Buford Ave., from Sept. 23-Oct. 9. Work will also be on display at the Weavers Guild Studios at 2402 University Ave.

The formal opening and reception will be on Sun.,

Sept. 30, at the Larson Gallery from 1-5 p.m. The reception keynote speaker will be Charlene Burningham, an internationally acclaimed fiber artist and teacher, and a past University of Minnesota professor of design.

Burningham, whose contemporary pieced quilts have received many awards and are in several collections, will speak on "The History of the Contemporary Fiber Movement." The exhibits and reception will feature not only the members' interest in traditional and contemporary weaving, but also spinning, basketry and dyeing wool.

In the last fifty years, the Minnesota Weavers Guild has gained a strong influence in the Fiber Arts. The non-profit organization's future goals, as stated by Virginia Parent, Head of Public Relations, are "to keep the craft of weaving alive, as we have done in the past, through classes and community outreach."

For more information about the Weavers Guild or the upcoming events, call the Guild studios at 644-3594 weekday mornings.

follows a fairly regular schedule, but for the McCann boys, a 40-hour work week is unheard of, according to Jack. They open at 7:30 a.m., and are often there until 6 p.m. or later. Weekends often include work. Yet Jack and Jim agree that the work is rewarding and fun, too.

"Working with family is not easy," said Chuck. "Even though you're a father figure, you have to be a leader, and a leader has to lead. The kids can't be sensitive if I'm critical on a construction item because I'm not criticizing as a father, I'm criticizing as a builder. They're sensitive and then of course I'm sensitive after they go away upset."

"It can be tough working with your family, but it's kind of nice, too," said Jim. "I have some friends who see their family once or twice a month. I get to see my parents every day. When you work for your family or for yourself, it's easier to get ahead and it's easier to get along with people," he added.

Update's properties are almost always fully occupied, mainly by small businesses. Jack believes this is because Update is a family-run company. "We service our tenants and if they want something in three weeks, they get it in three weeks," said Jack. During the winter, Update makes sure its tenants' lots are plowed and that everybody's cars start at the end of the day. They will even give a tenant a ride to work if his or her car is in the shop for a day.

Chuck feels a lot of pride working alongside his kids. "People will come by and they'll say: "Who did that?" and I'll say: "My kids did that." Chuck added, "They can do a lot. Sandy is very capable at book-keeping. Our tenants will come to my boys for advice and accept what they say. Even though they're young, they've got the knowledge and the experience. As a father, it's nice to see other people accepting your kids' advice as worthwhile."

The Update Company recently finished work on the $2.4 million Midtown Commons project located at 2345 University Ave. near the intersection of Raymond & University. Now modern office spaces, the two buildings that make up Midtown Commons were once used as a terminal and repair shop for horse-drawn street cars back in the late 1800s. Today, due to Update's restoration work, much of the turn-of-the-century charm remains. The brick walls and large timber construction, along with a restored antique walk-in vault, greet visitors as they enter the east building of the Commons.

While their purpose is not always historical restoration, McCann says Update tries to maintain the aesthetic features and integrity of old structures when renovating them.

Across the street from Midtown Commons is another Update project—the Northern Clay Center, 2375 University Ave. The Clay Center, a regional center for ceramic artists, houses studios, a work area for large kilns, an exhibition hall and a retail space where artists can sell their pottery.

Currently, Update owns nine buildings in the west end of the Midway Area on University Ave. These buildings house about 70-80 tenants. Recently Update purchased the Specialty Building located on the southeast corner of Raymond & University. Renovation of the 140,000 square foot structure began in August.

All the McCann kids agree that their Dad is the one who has the knack for visualizing what the renovated buildings will end up looking like.

A man who has worked often with Chuck McCann on revitalization projects in the University & Raymond area is Andy Boss, President of St. Anthony Park State Bank. Boss was impressed by how well the McCann family works together. Boss added that he saw McCann as an "astute businessman" and one who cares about and has done a lot to restore vitality to the neighborhood. "He's pragmatic, realistic, and at the same time creative and a visionary. It's unusual to see that combination in a person," Boss added.

Reunion from 1

but the teachers were on our side," says Peterson. "We worked together."

Brokopp remembers that the students helped the teachers, too. "Some of them hadn't taught at the high school level for a long time and we all worked our way through the curriculum together. It was a learning experience for both teachers and students."

Brokopp, Shosten and Peterson all remembered Mr. Winkelman, the German teacher who would sometimes dance around the room with his hand on his head, Miss Darsch (art and French) and Rollie Johnson, who was also a sportscaster for WCCO radio at the time and thus somewhat of a celebrity at the school. The principal, Mr. Hillard, had been principal previously at Mechanic Arts.

Of course, academics were not the only matters on students' minds. They had active social lives, although quite different from those of students of today. Shosten remembers the Taj-ettes (Typical American Juniors), a girls' club patterned after the sororities at Central High School. They gave dances at the White Pine Inn, the Highland Golf Course clubhouse and the Columbia Heights Golf Course clubhouse ($1.10 a ticket). They hired a band and all wore formals. "We thought we were the cat's pajamas!" laughs Shosten.

Kusterman's (now Mannings in the Park) was the place to hang out, and on Saturdays they would take the streetcar downtown for lunch at the Lowry Hotel, come back for a cone at Kusterman's and skate (longblades) at the Hippodrome (now the Coliseum). A season ticket for skating was $5.

As many Murray graduates have done, Peterson, Shosten and Brokopp expressed sadness that Murray is no longer a high school. "It's like we lost our school when they changed it." Still, they have their memories, and they look forward to sharing them and renewing friendships at their 50th reunion.

The CHEXTRA® card is here!

Here's a riddle. What looks like a VISA® card, works like a check and can be used in any ATM cash machine? The answer is CHEXTRA®, First Bank's newly unveiled debit card.

An emerging trend

Debit cards have been around since the 1970s but have gained significant popularity within the last two years. Today more than 1,400 banks offer debit card services to nearly 12 million customers.

EXTRA convenience

The reason for the popularity of debit cards is simple: extra convenience. In addition to the usual ATM cash machine functions, such as cash withdrawals, deposits, transfers and balance inquiries, a debit card can be used to make purchases at any VISA® credit card merchant around the world by accessing funds from your checking account.

With First Bank's CHEXTRA® card, simply present the card to any VISA® merchant instead of writing a check. You don't even need to explain that it's not a credit card. Just sign the receipt and use the "customer copy" to record the purchase in your checkbook register. After a few days - the usual "float" period for a check - the amount of your purchase will be deducted from your checking account and appear on your monthly checking statement. It's that easy!

EXTRA protection

Better still, when you use the CHEXTRA® card, many of your purchases are automatically protected for 90 days against loss, theft, fire or breakage under the new First Banks Buyer Protection Program.*

EXTRA access

The CHEXTRA® card is great for families with joint checking accounts. One person, for example, can carry the checkbook while the other uses the CHEXTRA® card. Or, for ultimate convenience, both can carry the card.

The card is also a convenient way for people who spend part of the year away from home to access their checking account. This especially comes in handy when making purchases from out-of-town merchants who accept only local checks.

In short, debit cards are ideal for anyone who enjoys added convenience from "plastic."

NOW'S THE TIME

The best time to reseed or overseed grass in Minnesota is from late August thru mid to late September. Warm soil, cool nights and almost no competition from annual weed germination offer the best chance for success.

Newly seeded grass areas must be kept moist until mostly germinated, then watered frequently because the young roots are so shallow.

Fertilize after germination (mid to late September) and then again in late October or early November.

Check over your mower and make sure the blade is sharp. The new tender shoots handle a clean cut much better than a dull thwack.

And last, hope for snow cover to insulate and protect the lawn from freezing and stress.
