Fourth of July brings parade...and more...

By Steve Bishop

What could be more fun on a beautiful summer day than watching kids parade down "main street" on their freshly decorated trikes, listening to Igor's Brass Band, eating a hot dog at the park, or dancing to the best rock and roll in the Twin Cities?

Come to Langford Park in St. Anthony Park on the Fourth of July to experience the sights and sounds of an old-fashioned small town celebration. There are events for every member of every family.

The Fourth of July celebration starts at 8:30 a.m. with the Langford Distance Races for all ages. There are four-mile races for men, women and masters (40 and older) and two-mile races for joggers and juniors (15 and younger). The races start at the recreation building and require a small fee.

A pancake breakfast will be served by the St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church, Como & Hillside Avenues, from 8:30-10:30 a.m. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

The main event for the day is the Grand Parade—a classic old-time neighborhood parade for the whole family, where everyone can participate. Children, bikes, trikes, baby wagons and families assemble at 11 a.m. at the Park Service station. Marching units, including Boy Scouts, athletic teams, bands, floats and vehicles assemble at Luther Place and Como. The parade begins at 11:30 a.m. and progresses down Como to Langford Park. It will include color guard, VIPs, antique cars, floats and a variety of marching units.

The St. Anthony Park Precision Marching Lawnmower Drill Team may even make an appearance. Kids, families and spectators are welcome to join in, so decorate your bike, trike or wagon and parade to Langford Park for the remaining activities of the day.

The refreshment stand begins serving at noon. The opening ceremony at the bandstand at Langford Park begins at 12:15, featuring greetings from city and community leaders. Winning patriotic essays by local school children will also be presented. Opening events will be followed by a concert by the St. Anthony Park Community Band playing a collection of favorite patriotic and popular songs.

Registration for the volleyball tournament will begin at 12:30 with games starting at 1 p.m. A power tournament and a recreational tournament will be held; players may sign up individually, by group or as a team for either tournament. A horseshoe tournament will also be held starting at 1 p.m. on the horseshoe court near the Recreation Center.

A new event, the St. Anthony Park Detour, also starts at 1 p.m. from Langford Park. An air-conditioned bus will take you on a guided tour of the St. Anthony Park neighborhood. You will hear over 50 stories about places and events relating to the history of the Park. A second tour leaves Langford Park at 2:30 p.m. Call Gerald McKay at 646-4158 for reservations. This event is sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Association.

One of the all-time favorite events at the Fourth of July celebration is the pony rides. From 1-5 p.m., kids can experience the sights (and smells) of everyone's favorite animal.

Special events for kids of all ages include running races, three-legged races, shoe toss, and other contests of skill and daring for the whole family. Ribbons are given for all participants, with prizes for winners.

Igor Razskazoff's band will again provide musical entertainment from 5-6:30 p.m. Drawings for door prizes will also be held at this time. A chicken barbecue picnic will be served to support the Murray Junior High and

St. Anthony Park Elementary School's Environmental Learning Center program.

The evening program brings back the Rockin' Hollywoods after a three-year absence. From 7-9 p.m., they will bring favorites from the '50s and '60s for a rollicking end to a fantastic day. A raffle drawing will be held at 8:30 p.m. for prizes of $300, $200 and $100. Raffle tickets will be sold during the day and at the evening performance.

Fourth of July in the Park is sponsored by the Fourth of July Committee of the St. Anthony Park Association, the St. Paul Dept. of Parks and Recreation, area residents and you! The event is supported entirely by your contributions, raffle tickets and food sales. Contributions may be sent to Fourth of July Committee, St. Anthony Park Association, P.O. Box 80062, St. Paul, MN 55108. Contributions may also be dropped off at the information desk at ParkBank.

No, this photo doesn't show Sherlock Holmes and Watson. It's really Gale Frost and Gerald McKay having fun deciding on mysterious places to show on the 4th of July Detour, when they'll reveal more than 50 Park secrets. Frost has lived in St. Anthony Park for 65 years and McKay for 46.

Take a detour on the 4th

By Gerald McKay

Mysteries about St. Anthony Park will be explained on a Detour on the Fourth of July. For example, do you know which Park resident owned a major football franchise? Do you know where the steam tunnels were, or which house was the original St. Anthony Park railroad depot? And do you know who Dad the Archer was, and where the cow pasture was located, or where the first Murray School was? Have you seen the homes of St. Anthony Park's three state governors?

If you join one of the air-conditioned bus Detours, you'll get answers to these and 53 other interesting questions about St. Anthony Park.

Two afternoon bus Detours are being sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Association as part of the 4th of July celebration. The places, events and people have been selected by Gale Frost, chairman of the association's special events committee. Gale and his associates will narrate the story behind each feature on the trip.

Detours will start at 1 and 2:30 p.m. near St. Anthony Park Elementary School in Langford Park. Charge for the trip will be $4/adults and $3/children 12 and under. To make a reservation, call 646-4158.

On the 4th of July, the Honor Guard will carry the flag of the United States of America along Como Avenue. This flag is more than a colorful piece of fabric—it is a symbol of this country. To people all over the world, this flag is a symbol of personal freedom.

There is an accepted "Flag Code" for parades. Each person present should stand up when the flag passes and stand at attention with the right hand over the heart. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniform, men should remove their hat with their right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Visitors to our country should simply stand quietly at attention.

People should stand as the Honor Guard goes past.

Council actions at a glance

Neighbors want safer intersections on Raymond Ave.

At its June meeting, council members:

- Voted support of four-way stops along Raymond Ave. at Doswell and Carter in response to requests and petition considered at the May 22 Housing Committee meeting.
- Acted to support mandatory 2% for Public Art Ordinance now under consideration by the City Council to provide for excellence in urban design when capital projects are funded.
- Agreed to sponsor door-knocking project to improve neighborhood participation in recycling in targeted areas.
- Selected Sept. 11 for food shelf/recycling pickup in cooperation with the Neighborhood Energy Consortium and Super Cycle.
- Endorsed the proposal for the formal structure of University UNITED, an organization of neighborhoods and businesses along University Ave., to develop and plan for commercial economic development along University Ave. and adjacent areas. Named Paul Savage and David Liset as community council (District 12) representatives.
- Approved the general concept for surface parking adjacent to the Specialty Building and the vacation of Myrtle St. from Raymond Ave. to LaSalle to provide the space for additional parking to serve patrons of other nearby businesses.

What can I do with leftover paint?

Leftover paint is a household hazardous waste that contains solvents, metals and other chemicals that can harm people, pets and livestock. It can also pollute lakes, streams and groundwater, so paint should never be dumped on the ground, down drains or in the trash.

You can avoid having leftover paint by purchasing only the amount you need and use up the extra by applying another coat of paint. Use up leftover paint first when you start a new project and buy colors that will be used again. If you can't use your leftover paint, give it to someone who can: neighbors, community service groups, theater groups and recreation departments.

Save your paint for disposal. Ramsey County is opening a permanent drop-off site sometime soon. Residents will be notified by mail.

For more information on paint and other household hazardous wastes, contact Ramsey County at 292-7825 or 633-EASY.

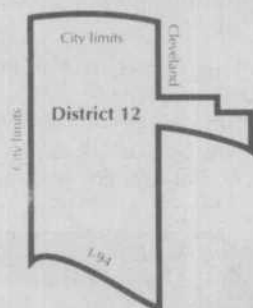

The St. Anthony Park (District 12) Community Council is a group of 21 citizens elected to serve the District 12 area of St. Paul, including residents of St. Anthony Park, and representatives of commerce and industry. It is one of 17 citizen participation councils in the city.

The Council meetings are the Wednesday after the first Thursday of every month. Committee meetings are scheduled as follows: Physical Planning and Human Services meet on the first Thursday of every month; Housing/Zoning and Environment meet the fourth Wednesday. All meetings are open to the public. Check the Community Calendar for time and location.

July 16 event heralds 3 projects at Raymond/Energy Park Drive

The neighborhood is invited to attend a community celebration on Tues., July 16 at 4:30 p.m. at Raymond/Energy Park Drive to mark the beginning of three projects designed to revitalize the area from the Raymond Ave. bridge to the railroad bridge over Raymond Ave. through new construction, green space and lantern-style lighting.

Mayor Scheibel, city council member Paula Maccabee, community council members and the developers will be on hand to celebrate the start of the construction and the end of years of planning for a link between the two areas of the neighborhood.

North and South St. Anthony Park will "officially" be linked when projects planned for the intersection at Raymond Ave. and Energy Park Drive are completed by year's end.

The commercial development by Wellington Management on the northwest corner will begin construction on July 1; the 18-unit housing development by Project for Pride in Living, Inc. on the southeast corner will start on July 8 and the park area developed by the Community Council through the Neighborhood Partnership Program will be under way by September.

The community council has guided this urban revitalization project through its planning efforts and by attracting public funds to provide "replacement housing" for units lost due to the Westgate development and the expansion of the Twin City Testing site.

Monitoring medical waste disposal

By Ken Holdeman

Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) has been operating a medical waste transfer facility in St. Anthony Park at 742 Vandalia since last November. The waste is currently sent to incinerators in Kansas City or Fargo. BFI wants to add an autoclave and shredder to process some of the waste locally.

As recent Bugle articles have reported, there are concerns that BFI was not adequately working with city officials and neighborhood groups to ensure that all questions were answered before going ahead with the installation. To address these concerns, BFI invited six representatives from the city and neighborhood groups to view a working autoclave in Atlanta. After the trip, the consensus was that an autoclave can be an acceptable addition to our neighborhood. However, there are many health and safety details that need to be addressed in order to ensure that neighborhood concerns are covered.

First, as responsible citizens, we should deal with our own wastes rather than hope they go away or try to force them on someone else. However, we should also recognize that medical waste has an image problem, which clouds a discussion of it. Whenever the name "medical waste" is brought up, it seems to bring up images of a slimy black blob crawling out of a swamp lagoon. It's the old fear of the unknown. What if something terrible happened?

This fear isn't anything to be made light of. The medical waste industry takes it very seriously.

The quick answer to this concern is that the medical profession has been handling medical waste for years. If they didn't know how to handle it properly, we'd have nurses and doctors keeling over in droves. People living near hospitals would complain, too.

The longer answer is to describe how medical wastes will be handled with the planned autoclave. First, medical wastes come from places such as hospitals, medical clinics, veterinary clinics, laboratories and nursing homes. Nurses and doctors place the medical waste in thick garbage bags. Sharp items, including needles and glass that can break, are placed in puncture-proof plastic boxes. When they are filled, the bags and "sharp" boxes are sealed, placed in larger boxes, sealed again and shipped in sealed trucks to the processing site. The medical waste is then divided into material that can be autoclaved (about 45%) and material that cannot will be placed in trucks for shipment to Kansas City or Fargo for incineration. The shipped material includes chemotherapy material and hazardous waste.

Ken Holdeman

The rest of the material is placed in an autoclave that is almost big enough for two Volkswagen beetles. This waste includes soiled bandages, disposable gowns, human and animal tissues, "sharps" and laboratory equipment. The autoclave steam heats the medical waste under pressure to 350 degrees for half an hour, which destroys the germs. The resulting sterilized material is shredded and disposed of in a separate location in a landfill.

When the autoclave is working, it smells like hot, wet paper. Although the smell is expected to be within city guidelines, BFI is planning to carbon filter the exhaust gases from the building as an added safety measure.

Therefore, based on the Atlanta site review and discussions with city and county officials who are defining requirements, it looks like an autoclave can be satisfactorily operated here. But do we want BFI to run the autoclave?

BFI represents a number of advantages: It is the largest company in the U.S. processing medical waste and one of five medical waste processors operating in the Twin Cities. The company not only knows how to build and operate autoclaves, it is working to improve their efficiency. In addition, Mike Ayers, who is in charge of the Vandalia autoclave project, started his career working for the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency for four years and then worked in local politics. He knows Minnesotans' requirements and how to work with us.

There are ways to treat medical waste other than autoclaving. One of these uses the newer microwaving technology. Since this method disinfects by heating water that is added to the waste, in many respects it is the same as autoclaving. One disadvantage of a unit built by a West German firm is that the waste is shredded before it is microwaved, which leads to a health risk associated with maintenance of the shredder. The microwave unit operates continuously, while the autoclave is a batch method. Because of this difference, it is questionable whether the microwave unit can maintain high pressures for as long as the autoclave and therefore whether it can disinfect as well. However, studies indicate that the microwaved waste has a lower level of bacteria content than ordinary household waste.

Although the BFI autoclave seems to be satisfactory from a neighborhood safety point of view, a number of St. Anthony Park Community Council delegates and ad hoc members continue to be concerned about the licensing and enforcement procedure. They will monitor the process to ensure that any medical waste management firm that does business here will protect the health and safety of our neighbors.

The Networker gets a new look

The St. Anthony Park Association and the Community Council sponsored a design contest for The Networker's masthead. Area students Joe Reuter and Scott Erickson from Como High School won $25 each for their winning entry. Take note of their hard work to give The Networker a new look. Nurse Erikson back from Kuwait

By Kristin Copa

Kuwait City is a long way from Lauderdale, a local nurse found out for herself recently.

Delores Erikson, a volunteer nurse with the American Red Cross, was part of a 50-delegate mission to the Middle East.

She and her co-workers spent six weeks in the region caring for mentally and physically ill patients in a hospital abandoned by its staff during the fighting and at a refugee camp on the Kuwait-Iraq border.

The trip was extraordinary right from the start.

After a four-day briefing in Washington D.C., the delegation, representing most areas of the United States, was flown to Dahrain, Saudi Arabia. From there, the members traveled aboard a C130 cargo plane to what was left of the Kuwait airport, where they were welcomed by coalition troops still in the area.

Erikson soon discovered the airport was not the only sign of the fighting that had taken place; Kuwait itself lay in ruins.

"I understand it was once a beautiful city," she said. "It's no longer beautiful."

The volunteer nurses stayed at a hotel that served as the Iraqi communications center during the war and was still intact. It did lack some amenities.

Electricity in the building was regained the day the nurses arrived, but there was no running water. Tanks on the roof heated water for baths, Erikson said, but not for drinking. They had to carry bottled water.

The nurses worked eight-and-a-half hours a day, six days a week for their stay. The days started early—at about 4:45 a.m.—when they drove the 70 miles to the refugee camp.

At that location, the nurses cared for 10,000 people left homeless by the war. Erikson said there were many children at the site and many babies born while she was there.

Dehydration was the biggest problem among the younger refugees.

"It was hot and dirty," she said. "They were just displaced—living in tents."

The temperature reached 120° in the afternoon, making it difficult to work.

"The Arab world shuts down in the afternoon," she said, "everyone does as little as possible."

The heat didn't keep Erikson from enjoying the experience. She said 65 percent of the refugees were educated, which helped because some spoke English.

"It was wonderful to take care of such nice people," she said. "They were very grateful. They didn't want us to leave. I think they are really going to miss us—I'll miss them."

Erikson, Red Cross member and a nurse for 45 years, became part of the Red Cross' volunteer nurse disaster team after retiring from the University of Minnesota.

Most of her calls to duty come in answer to the aftermath of severe weather or fires, but she can also be found at the State Fair and Taste of Minnesota. "It's the least I can do and I like it," she said.

"I'm so glad I went and came back. I'll remember them the rest of my life. It's an experience I'll never forget."

What are the elements of democracy?

By Tim Wulling

The St. Anthony Park Neighbors for Peace asked this question at the June Park Festival. People responded with a variety of ideas.

Democracy includes elections that offer people a choice of meaningful options. Some people think this means more than two political parties. Not only must each person have a vote but also a chance to run for public office. The amount of citizen participation affects the success of democracy.

Democracy requires informed citizens who participate in the process. Voters must be interested in the real issues and must be able to get truthful information. Communication is essential, and freedom of speech is an important part of communication. Free, higher education for everyone might be a good investment.

Democracy, that is, people and the government they form, should promote the common good while respecting everyone. Diversity is an asset, and justice, including social justice, applies to everyone. Diversity necessitates tolerance for differences among people, even for dissenting opinions. The slowness of democratic processes requires patience, but injustice should create impatience. Violence, deceit, betrayal and excessive secrecy must be constrained by moral integrity as well as by laws. The rule of law should be the minimum framework by which people interact with each other, but laws must be created democratically and be just.

Restraints on power enable good leadership. Decisions must be made without bias.

Creativity should flourish because successful democracy does not bridle it. Conflict is to be expected in democracy having diversity and dissent, but it should be dealt with constructively, not abusively.

Some of these elements of democracy raise questions. What should be tolerated? Everything? Even illegal actions? In 1776, should people in the colonies have been tolerant of British taxation rather than have revolted? When is patience appropriate? On the other hand, is truth ever undesirable?

Perhaps readers can elaborate on some of these elements of democracy that were provided by people at the June Festival.

Wishing Virgil well

Dear editors,

Beyond disappointment, speculation, anger and loyalty is the fact that Virgil Amsden is no longer serving neighborhood businesses and residents. Virgil had a long-standing career of providing personal and caring service to St. Anthony Park [at ParkBank] and he will be missed. While time and change march on, some of the stability and presence in business has been lost all across America and now in our own neighborhood.

We'd like to wish Virgil and his family well, hope they have a bright future and compliment him for years of trusting service. The Park is better for it.

No leashes for cats

Dear editors,

Why should we have a cat leash law in Lauderdale? Not in surrounding communities, I believe, but here in Lauderdale.

We moved into this seemingly family community before we acquired our cats. We like and accept the variety here: barking dogs, free-running cats and noisy kids of all ages. Before we knew of the cat leash law, our cats ran free as did the other cats we saw.

The animal control person for Lauderdale notified us of the leash law. (I'm tempted to ask him if he will pick up the wild, stray rabbit I saw near our garden.) I wrote a letter to the mayor to protest this; he brought it to the council, which sounded in favor of this law. A council member said a leash worked okay.

We have tried a leash on one of our cats. The other cat seemed to go out of his mind with anxiety when we tried to put the leash on him.

It's true our cats kill mice, shrews, birds and squirrels. Our cats are neutered males, brothers, and all their shots are up to date. According to our vet, cats do not pass on any illnesses to humans, although many people worry about scratches and rabies.

We do pay our bills, taxes and are generally responsible people. I am not fanatical and don't want to sound too serious, but cats are part of family life and why not? Cats are graceful, living works of art and nature to be observed and admired.

I protest the cat ordinance which I understand is being rewritten for another council meeting.

Su MacEachron

Thanks

Dear editors,

Many thanks to all the people who stopped by the Park Bugle booth during the Park Festival June 1. It was heart-warming to have so many people drop by and tell us that they read the paper each month "from cover to cover," that they never miss an issue and that they plan their calendars according to the local events listed in the newspaper.

Congratulations to Patty Prifrel for winning the news quiz drawing, and a special thank you to Muffuletta in the Park for providing the prize.

Thanks also to the Park Press board members and Bugle staff for planning and staffing the booth—Jim Christenson, Don Ellis, Paul Kirkegaard, Rachel Larson, Stew McIntosh, Nate Morris, Tommy Thompson and Connie Tressel.

Mandatory recycling begins in St. Paul

By Jane McClure, Neighborhood Press Association

In recent years, recycling has become a way of life for many St. Paul residents.

As of July 1, it becomes the law.

Passage of a mandatory residential recycling ordinance puts St. Paul in the forefront of metropolitan area and statewide environmental efforts.

"We've got to reduce the amount of waste we have going to landfills, and we've got to stop feeding the incinerators," said St. Paul City Council Member Bob Long. He and his staff, along with Neighborhood Energy Consortium and public works employees, have been working for years to make mandatory recycling a reality.

Up until now, residential recycling in St. Paul has been conducted on a voluntary basis. Less than 50 percent of residents leave recyclables out for the monthly or twice-monthly collection.

Key points of the ordinance that go into effect July 1:

- Mandatory recycling. Residents of single-family homes and multi-family dwellings with less than 25 units must recycle at least three materials. Items residents can separate and recycle are glass, cans, newspapers, magazines and corrugated cardboard. The recyclable materials may be left at curbside on designated neighborhood pickup days, taken to a drop-off site, taken to a buy-back center or given to volunteer groups collecting such materials.

- Mandatory recycling for larger multi-family properties and commercial establishments begins Jan. 1, 1992.

- Mandatory volume-based fees. Garbage haulers must offer three levels of volume-based fees for garbage collection and disposal. The level of service and the fee paid for garbage collection is tied to the number of 30-33 gallon containers residents put out for collection. Each container can weigh no more than 30 pounds. Haulers must also charge separate fees for solid waste, yard waste and other separate types of waste, so that residents pay for amount and type of materials put out for collection.

Volume-based fees are to be offered to residents of single-family homes and in multi-family dwellings with up to four units.

According to Long, one premise behind volume-based fees is to provide a financial incentive to those who recycle more and throw away less.

- Mandatory collection. All building owners, including residents of single-family homes, are now required to have solid waste collected every seven days. Proof of garbage service must be provided upon request.

Community organizers and residents contending with so-called "garbage houses" like the ordinance's provisions calling for garbage pickup at every residence in the city. Betty Moran of the West Seventh-Fort Road

Federation said that measure will make taking action against problem properties easier.

- Yard waste management. Two years ago, the Minnesota Legislature banned disposal of yard waste in metropolitan area landfills. Since then, Ramsey County has operated collection sites for grass clippings, leaves and other types of yard waste. The new ordinance requires garbage haulers to make separate weekly yard waste collection available from April until November. Residents who wish to compost yard waste on their property may continue to do so, if they follow city ordinances.

Violation of the mandatory recycling ordinance is a misdemeanor. Enforcement is in the hands of the city's public works department. Public works will evaluate the program each year to see if there is a need for enforcing mandatory recycling, said Rick Person, head of public works department's solid waste division.

"We're hoping for voluntary compliance," said Mary T'Kach, who oversees recycling programs for the Neighborhood Energy Consortium (NEC). She compared the recycling ordinance to recently enacted state laws calling for mandatory wearing of seat belts.

While enforcement is one question mark, launching mandatory recycling in St. Paul's neighborhoods raises other questions. Topping the list is: When will we get recycling bins in our neighborhoods?

"Bins are one of the big questions," said T'Kach.

It is hoped that at least half of the neighborhoods without recycling bins will receive them from the city in 1992, she continued. Efforts are also under way to fund some bins this fall.

But the cost of recycling bins has been weighed against other program needs and total dollars available, she said. "We may have to ask people 'Do you want plastics recycling, or do you want to receive containers?'"

The NEC and city are also seeking matching funds from private business to purchase recycling bins.

At least three neighborhoods already have recycling bins. The Midway neighborhood has had bins since 1988, as a pilot project by Ramsey County. Como Park and Summit Hill also sell bins to residents. A fourth neighborhood with recycling bins available is Macalester-Groveland, the lone city neighborhood that isn't a member of the NEC. That neighborhood runs its own recycling program.

"They do make a difference," Midway (District 11) Community Organizer Susan Marschalk said of recycling bins. "We did see an increase in recycling."

One problem the Midway area has had is that no funds were provided for replacement recycling bins, Marschalk said. Some bins "moved away" when residents left the neighborhood, while others disappeared from curbs.

Vietnam vets meet for support and service

By Ingrid Marklund

To be a member of Vietnam Veterans of America in St. Paul could mean taking part in Memorial Day ceremonies or meeting old pals at monthly meetings on Snelling Ave.

But it could also mean playing softball with inmates at Stillwater prison or delivering food for the Fare SHARE program.

"We emphasize community service," says Tom Storey, St. Anthony Park resident and a founder of the St. Paul chapter of VVA. "I think we are the only veterans with a chapter in a prison," Storey says. "But we have to face it—among the huge group of people who are Vietnam vets, there are guys who are convicted for all types of crimes. We try to socialize with them and help them get settled when they get out. We have managed to find jobs for some of them."

The VVA members not only help other veterans, they also help at food shelves and work for the homeless. But, of course, there is a special feeling of responsibility for veterans who get into trouble.

"We don't give money to individuals," Storey explains. "But we can sometimes give food, and we can give our time."

He tells a success story about a veteran who used to live under bridges in the Twin Cities—a man with drinking problems who lost his family. Somehow he managed to stay sober for some time and even got himself a job, but he felt he just couldn't work out his problems himself. "He had so little money he had to sell his blood to get bus money to go to his new job," Storey recalls. "We started to drive him to work and gave him some support. Now he is working, he has his son back and is doing just fine."

Storey also wants us to know that most Vietnam vets are neither criminals nor alcoholics.

"Most of the guys came home, started to work and raised a family. But after the war, especially in the late '70s, the media image of the Vietnam veteran was the deranged drug addict with long, dirty hair."

When the Vietnam Vets of America first organized in the '80s, the idea was to advance the image of veterans—to give themselves more self-esteem and to show the public that they were just ordinary guys who had served their country.

Tom Storey is an organizer of the St. Paul chapter of Vietnam Veterans of America.

"Our organization grew out of a group of veterans against the war," Storey explains. "We don't have that profile now. I would say we are more mainstream with all kinds of opinions represented among our members. We are a non-political organization. But we actually came out of the anti-war movement."

This VVA chapter meets in the Hubert H. Humphrey Job Corps auditorium at Arlington & Snelling on the first Wednesday of every month at 7:30 p.m. Unlike most other veterans' organizations, they don't have a bar where they meet.

"We are very much aware of chemical dependency problems," Storey says. "It is one of the founding principles of the organization not to serve alcohol at our meetings."

Another facet of the VVA is its multicultural approach. The St. Paul chapter represented different races and cultures from the very start and it still puts an effort into being an organization for virtually everyone who ever served in the Vietnam war. Its members have worked with the Hmong American Veterans' Alliance, assisting in the assimilation of Hmong veterans—even those who were supposedly the enemies.

Last year the VVAs in St. Paul helped bring 14 Soviet veterans of the Afghan war to Minnesota. "That was great," Storey says. "Meeting veterans from other countries is maybe the most interesting part of our work. I wish we could one day meet the Vietnam veterans from the other side."

VVA is not a men's club, even though most of its members are males. So far 10 of the 120 members are women who are veterans themselves or spouses of veterans.

"We really welcome everybody who wants to be a member or who wants to support us," Storey says. Give him a call at 645-6804.

Lauderdale Community Picnic

Sat., July 13 is the date for this year's Lauderdale Community Picnic at Lauderdale City Park. The festivities begin at 5:30 p.m. with a potluck meal. Bring plates, utensils and beverage for your group and one dish of food to share. At 6:30 p.m., Peace Lutheran Church will sponsor an old-fashioned ice cream social at the park. At 7 p.m. the Roseville Community Band will entertain.

Park Rendezvous

St. Paul Parks & Recreation hosts its fourth annual Rendezvous on Wed., July 10. Rendezvous is a chance for the public to see the services that Parks & Recreation offers St. Paul residents. Held at seven sites throughout Como Park, the family fun-oriented event runs from 5:30-9 p.m. and is free.

There will be games, demonstrations and activities for people of all ages. Putting and chipping lessons will be given at the golf course. The popular aerial bucket rides will give children a bird's eye view of the park. Como Zoo and Conservatory will get into the act by offering tours, demonstrations and special exhibits. Musical attractions include the Classic Minnesota Brass Band. There will be prize drawings and giveaways at several sites.

For more information, call 292-7026.

Library programs for kids

"Kids Are Wild About Reading" at the St. Anthony Park Library, 2245 Como Ave., this summer. The summer reading program is well under way with special entertainers on Thursdays at 2:30 p.m. and Fridays at 10:30 a.m.:
Fri., July 5: Doodles the Clown;
Thurs., July 11 & Fri., July 12: Mary Ann Dougherty, multicultural music;
Thurs., July 18: Wendy Baldinger, songs and stories;
Fri., July 19: Como Zoo animal show;
Thurs., July 25 & Fri., 26: Ian Varella, ventriloquist.

The summer reading program will continue through the end of August and children can join at the library anytime.

Yard waste sites

Ramsey County's eight yard waste sites have new summer hours: Mon., Wed., Fri., noon-8 p.m.; Sat., 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sun., 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Closed Labor Day, Sept. 2. The sites are open to county residents free of charge. Closest site to the Bugle distribution area is the Midway Compost Site on Pierce Butler Rd. near Fairview.

Composted yard waste, for use in gardens, is available for residents to take home, free of charge, from the county sites.

Brush and other woody materials are not considered yard waste and can be put out with the trash. Homeowners should call their trash hauler for specifics on brush disposal.

For more information about yard waste, call 633-EASY.

Como Park lakeside worship

Como Park Lutheran Church, 1547 Sheldon St., will hold its Sunday worship outdoors at the Como Park Lakeside Pavilion on Sun., June 30 and Sun., July 28, at 10 a.m. On June 30, special guest speaker will be Pastor James Gonia, missionary in Madagascar. Both worships will feature a folk liturgy, led by a musical ensemble. Refreshments will be served following the services.

New arrivals at zoo

Two young male gorillas have emigrated from the San Diego Wild Animal Park to Como Zoo. Gordon, age 5, and Schroeder, age 5 1/2, are now on exhibit in the Primate Building, along with Don, age 23, and Casey II, age 9. This bachelor group was recommended by the Gorilla Species Survival Plan. The plan has been established to evaluate and recommend captive management strategies to ensure the long-term survival of the gorilla species.

Two new animal births have occurred recently at Como Zoo. A highly endangered Snow Leopard cub was born May 23, but due to the sensitive nature of this species, the zoo is not allowing public viewing yet. This is the first Snow Leopard birth at Como.

Another new arrival is an American Bison, born May 21. Mother and baby are on display in the hoofed stock exhibit.

For more information, call 487-1485.

Russian for children

The International Institute of Minnesota, 1694 Como Ave., will offer Russian for children ages 6-11. Classes will be held for two-week periods on weekdays (Monday through Thursday) from 1:30-3 p.m. Activities include games, simple conversational practice and learning simple Russian songs. For more information, call 647-0191.

Elevator gives Mt. Olive a lift

Mt. Olive Lutheran Church, at Pascal & Almond in the Como Park neighborhood, has installed an elevator that allows wheelchair access to the main church and the lower level. Coffee hour is a big event at Mt. Olive after the 9 a.m. Sunday service—the elevator allows access for everyone to the kitchen and fellowship hall.

This summer the city of St. Paul will make curb cuts on the Pascal & Almond corner. When this improvement is in, there will be no steps between street level and the church.

Recycle phone books

St. Paul residents may set old phone books out on the curb for recycling on regular recycling days in July and August. St. Anthony Park recycling days are the second and fourth Wednesdays; Como Park's recycling days are the second and fourth Mondays. There are no plans yet for phone book recycling in Falcon Heights and Lauderdale.

The curbside pickup of phone books in St. Paul will be for two months only—during the time the new books are being delivered. Phone books cannot be mixed with newspapers.

Some of the books will become shingles and rolled roofing. Others will be turned into newsprint. The Neighborhood Energy Consortium and SuperCycle say that no phone books collected in St. Paul will be burned or landfilled.

St. Paul residents may call 644-7678 for curbside recycling information.

Applicants sought

Residents of St. Paul, Lauderdale and Falcon Heights and those with businesses there are encouraged to apply for membership on the Ramsey County Local Government Services Study Commission, according to State Reps. Alice Hausman, Mary Jo McGuire and Senator John Marty.

Those who wish to be considered should write to Senator Randy Kelly, 27 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155. Your letter should indicate qualifications and how you believe you can advance the work of the commission. Letters must be received by July 12.

Vacation Bible Schools

St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church will hold Vacation Bible School July 8-12, 9-11:45 a.m. The curriculum "Share God's Blessings" will be used. Children will paint, bake and decorate quilt squares while hearing Bible stories.

Children age 3-grade 6 may register by calling the church office, 645-0371, or at the door on July 8. A $5 donation per child is requested. Older children and adults able to volunteer as teachers or helpers will be warmly welcomed. Call Barbara Burk, 645-2928.

The church is located at 2323 Como. The Bible School entrance is on Luther Place.

Fiesta Iglesia—"a church festival"—is Vacation Bible School's new twist at Como Park Lutheran Church, 1547 Sheldon St. To begin with, it is for all ages. And it is held in the evening: 6:30-8 p.m., Mon-Thurs., Aug. 5-9. Each evening begins with devotions in the main church, proceeds to various small group activities and concludes with a treat in the Fellowship Hall. Advance registration is required by Aug. 2. Call 646-7127.

Aug. 12-16, 9-11:30 a.m., has been set for the sessions of Vacation Bible School at Peace Lutheran Church in Lauderdale. Daily sessions for three-year-olds through 3rd graders will focus on living the life of Christ through the Church's year of grace. Each day a different holy day or season of the liturgical calendar will be celebrated. Crafts, songs, games and refreshments are planned to coordinate with the different party emphases.

Parent workshops will also be offered daily by Sharon von Fange, a "Parents' Anonymous" facilitator. All sessions are open to the community. Call 644-5440 for more information or to make reservations.

Gibbs Farm Museum

Country Festival

Enjoy an afternoon of old-fashioned summertime fun at the Ramsey County Historical Society's Gibbs Farm Museum's Country Festival on Sun., July 14, noon-4 p.m. The afternoon fun includes games, music, homemade ice cream and an antique auction.

The day begins with a 12:30 re-enactment of a 19th-century baseball game designed for the visitors to participate in the action. At 1:30 there will be children's relay races. For adults, there will be a performance of turn-of-the-century songs by the North Star Chorus, members of the Greater St. Paul Area Chapter of Barbershop Society.

At 2:15 an interactive melodrama will be offered. The antique auction will be from 3-4 p.m.

Also on hand will be Peter Giese demonstrating the ancient art of blacksmithing. There will be demonstrations of butter churning, candle dipping and rag rug making.

Old-time school

Beginning July 8 until Aug. 16, Mon.-Fri., children who have completed first grade through sixth grade can spend a day in a one-room school learning about the life of school children at the turn of the century.

For one day, a child can take a trip back through time and read from period texts, play old-fashioned recess games and participate in spelling bees and cipher downs. A special tour of the museum's farmhouse is also included.

Cost is $10 for the first child, $7.50 for each subsequent child or for members of the Ramsey County Historical Society. Costumes are encouraged, but not required. For more information and to make reservations, call 646-8629.

Needlework

A workshop entitled "Initialed in Cloth" will be offered on Thurs., July 25, 7-9 p.m.

Using a pattern taken from the museum's own collection of hand-crafted items, participants will learn various methods of turn-of-the-century needlework. The workshop will be taught by award-winning quilter, teacher and veteran historic site guide, Bonnie Ellis. Cost is $10; reservations are required with class size limited. Call 646-8629.

The Gibbs Farm Museum, a national historic site, is located at the corner of Cleveland & Larpeteur Avenues in Falcon Heights. Hours are Tues.-Fri., 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Sat. & Sun., noon-4 p.m. Admission is $2.50 for adults, $2 for seniors and $1 for children.

Alliance Française

The French Alliance of the Twin Cities will hold a mid-summer session of French classes beginning the week of July 22. Classes take place at the Alliance Française, 821 Raymond Ave., and are scheduled for day and evening hours. A day camp for children ages 5-9 will be held Mon.-Fri., July 1-28 from 9 a.m.-noon. The children will learn French through activities involving dance, painting and songs. An activities group for young teenagers will also be offered.

Bastille Day, July 14, will be celebrated with a cruise on the St. Croix River, with accordion music, food and dancing.

For more information or to obtain class schedules, call 644-5769.

Special Olympics

Equestrian events for the International Special Olympics will be held at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum from July 22-26. All events, which are free, are from 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. and 1:30-5:30 p.m., Mon.-Fri.

Lois Swartz, Lauderdale resident and St. Anthony Park Elementary School teacher, and Kirstin Bromaghin, who lives in St. Anthony Park and teaches in Eden Prairie, are two of 25 Minnesota teachers selected to be associates of the Minnesota Writing Project Summer Institute at the University of Minnesota.

Ida Martinson

Ida Martinson has been awarded a Fulbright grant to Ewha Women's University in Seoul, Korea, for fall, 1991 to conduct a research study on the impact of childhood cancer on Korean families.

Martinson, of St. Anthony Park, is a professor in the department of family health care nursing at the University of California School of Nursing. Previously she served on the faculty of the University of Minnesota School of Nursing. She also spearheaded the development of the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program in the early 1980s. In 1989 she conducted a major study of the impact of childhood cancer on Chinese families in Guangzhou, China.

Joshua Larson, St. Anthony Park, was the recipient of the Freshman Mathematics Award at Hamline University. He was honored during the University's annual Honors Day Convocation.

Sarah Rohr of St. Anthony Park has been chosen to be a member of the Minnesota Olympic Development Soccer Team for girls under 16. She is the only St. Paul girl among the 18 on the team, which practices weekly at the National Sports Center in Blaine.

Rohr was also the only girl at Como High School to make the all-conference girls' soccer team.

Erica Ten Broek, a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Minnesota, was one of six researchers to receive the Bacaner Research Award from the Minnesota Medical Foundation. This $600 award memorializes Jacob and Minnie Bacaner. Ten Broek's research looked at communication between eye cells.

William Salzberg graduated with Mounds Park Academy's class of 1991. He is the son of Kenneth Salzberg of Falcon Heights and Roberta Lamons of St. Anthony Park. He will attend Lafayette University in Easton, Pa.

Gina Serio of St. Anthony Park received a juris doctor (J.D.) degree from William Mitchell College of Law in June. She plans to practice criminal and employment law.

Susan Bauman

Susan Bauman, Lauderdale, is one of 140 North Americans attending the International Summer School at the University of Oslo, in Norway. She is studying the Norwegian language. Bauman joins 300 other students from more than 70 nations for the six-week session.

Eric Bergerud, son of Earl and June Bergerud of St. Anthony Park, has recently written an historical review of the Vietnam War called Dynamics of Defeat, The Vietnam War in Hau Nghia Province. Eric notes that this is one of a group of books that will be available soon that "lets us see what really happened, and allows readers to make their own value judgements." He notes that his book is a work of history, not fiction, and is neither legalistic nor judgemental.

Bergerud, who has a Ph.D. in history from Berkeley, is the head of general education at Lincoln School in San Francisco and has been teaching courses on Vietnam at San Francisco State. He is a 1966 graduate of Murray High School.

The book is available at the St. Anthony Park Library or by calling the publisher, Westview Publications, at 1-800-456-1995.

Business News

St. Anthony Park State Bank has hired Julie Bissel as a new commercial lender. Bissel, who has small business experience, previously worked for First Bank System as a commercial lender at the Northtown office. She also worked in credit analysis and financial systems at First Bank Midway.

St. Anthony Park Ensemble, including Cecilia Rossiter, cellist, and Karen Schmidt, violinist, will be performing Sunday evenings through August 25 from 6-8 p.m. at Muffuletta Restaurant.

2260 Como Ave. Musicians will perform on the patio, weather permitting.

Group Health, Inc. has converted its Como Medical Center's "once-through" ground water cooling system to an air cooled system. This is an effort, according to Group Health administrators, to combat the depletion of ground water supply. Group Health uses about 3,000 gallons of ground water per day.

Pearson has made a difference

By Roy Magnuson

Jack Pearson, most recently a biology teacher at Como Park Senior High, previously a teacher and coach at Murray High School, has retired after 34 years of teaching. He's one of the people responsible for starting more than one traditional St. Anthony Park event.

Pearson is a lifelong resident of St. Anthony Park. The son of Joe and Margaret Pearson, he grew up on Como Ave., as he puts it, "behind the old bank where the Children's Home Society is now." He attended Guttersten grade school: "slap 'em in the face, slap 'em in the jaw, Guttersten, Guttersten, rah rah rah."

Growing up in St. Anthony Park was different in the thirties and forties. Pearson remembers there were no youth athletics at Langford. He played at South St. Anthony "because that's where they were organized enough to have teams."

At Murray he played football, hockey and baseball. The hockey rink was not full size in the '40s and was located in the south end of the parking lot (interestingly enough, virtually in his current back yard). One end of the rink was the chain link fence and "a lot of guys ended up with their faces in that fence." This was before face masks.

From Murray, Pearson spent a year at the University, then went to Gustavus for a semester. His time there was interrupted by military service during the Korean War. He returned to Gustavus in 1953 on the GI Bill following his tour of duty. While at Gustavus he met and later married Beverly Palmquist. They have four children: Joe, Jon, Jim and Amy, and one grandson, Joe., Jr.

In 1957 Pearson was hired to teach at Murray. During those first years he taught physical education and then gradually shifted into science. "I remember borrowing Jim Lewis's scooter to go back and forth from the field to the school," Pearson recalls. Alex Heron and Murray High School having "the skating band. They always wanted to use the hockey rink, which I guess was all right." Other memorable co-workers in the Murray years were Ralph Engebretson, Prof. Ritter and Reno Rossini.

"Ralph Engebretson had been my teacher and football coach in high school, then when I came back to teach he helped me a lot. Many of the things I used as a teacher or coach came from him."

In the late '50s, Pearson was involved with Al Dexter, John Curtiss, Arvid Johnson, Dick Holmsten and others in starting youth football and hockey at Langford. The first uniforms proudly proclaimed the teams as the "Li'l Pilots."

Links with the St. Anthony Park Association as a financial backer of youth activities were born in these years. "The Association was a conservative group and I remember spending hours sitting at Albie Dexter's house planning how we were going to get money from them. But as it turned out, they never let us down."

Early in the '60s, Bruce Perrizo was assigned to Langford Park. "He really helped us out. He went to work, organized and took a lot of the load off our shoulders. He taught us about communicating with the community and parents."

Among the teams Pearson coached at Langford was the Bantam team that later would be the last Murray team in the state hockey tournament in 1963. Among the players on those teams were Jim Dexter, Greg Page and John Zellner. "Dexter and Page were both goalies, but Dexter was better at dodging the puck than Page, so Page stayed in the nets."

"I got the B-squad hockey job at Murray the years these guys moved up as freshmen and won the JV city title. We beat Washburn in the Twin City game and their coach accused us of using juniors."

Pearson coached football at Murray with Rossini and Ritter in the '60s. He remembers Rossini as being "one of my best bosses."

In the 1968-69 season, he became head hockey coach, succeeding Bernie Broderick. There were many memorable moments, one of which was beating perennial power Johnson 1-0, in a game in which "Smitty (goalie Ron Smith) was stopping every doggone thing."

In another example of the small-town atmosphere that is St. Anthony Park, Pearson was able to teach and coach his own kids. "I gave that a lot of thought, and I think it was the right thing to do, even though it wasn't always easy." Pearson moved to Como High School after Murray became a junior high in 1979.

St. Anthony Park American Legion Post #34 was an important part of Pearson's life. The Post closed in 1984, due to lack of members. Pearson was active for years in the Boy's State program. The Post also played an important part in the Fourth of July, Memorial Day, Pilot Day and Veteran's Day activities in the community.

"I guess we just didn't do a good job recruiting younger members," recalls Pearson when thinking of the Post. "Those guys that had been the core of that Post for so long just ran out of gas. Bob Hahnen had held every title more than once."

Pearson's retirement plans include using his new wood-working machines. "I've always had an interest in working with wood. Now I've got the time to do it." Volunteering at the Como Zoo and in a program such as Habitat for Humanity also appeal to him.

Watching the Fourth of July parade will continue to interest Pearson. "You get these kids on bicycles and tricycles and no matter how hard they try to hold them back, sooner or later, zoom, off they go. Bill Paist, Stu Peterson, Nick Mayers, they always have a new plan to organize those kids, but sooner or later, they just take off."

When asked to comment on why St. Anthony Park has been and remains such a positive community, Pearson said, "because of the people—people who are willing to give of themselves and of their time for others. In all of the years that we asked parents for help, we were almost never turned down."

Linda Steen, St. Anthony Park, a member of the Hutchinson Family Singers, will give two performances with that group as part of a special appearance for the 50th anniversary of the Henry David Thoreau Society in Massachusetts in July. The Hutchinson Family Singers is a Twin Cities-based professional quintet that recreates performances by the celebrated 19th-century singing Hutchinson Family.

Tom Baldwin, mayor of Falcon Heights, was one of three Ramsey County residents selected by Ramsey County judges to fill remaining terms on the Ramsey County Charter Commission. He will serve until 1992 when the newly adopted Ramsey County Charter goes into effect.

Former St. Anthony Park resident Tania Hueg (nee Granovsky) graduated from the University of Minnesota School of Nursing with a grade point average of 3.96, the top in her class. Hueg was also recently inducted in Sigma Theta Tau, the International Honor Society of Nursing, for her outstanding scholastic record and leadership ability. She will be employed in the Life Support Unit at Minneapolis Children's Medical Center.

Sedoris McCartney of Falcon Heights received this peony when he was six years old. He has moved it to a number of locations over the years, and when he lived in Japan for a time he planted it at the family cemetery plot. It looks like both the peony and Sedoris are doing well.

John Karvonen, son of David & Joanne Karvonen of St. Anthony Park, graduated cum laude with a major in mathematics from Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn. Sarah Forde, daughter of Gerhard and Marianna Forde of St. Anthony Park, graduated with a major in psychology also from Gustavus.

A book by Mic Hunter, Abused Boys: The Neglected Victims of Sexual Abuse, has been released in paperback by Fawcett Books. Hunter is a psychologist in South St. Anthony Park and lives in the Como area.

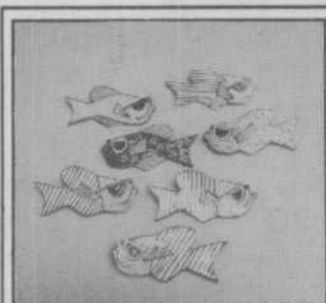

Gerald Nolte of St. Anthony Park has received a national teaching award. The University of Wisconsin-River Falls professor received the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture Teacher Fellow Award on June 18. He was one of 11 recipients at the NACTA conference at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

The award is given to teachers who have excelled as instructors of agriculture.

Nolte has taught at UW-RF since 1970. He was the recipient of the College of Agriculture Award for Outstanding Teaching in 1989. He is chairman of the agricultural economics department and has served as a student adviser and on numerous committees.

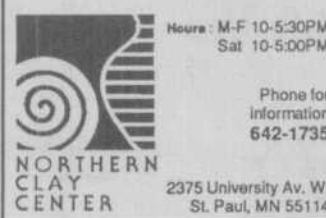

Pastor Rolf Hanson, senior pastor of St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church, retired on June 23 after 40 years of active ministry. He has served St. Anthony Park Lutheran for 20 years and previously served churches in Spring Grove, Minn., Havre, Mont., Tofte, Grand Marais and Hovland, Minn.

The congregation honored Pastor Hanson and his wife Esther at a special dinner on the evening of June 23 and presented him with a sculpture done by St. Anthony Park artist Bob Ed, who is also a member of the congregation.

Valeria Altman, a resident of Falcon Heights on Simpson Ave., died on May 25, 1991, at the age of 80. She was a retired employee of the Prudential Life Insurance company and a member of St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church.

She is survived by two brothers, Clarence and Cyril, and many nieces and nephews.

Ethel Caldwell

Ethel W. Caldwell, age 77, died on June 10, 1991. She was a longtime resident on Cleveland Ave. in St. Anthony Park and an active member of the St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ as well as the St. Anthony Park Association.

Mrs. Caldwell was preceded in death by her husband, Alfred, who taught in the Soil Science Department at the University of Minnesota. She is survived by her daughters, Elaine Jones of St. Anthony Park and Beverly Caldwell of St. Paul; her son, Dr. Kenneth Caldwell of Como Park; and her grandchildren, Stacie and Ryan Jones, Kevin and Piper Caldwell.

James O. Cooper

James O. Cooper was killed instantly on June 8, 1991, in a rollover accident on Hwy. 280 while exiting to eastbound I-94. He was 19 years old and had lived on Dudley Ave. in St. Anthony Park.

Jim Cooper was a 1990 graduate of Central High School and had attended Murray Junior High and St. Anthony Park Elementary. He was active in Boy Scout Troop and a lover of the outdoors. He was the 1986 winner of the Chris Stout Memorial Award at Murray Junior High.

He is survived by his father, James A. Cooper; his mother, Martha Piechowski; his sister, Erin Cooper; his grandmother, Dora Cooper; and many aunts and uncles.

Mildred Dent

Mildred J. Dent died on May 27, 1991, at the age of 100. She was a Como Park area resident, most recently at Lyngblomsten Care Center, and a member of Hamline United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Dent was preceded in death by her husband, J. Grant Dent, and a daughter, Marion Kramlinger. She is survived by her son-in-law, William Kramlinger of Como Park; grandchildren, Kathleen Jarosch, Larry, Ronald, Richard and Charles Kramlinger; nine great-grandchildren; one great-great granddaughter; and a sister, Bernice Meeker.

Ruth Hunt

Ruth L. Hunt died on May 26, 1991, at the age of 78. A former resident of St. Anthony Park on Hillside Ave., she had lived in recent years in Falcon Heights.

Mrs. Hunt is survived by her husband, Eldred, retired executive secretary of the Minnesota Horticulture Society; her daughter, Holly; her son, Todd; her brother, John Philip Bengston; and her granddaughter, Gayle Bedbury.

Melva Johnson

Melva L. Johnson, age 82, died on May 19, 1991. She lived in the Como Park neighborhood and was a member of Como Park Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Johnson is survived by her husband, Henry, of Como Park; her sons, Donald of New Orleans and Wesley of Athens, Greece; eleven grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; two great-great grandchildren; three sisters; two brothers; and many nieces and nephews.

Lydia Koeneman

Lydia Koeneman, age 94, died on June 14, 1991. She had taught sixth and seventh grade at the old Guttersten Grade School in St. Anthony Park.

Miss Koeneman was born and educated in Moorhead, Minn. After teaching in rural Minnesota for several years, she joined the St. Paul schools in 1925. She taught at various schools until her retirement in 1960. After retiring, she traveled to Mexico and throughout the United States. She was a longtime member of Pilgrim Lutheran Church. She and her three sisters lived for 49 years on Cretin Ave., next door to their brother.

Survivors include her brother, Martin, and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

Bertha Lunde

Bertha Lunde, a member of St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church for almost 70 years, died on June 14, 1991, at 88 years of age. A longtime nurse and nursing instructor, she had been living recently at Lyngblomsten Care Center.

A native of Crookston, Minn., Miss Lunde was the daughter of a Lutheran pastor and lived in Minnesota and Wisconsin before moving to St. Paul with her family in 1923. In 1925, she received a bachelor's degree in nursing from St. Olaf College. She graduated from Lutheran Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing in 1928, and received her master's degree in nursing education from the University of Minnesota in 1949.

Miss Lunde served on the faculty at Lutheran Deaconess from 1929 to 1948 and again from 1959 to 1969. From 1949 until 1959, she was director of nursing at Bethesda Lutheran Hospital in St. Paul. After her retirement, she continued her interest in nursing in missions through the St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church.

She is survived by five nieces and nephews, Donald Lunde of Texas, Milford Lunde of Wisconsin, Ruth Lunde of Minneapolis, Margaret Stolee of St. Peter and Mildred Meyer of Illinois; 13 grandnieces and nephews; and 17 great-grandnieces and nephews.

Delia McDonough

Delia McDonough, age 94, died on May 30, 1991. She was a former resident of Canfield Ave. in the Como Park area and had recently lived at the St. Anthony Eldercenter.

Ms. McDonough is survived by a nephew, Raymond Conley of Eagan, and two nieces, Marie Keane and Marcella Conley, both of St. Paul.

Bernice Odeen

Bernice F. Odeen died on June 6, 1991, at 83 years. She lived on Seal Street in South St. Anthony Park and was a member of St. Cecilia Catholic Church.

Mrs. Odeen was preceded in death by her husband, John; four brothers and three sisters. She is survived by her brother, Peter Quinn of St. Paul; two sisters, Alice Giere of Excelsior and Marcella Bjorkman of St. Paul; and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

Josephine Peplinski

Josephine K. Peplinski, age 66, died on June 6, 1991, less than three months after the death of her husband, Richard. She was a resident on Long Ave. in South St. Anthony Park and belonged to the St. Anthony Park Association and St. Cecilia Catholic Church.

Mrs. Peplinski is survived by three daughters and three sons: Ron, Arlene, Diane, Maryann, Dan and Michael; one sister, Lillian Walker; and ten grandchildren.

Sybil Skog

Sybil Skog died on June 5, 1991, at the age of 72. She lived in Falcon Heights and was a member of the Falcon Heights United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Skog is survived by her husband, Frank; her sons, Franklin, Gregory and Norman; her daughters, Sally Skog and Sue Skog Sowder; her grandchildren, Iver, Amanda, Ellerey and Kimberly; her sisters, Muriel, Phyllis, Gayle, Janis and Joyce; her brother, Clayton; her cousin, Betty Pearson; and many nieces and nephews.

Janet Stenborg

Janet R. Stenborg, a Como Park area resident on California Ave., died on May 14, 1991. She was a longtime employee of the Ramsey County Attorney's office. She was a member of the Falcon Heights United Church of Christ.

Miss Stenborg is survived by her brother, James, of New York City.

Geraldine Tyson

Geraldine A. Tyson, a longtime St. Anthony Park resident, died at 77 on May 23, 1991. She had lived for many years on Cleveland Ave. and more recently on Priscilla.

Mrs. Tyson was preceded in death by her husband, Marvin, and her brother, John Lundquist. She is survived by her daughters, Roberta Granger of Bloomington, Connie Hagen of Minneapolis and Deborah McLaughlin of St. Paul; her son, Dan Tyson of Kungsängen, Sweden; nine grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

St. Paul medical waste ordinances proposed

New facilities being proposed in St. Paul to process infectious waste, including contaminated blood, laboratory and medical waste, would be subject to licensing and land use controls under ordinances introduced by Councilmember Paula Maccabee.

She has called for a moratorium on the construction of any new facility to store, process or burn infectious waste until the Planning Commission completes a 1991 study of industrial zoning and waste operations.

Maccabee's proposed infectious waste licensing ordinance would require an applicant for a license to identify the facility's owner and key officers; provide a description of the infectious waste processing to be performed on the site and provide copies of any management plan approved by the Pollution Control Agency. The city would require review for compliance with fire safety codes, as well as review by the Public Health Division to ensure that the facility would not cause excessive dust or odor or serve as a harborage for rodents or vermin.

Under the proposed ordinance, the city would notify residents and businesses within 1,000 feet of the proposed facility and hold a public hearing before a license were granted. The city would have the authority to revoke a license if an infectious waste treatment plan were operated in violation of its license or in violation of any state requirements for safe handling of infectious waste.

"Treatment of infectious waste is a new industry, which has the potential to either solve or create environmental health problems in St. Paul," says Paula Maccabee. "Under these new ordinances, the health of the people of St. Paul will be safeguarded, the economic development potential of nearby properties will be protected, and facilities that deal with infectious waste will have clear guidelines for their safe operation."

One facility in St. Paul, at 742 Vandalia in St. Anthony Park, operated by Browning Ferris Industries, transfers infectious waste in sealed containers. Although several firms (including BFI) have expressed interest in building infectious waste treatment facilities, none have yet been built in St. Paul.

Lauderdale's Peace Lutheran Church and pastor join ELCA

On June 14, Peace Lutheran Church, Lauderdale, and its pastor of fifteen years, Ray Geist, were welcomed into the Saint Paul Area Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA). This action marked the end of a process that began for Peace at its annual meeting last December.

Peace has long described itself as "a community church with Lutheran roots." All nine of the pastors who have served in the 59-year history of the congregation have been trained and were members in The Lutheran Church Missouri Synod (LCMS). Nevertheless, Peace has had a close working relationship with Luther Northwestern Theological Seminary (an ELCA seminary); its congregation has served as a first training site for over 30 male and female seminary students.

While this arrangement has worked out well for the local parish, last November official protest against this practice and policy at Peace was made by another Missouri Synod pastor. Choosing not to become embroiled in protracted dispute, the congregation, without vocal dissenting vote, decided in February to transfer its membership out of the Missouri Synod and apply for membership in the ELCA.

"Nothing will change in day-to-day parish policies and practices," congregation chairman Jeff Gorton says. Peace has used the Lutheran Book of Worship as its chief vehicle for worship since it became available in 1978, but it will also continue occasional use of The Lutheran Hymnal, the "old" synodical conference hymnal.

"We are still pretty much a small-town church in the midst of the metropolitan area," says Allan Hetland, elder chairman. Pastor Geist adds, "We struggle to maintain the balance between change and continuity while striving to serve the community where God has kept us at Peace."
