Gas to replace coal for heating St. Paul Campus

University of Minnesota Regents voted 9-3 on April 10 to give Foster Wheeler Power Systems of New Jersey a 25-year, $750 million contract to heat both Twin Cities campuses. The contract is expected to be signed this summer.

The University’s present heating contractor is Northern States Power Company, which uses coal exclusively and stores much of it in large piles behind Commonwealth Terrance student housing. Coal dust has been a problem for several years for Terrace residents and clients of the Community Child Care Center, whose playground abuts the coal piles.

Foster Wheeler will use both coal and gas in its heating systems, but natural gas alone will be used in St. Paul. New natural gas-fired boilers will be installed on the St. Paul campus. Foster Wheeler will build and operate the boilers and the University’s current steam plant workers will become Foster Wheeler employees. Five to ten jobs are expected to be lost, less than the number that would have been lost.

Search begins for new Job Corps director

By Mary Mergenthaler

Job Corps director Michael Ryan retired unexpectedly on March 30 for “personal reasons.” He had been the subject of considerable institutional and community debate as allegations surfaced about discipline problems on campus, poor management and lack of support for staff.

Ryan was immediately replaced by Joseph Duda, the National Director of Job Corps Operations for the Vinnell Corporation, the private company that has the contract with the U.S. Department of Labor to run the Humphrey Job Corps Center. Duda will serve as acting director until a permanent replacement for Ryan is named.

Duda and the Job Corps personnel manager are interviewing local applicants and will begin a national search for a new director. Based on their initial recommendations, Vinnell (in Fairfax, Va.) will review the final applicants and submit a name to the Dept. of Labor. Vinnell and/or the Dept. of Labor may request further interviews before the director is selected.

 Asked about the composition of the student body, Duda indicated that the two campus recruiters will continue to seek to serve Minnesota students who need Job Corps services, as well as students from other states. The number of students from hard-core areas in Detroit and Chicago has been on ongoing community concern.

Duda also indicated that the Job Corps would be initiating a more active public relations program in the metro area using public service announcements on local media and other avenues to tell the Job Corps story.

Duda said the Job Corps continues to encourage neighbors with specific concerns to call, reminding them that if they wish anonymity callers could be assigned a case number rather than identifying themselves. A new monthly newsletter will be distributed the first Wednesday of each month. It will include a postage-paid suggestion card, which can be returned to the center.

University busway begins operation

By Kristin Copa

Travel along the University of Minnesota’s busway linking the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses began with unforeseen troubles as well as new possibilities.

In its first month of use an accident took place along the busway, according to Paul Tchida, assistant vice president of health and safety at the University.

A worker leaving an area factory at 7:30 a.m. was hit by a bus as he either missed or failed to come to a complete stop at a sign. The worker survived the accident, but was treated at a hospital following the collision on the Minneapolis end of the thoroughfare. Tchida said.

Bus drivers are cautioned to drive more slowly until the conditions leading to the accident can be evaluated, he said.

Tchida said his department is also looking into bicycle use on the route, including the possible construction of a bike path. He met with people from the state Bike Advisory Board, who recommended a separate path because of the narrowness of the busway.

A limited number of buses started using the route at the end of March. University buses continue to also use city streets, but some of this traffic will shift to the busway as construction progresses. Construction of Phase B of the busway past Raymond Avenue will begin as the construction season allows. University official Harvey Turner said.

The busway will cross Raymond just south of the existing Burlington-Northern bridge, he said.

Parking along the route continues to be an issue. Use of the Schmitt lot in Minneapolis near KSTP, though favored by Turner, is in question because of PCB contamination—the lot was once used as a scrapyard.

"My feeling is that we need as much of that remote intercept auto parking adjacent to the transit way as we can get," he said. "It allows us to put people away from either of the two campuses and I see it as a replacement for the lot and lot.

The University Department of Health and Safety, University attorneys, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency and people representing the "Schmitt family are working to reach an understanding about cleaning up the lot," he said.

University officials are also using the lot to test state-of-the-art equipment. The route may be used to test Auto-Scope, a new technology developed at the University. It consists of a camera in the shape of a small box that is able to monitor the speed of vehicles by tracking their movement over marks on the roadway.

Mayor Dains aims for teamwork

By Cortina Nelson

There wasn’t a gradual easing-in period for Jeffrey Dains, Lauderdale’s new mayor. On Jan. 14 he took office. On Jan. 30 he helped light off an attempt by Ramsey County’s Local Government Services Study Commission to require Lauderdale to pay for maintenance of several county roads, 1.8 of its total 4.8 miles of roads. Dains informed the commission that it was not feasible for Lauderdale to maintain county roads without Municipal State Aid (MSA). Such monies are available only to cities with populations over 5,000.

A proposal by Ramsey County to share a $100,000 pool to assist cities with populations under 5,000 with local costs was killed in legislative committee. Lauderdale, White Bear Township, North Oaks and Gem Lake have populations below 5,000 and are not eligible for MSA monies.

Dains helped organize a petition drive in February and the commission backed off for the time being from requiring Lauderdale to maintain the roads with its own hands. Lauderdale would have had to finance the road maintenance through additional taxes.

Dains says that Lauderdale won’t raise taxes yet. He hopes to save Lauderdale additional money by having municipal law and administrative questions handled, when possible, by city administrator Kathleen Miller instead of by Lauderdale’s city attorney. Miller was hired on contract from Roseville in early August, 1991, as an administrative liaison. Lauderdale hired her as administrator on April 1.

The mayorship has been a “very positive experience, even with these unexpected things,” says Dains. He and the five-member council, three of whom are new, rose to their next challenge by finalizing in January the refinancing of bonds for Rose Hill Estates.

The prior Lauderdale city council had worked on refinancing, which will save Lauderdale substantial monies.

"I think we’re really working as a team," says Dains. "I really like that." Dains, a Lauderdale resident since 1985 and a city council member since 1989, has plans for issues ranging from improving working conditions for Lauderdale employees to park improvements. One of his goals is to increase community leadership.

Lauderdale has begun organizing a crime watch. Canvasing of several blocks per month began in April.

Dains will also establish a Mayor's Office.
Traffic changes planned at Hendon/Como

At the April 2 meeting of the Physical Planning Committee of the St. Anthony Park Community Club, Bob Hampton of the Department of Public Works presented his department's plan for reconfiguration of the Hendon/Como intersection. The changes are designed to improve sight distance for traffic entering Como from Brompton. To accomplish this, an on-street parking on Como near the intersection would be removed. To accommodate concerns of residents there, the 2-hour parking limit on Brompton would be removed, thus allowing neighbors and their guests to park in spaces which currently are kept open for possible use by Group Health clients and employees.

Another goal of the planned changes is to decrease and tighten the Hendon/Como intersection and to slow down traffic entering the intersection. Slower speeds would be necessary because the new configuration will require drivers to enter Hendon more cautiously than is currently the case.

The department indicated 2500 vehicles per day use Hendon, a volume that warrants an upgrade. Temporary asphalt will be used, allowing the department to make changes in a few years should that become necessary.

A new curb cut for the upcoming Lutheran Social Services (LSS) building will introduce new traffic conflicts near the intersection, making the reconfiguration of the intersection present all the more important. LSS plans an office building on the former site of the Engaged Hall, which was demolished early in 1990. The Department of Public Works (DPW) is ready to implement this construction this spring.

In addition, DPW has agreed to install stop signs on Keaton at Doswell, as requested by neighbors, and will continue to discuss stopping Carter at Como. Designing a traffic circle at this intersection.

School crossings near St. Anthony Park Elementary will have special signs installed and will be marked and improved in May. All these planned traffic changes, and more, will be discussed at the next St. Anthony Park Community Club meeting on Tuesday, May 5, 7 p.m., at South St. Anthony Park Recreation Center, 800 Cromwell Ave. Anyone who wishes to comment or ask questions may call the committee at 292-7884 or the council office at 292-7884.

been lost had the Regents selected the other candidate, Arka, the president of Minnesota. Arka would have relied on natural gas alone on both campuses.

University and student environmental groups had urged the Regents to choose Arka for several reasons. They objected to the use of coal because of its environmental impacts and favored Arka's plan for removing two existing power plants and building the Minneapolis campus riverfront, which would have allowed the University to use that valuable land in other ways.

Under the new contract, Foster Wheeler will close one of the two steam plants on the east bank of the Mississippi River. The other plant will get new boilers burning mostly coal. Obtaining necessary permits for the new boilers could take several years more, however, and a number of the leaders of one of the environmental groups opposed to burning coal warned the fight may continue.

A University analysis said either the Arka or Foster Wheeler proposal would dramatically reduce fossil fuel pollution from current levels. Foster Wheeler's plan (as well as Arka's) has a "greenhouse gas" component that involves generating electricity by a by-product of making steam. That electricity is expected to be enough to power the University's lights and motors.

committee to coordinate compliance with all environmental ordinances. Kathleen Miller is consolidating parking rules into one ordinance. When she completes this process, she will begin the process of drafting the solid waste and zoning ordinances. Dains will also look at getting the maple sugar houses and Ludersdale's park.

Prior to his involvement with Laurens Dains has worked on environmental issues. He hopes to organize an environmental day in the fall to discuss recycling, waste and compost, as well as a compost center. He says that it is important to have citations for improper bins. In addition to the seven sites known to contain hazardous substances such as PCBs, Dains says that the 3800 Como, previously owned by Trushall, has never been cleaned up and is working to have this done.

Dains will continue the annual Day in the Park, though it may be held later than June this year. He will celebrate the Halloween party. He and the council are looking at ways to spend $44,000 in donations given by the Lions and other sources for Parks and Recreation. He wouldn't mind having a picnic shelter. He says that he and council member Cynthia Wheeler, a trail planner for the Department of Natural Resources, may be especially helpful in park planning, he said.

The new mayor has worked on team building with the council as well as having council meeting time down by as much as one meeting per month. Citizen attendance at council meetings varies with the issue, he says, and noted that cable viewers can now ask the committee questions at home. "I think the citizens of Ludersdale are very cooperative," he concluded.
Fractured fairy tales on program for community chorus concert

By Anne Turek

Musical settings of two familiar fairy tales will provide a special treat for family audiences as the St. Anthony Park Community Chorus presents its spring performance. The concert will be held on Tues., May 19 at St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church, Como and Hillside Avenues, at 7:30 p.m.

"Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Little Red Riding Hood" will be performed as miniature operettas in settings by the chorus' music director Linda Herrmann. Herrmann has set the well-known tales to music that may itself sound familiar in places, combining the style of a Handelian oratorio with the musical humor of Peter Schickele's P.D.Q. Bach, "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Jack and the Beanstalk" were composed by Herrmann in 1986 and 1987 for performance by the Santa Fe Desert Chorale, with which she has been closely associated. Both pieces feature as soloists chorus members Barbara Nelson, Peter Hudleston, Bob Kriel and Linda Herrmann, with guest artists Steve Johnston and Reuben Dahlquist.

The first half of the May 19 concert showcases the talents of the chorus in selections of choral music ranging from Renaissance-era melodies to arrangements of old favorites such as "Sweet and Low" to a raucous martial rendition of the "British Grenadiers." This marks Linda Herrmann's sixth year as music director of the St. Anthony Park Community Chorus. Herrmann, who holds an M.M. from Westminster Choir College, is director of music at Gethsemane Lutheran Church in Hopkins and has been active as a freelance musician in the Twin Cities.

The community chorus, a non-profit group, now draws membership from a wider geographic area than St. Anthony Park alone: members now represent Prospect Park, Highland Park and Falcon Heights, as well as other communities. The chorus has performed at many local functions including the St. Anthony Park festivals in June and the dedication of the renovated library in 1988. This year the chorus mounted a production of Amahl and the Night Visitors by Gian Carlo Menotti for its annual holiday presentation at the December Park Association meeting.

The public is encouraged to attend the May 19 concert. There will be no admission charge, but donations will be welcomed.

Bugle wins Neighborhood Press Association awards

The Park Bugle won eight awards for its 1991 work at the annual Neighborhood Press Association conference in April.

The paper won second place in its category (which included nine other papers) for "Best Cover Design," third place for "Best Story Layout," for an October, 1991, Music in the Park article and third place in "Most Original Advertisement" for an October, 1991, ad promoting St. Anthony Park Foods.

Individual awards were given to Warren Hanson, who received first place for "Best Editorial or Opinion Piece" for his story called "A Band of Baggers," which appeared in the Dec., 1991, Bugle. The piece was about school children selling candy and other items door to door to raise funds for programs in the St. Paul school district. Hanson also won second place honors for an illustration that accompanied his "A Dummer Summer," article from June, 1991, and second place for his "Home Words" column in the category "Best Continuing Column." Jeff Holmberg won second place for his cartoon showing dogs and cats playing bingo that appeared in August, 1991, accompanying an article about a proposed bingo hall in South St. Anthony.

Anne Whitemore won second prize for "Best Historical Feature" for her story on the demolition of Aasgaard Hall in January, 1991, issue.

Theme for the 13th annual conference was "The First Amendment: The Challenges Ahead."

Keynote speaker was Gary Gilson, director of the Minnesota News Council. Also at the conference, the association voted to change its name to the Neighborhood Press and Community Press Association (NPCPA) in an effort to attract membership from publications that serve communities beyond geographical boundaries—such as the African American community, the Asian community and the gay and lesbian community. Kathy Malchow, Bugle co-editor, was elected to the board of the NPCPA, which now serves about 30 community newspapers throughout the Twin Cities.

Letters

Linking the past with the future

Dear editors,

My name is Carolyn Anderson Vickerman. I lived in St. Anthony Park first as a child in 1935 with my parents Dr. John and Eliza Anderson. We lived first on Scudder and then in 1937 moved to Raymond Ave. We attended St. Anthony Park Methodist Church. My brother, Dr. Robert Andrews, and I attended Guthersen which is now a parking lot across from the Methodist Church. We graduated from Murray Senior High, he in 1933 and I in 1931. After graduation I attended Hamline University and then got married and had three children.

Our Murray class of 1951 has had four reunions, the last two being the 33rd (because most of use were born in 1923) and the 40th last October. At that reunion I re-located a young Gordon C. (C.C.) and Nancy Bassett who lived on Dudley Ave. We had not seen each other since our 1951 graduation. Our mothers both attended University High School and graduated in 1927. Gordon's father attended University High School along with Miss Gertrude Hermann, who later became Gordon's and my kindergarten teacher at Guthersen Grade School. My father and Gordon's father both worked for General Mills and were close friends.

Gordon and I, both now single, had our first date two days after the reunion. He then returned to Colorado Springs where he has lived for over 20 years. Shortly after that first date and following many letters, he called and asked if he could be alone in mid-November when he would be in town. After a four-day visit he returned to Colorado. We wrote letters every day and called about twice a week. He then returned to Minneapolis on December 30 and that evening proposed marriage. I happily answered yes.

Two days later we arranged to see Miss Gertrude Hermann, our kindergarten teacher, along with another classmate and longtime friend, Dr. Robert Bjorndahl, St. Anthony Park Dentist. At that meeting we announced our engagement. A wedding date was set for June 12 at Old Muskego Church on the seminary campus. Gordon and I had gone on a field trip to the church as children. The bridal dinner will take place at Minneota, which was a grocery store and beauty shop when we were children in the Park.

Following the ceremony, Dr. Bjorndahl will take us in his horse-drawn carriage past both of our former homes, old Murray and the place where Guthersen once stood. Following a reception we will make our home in Colorado Springs. You might think I had this very nostalgic news as it relates to the history of St. Anthony Park.

Mergenthal to resign as editor

Mary Mergenthal, eight-year editor of the Bugle, has announced her resignation from the paper effective October 1.

Mergenthal started at the Bugle in 1984 as assistant editor. A year later she became editor. Since November 1990 she has served as co-editor, sharing the editorial responsibilities with Kathy Malchow.

"Mary has shaped the content and look of the newspaper over the last eight years, receiving recognition for excellence throughout the Twin Cities," said Jeri Gilland Anderson, president of the board of directors of Park Press Inc., parent company of the Bugle.

"Just last month the newspaper received eight awards at the Neighborhood Press Association annual meeting. Mary can be thanked for her commitment to providing a quality newspaper that fills a critical role in our communities. We will miss her." Mergenthal plans to continue publishing Y Dreyf, a national Welsh newspaper, out of her home.

The search process for a new editor for the Park Bugle has already begun, said Bruce Dalgaard, chairman of Park Press' personnel committee.

The committee has met with a community advisory group and is now defining the responsibilities of the new editor position. The position will be advertised within a month and is expected to be filled by September, Dalgaard said.

Details about the position will appear in next month's Park Bugle.

Fourteen houses and one church selected for tour of homes in St. Anthony Park

By Ellen Watters

The Old Muskego Church at Luther Northwestern Seminary impresses an joint list of 14 St. Anthony Park homes that will be open to the public for the Tour of Homes on June 7. The church has been included in the tour this year because of its historic significance and its unique architecture. Organizers of the tour want to showcase a variety of architectural styles. In addition to the church, the tour includes homes that are bangalow, Prairie, contemporary, ranch and Victorian styles.

The tour also includes a residence that was once the St. Anthony Park train depot. The home was moved to its present location on Everett Court in the early part of the century. The home of former governor of Minnesota Andrew K. McGill is on the tour again as in the former rectory of St. Cecilia's Catholic Church. Both of those homes were on the Centennial Tour in 1987.

New to the tour are several homes which have had extensive remodeling and additions. These include the home of St. Anthony Park Community Center organizer Robbi Megard and her husband Bob, and the home of Wayne and Carla Weig. The Weig's home was originally an 1896 farmhouse that was converted into a very interesting modern home. A house in University Grove signed by noted architect Elizabeth Close is on the tour as is the 1960s home of Henry and Dorothy Healy, now owned by David Hansen and Karen Lilley.

For those interested in gardening, the tour includes several homes with beautiful gardens. Among them is the home of Diane Emerson, former president of the Minnesota Horticultural Society, and her husband Brad Nelson. Down the block on Hillside is the home of Warren Scamp and Marie Tims. They created a Mexican terrain in their back yard which is now planted with hundreds of cacti, succulents, hostas and other vegetation.

Several homes on the tour are "in-process," allowing visitors the opportunity to see before and after under one roof. Of special note in this category is Jeff and Paula Shoibt's home on Langford Park. This large 1890 home had been subdivided many years ago. The Shoibt's are in the process of transforming it to its original Victorian splendor. The results so far are impressive, so don't miss this one.

Muskego Church, built in 1844 in Wisconsin and moved to Luther Seminary by board in 1894, will be included on the June 7 St. Anthony Park tour house.

Beth and Greg Richardson are also doing extensive renovation to their home on Hampden Park. Like the Shoibts, the Richardson's were faced with a home which had been converted into a duplex. Now, however, they're returning it to its original purpose.

The charming home of Nancy and Steve Pfanges on Ludlow is a fine example of a Victorian home for the middle class and the Myers home on Knapp is a marvelous model of a Gothic cottage. For those interested in the popular craftsman style, stop by the home of Carol Kordas and Bruce Dalgaard on Grantham. This home enjoys both a true craftsman style and a beautiful view.

Volunteers are still needed to help staff the 14 homes. No experience or special skills are required to volunteer, just an interest in the neighborhood and a warm and friendly smile. To sign up for an hour or two of volunteering, call Jan Meyer at 647-9104.

A beautiful commemorative poster of the tour of homes is also available. The poster was designed by local artist Susan Bromander and is a striking woodcut of the Old Muskego Church printed on black paper with copper ink. Purchase the poster the day of the tour or watch local merchants' window.

Tickets for the tour are available at St. Anthony Park area merchants and are $8 in advance and $10 on the day of the tour. Special rates are available for senior citizens and students. By the way, if you're looking for the addresses of these interesting homes, buy a ticket to the tour and reserve the afternoon on June 7. A brochure describing each home (and providing addresses) will be provided the day of the tour.

CONGRATULATIONS

St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ Confirmation Class 1992

One of his children will begin kindergarten at Falcon Heights Elementary School in the fall.

The public is invited to meet the candidates at a meeting sponsored by the Roseville League of Women Voters and District #623 PTA Coordinating Council. It will be held on Wed., May 6, 7:30 p.m., at Roseville Area High School, 1261 W. Hwy. 36.

There are three polling places for the election:

- Fairview Community Center, 1910 W. County Rd. B, Parkview Center School, 701 W. County. Rd. B, Roseville Middle School, 15 E. County. Rd. 82.

Call 635-1699 to verify your precinct.

Three Roseville residents are candidates for two open seats on the Roseville School Board. The election is on Tues., May 19, 7 a.m.-8 p.m., for residents of Roseville, Falcon Heights and Lauderdale.

Incumbent Brad Borsheim is running, as are Jan Stillman and Steven True.

Borsheim, a former high school teacher, teaches at Minneapolis School District, is employed by NCR Contens in Roseville. He has a child at Brimhall School and one at Roseville Area Middle School. (Borsheim did not provide the Bugle with a photo.)

Stillman, a full-time homemaker and volunteer, is involved in the Roseville Area Middle and High School PTA boards.

Steven True

True is accounting and administration manager for Shamrock Borden of Minneapollis.

One of the houses on the tour is the home of Beth and Greg Richardson.

Many exciting events are coming up. On April 30 there will be a band and vocal concert at 7 p.m. Our open house was April 28. On May 4 a woodland quintet will perform. The next evening, May 5, will be the annual Ice Cream Social and Science Fair. The members of Ms. McGrath's running club recently participated in the Great Hal-Run.

Murray Junior High
The Murray Garage Sale is on May 2. Donations can be brought to Murray up to May 1. By 5 p.m., any small appliances, house- wares, etc., that you would like to please, do or if you are in need of any of these items. The sale is on May 2, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. All donations are tax deductible. Congratulations to all the Murray students who went to the State Science Fair, April 5-7, at Winona. Students attending with papers were Niki Felton, Becca Jonson, Crystal Hoppe, and Adam Smith. Karen attended with a project. Special congrats to April LaRosa, who went with both a paper and a project. All students did very well.

On May 6, 4 or 5 new Murray students will put on a play. The "Re-Opening." Murray received a Community Ed grant for 800. so Murray could put on this play since extracurricular funds were cut. Murray is working with SteppingStone Theater to put on this play. On May 7 the play will be performed at the Murray Senior Citizens luncheon.

The Spring Concert is May 21, 7 p.m., so if you would like to hear some good music, the Murray Band would love to have you come.

Como Park High
The month of May begins with an interverse half day, on May 1. On May 5 a reception for Dr. Joan Sorrenson, Como's former principal, will be held from 4-6 p.m. in Como's library. May 5 is also Cinco de Mayo, a Mexican holiday. The week of May 4-8 is Mexican American Week. On May 9 there will be a recognition at the school board meeting for Audrey Geenert, Como's employee honoring her standards of excellence in food service—fast, fresh and friendly.

On May 7 the gifted and talented courses at Como will be evaluated by representatives of the University of St. Thomas. That evening there will also be the spring band concert at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. On May 9 there will be an all-school AIDS play called "Secrets." May 12 is the tentative date for student council elections. That day there will be a steersman meeting and a variety show. May 15 there will be a Southeast Asian Development club banquet from 5-7 p.m. at Como.

On May 14 the annual spring choral concert will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. On May 15 the cheerleaders are hosting their annual spring fling dance at 7 p.m. in the gym.

April was Asian American Pacific Month. Being unable to schedule a speaker in April, there will be a speaker on May 18.

On May 21, Kathy Damus will give a National Honors Society reception for newly accepted students. Also that evening senior honors night will be held at 7 p.m. in the auditorium. On May 26, the ten top students at Como Park will be recognized at the top ten seniors citywide honors night at HamboId.

May 25 is Memorial Day so there will be no school. On May 26, the spring athletic banquet potluck will be held.

Spring has well sprung, we think! Maybe the weather is not cooperating, but the activities at St. Anthony Park School have a spring flavor nonetheless. The running club started March 20. The following teachers are helping: Joyce Holabird, Janet Delmore, Liz Honkanen, Jody Roe, and Colleen Flaherty. The kids participated in the Get in Gear race on April 25 and now they are working to get in shape for Track and Field Days. The all-school Track and Field Days will be held from 1-3 p.m. on Thursday, May 28 and 29. Some of the 6th graders are looking forward to helping. Parents can come for pictures and encouragement!

School carnival plans are under way for Wed., May 8. There will be games, concessions, a cake walk, a bake sale and much more. Parents are still needed to help set up and take down. Also they need parents to work in concession and game booths. We will have a baking sale, too, so if you can, bring things to sell. This is an important part of SAPA's fundraising efforts but lots of fun for families, as well.

On Tues., May 15 we will hold our annual handband/orchestra concert. This is an exciting event for the students since Como's band will be able to show their parents, grandparents and friends how well they have progressed in music during the year. This concert will be conducted by Bob Villegas, SAP's Elementary music director.

The St. Paul Jaycees and St. Paul Police Department are celebrating the 71st anniversary of the St. Paul Safety Patrol Program on May 19. There will be a city-wide city-wide police day. Plan funds will be raised to sponsor 30 students city wide. It will be a good opportunity to learn more about the parade and picnic, contact St. Paul Police Dept. Attractive School Police Div., 100 E. 11th St., St. Paul 55101.

There will be one more interverse Day in which school will not be in session. That's on Fri., May 1 and Fri., Memorial Day, Mon., May 25.

Claire Sweet

Central High School
As any student in St. Paul could tell you, there are only 24 school days left until summer break. But don't think that means things are winding down. On the contrary May is one of the busiest months of the school year.

The excitement begins with the Junior-Senior Prom on May 2. Then on May 5 new honors society members will be inducted in a 6 p.m. ceremony in the Central auditorium. On May 7 our band will conduct its final performance.

Undergraduate awards night Friday, May 8 and senior academic achievers will be held on May 12. For the class of 1992, senior honors night will be May 21. The spring athletes will be recognized at a dinner on May 27.

But there is a lot more going on than programs in the auditorium. All juniors and seniors taking LB (international baccalaureate) are eligible for "Advanced Placement" tests. These tests are not like the first few weeks of May to prepare for, in your exams. If you know any of those poor souls, please wish them your best! Even for those students not taking these tests, expect a surprise finals right around the corner.

Can you imagine a hectic month like this with team practice everyday? The following area residents could tell you what that's like. Dan Kohler, Cynthia McLean, Ann Nakashima, Matt Willham and Kimberly Willham. All juniors on the golf team. Matt Crosby, Cedric Fan, Todd Nakamoto, Jen Rogers and Ben Westhoff are playing tennis. Ray Albrecht, Rachel Aylis, Jessica Beeler, Kerstin Beyer, Erika Breneman, Mike Demont, Jeff Flory, Matt Flory, Jeff Norman, Joe Lennom, Ed Kohler, Dan LeBarre, Ingrid Laurson, Leslie Lipsett, Naomi Mabry, Mara Magnuson, Martha Namie, Kent Nesheim, Eric Peterson, Janet Peterson and Andy Wiley every day on the track.

Congratulations to those seniors who have received academic awards and good luck trying to find some peaceful moments this month! Liz Kramer

The reading festival was fun for our six participants: Mark Dynwood and Mini Song, 6th grade; Marni Hogen and Brandon Pierce, 7th grade; Joe Davini and Jim Walker, 8th grade. The topics chosen were interpretive reading, storytelling and persuasive reading.

This year, again, our M and M sale was great! We topped our goal of $5,000. Thanks to all the sponsors, contributors and participants.

During 3rd quarter the following students merited honors. First honors 7th grade: Katie Brennan, Marni Hogen, Yvonne Kilminger, Becky Korna, Brandon Pierce, Chris Solar and Nicky Wyne. Second honors 7th grade: George Burns, Jeremy Coffman, Emily Martin and Jessica Stroeh. Grade 8 honors: Debra Liden, Molly Detiller, Jeff Stelmac and James Walker.

The 3rd graders participated in a St. Paul Art Day poster contest. Erika Mortensen received honorable mention. All 3rd graders were also given a tree to plant and nurture.

Arts Calendar
The St. Anthony Park-based Center for Arts Criticism will present California performance artist and gay activist, Tim Miller, at a brown-bag luncheon discussion on Tues., May 5, noon–1:30 p.m., at South St. Anthony Recreation Center, 690 Cromwell Ave.

"Art Activism Now" is offered by the Center for Arts Criticism as an Arts Over AIDS event. It is free and the public is invited to attend. Call 644-5501 for more information.

Tim Miller is well-known as one of the four artists who have brought suit against the National Endowment for the Arts over grants that were recommended then denied to them last year; apparently because of the political or sexual content of their work.

Music
The Lyra Concert presents "May Day Buchanana," music of Johann Sebastian Bach, on Sat., May 2, 8 p.m., at Luther Northwester Seminary, Hendon at Fulham. On the program are two sinfonias, selections from "The Musical Offering" and "Orchestral Suite No. 3 in D Major."

Tickets: $13, with discounts available to students, seniors and Public Radio members. Call 322-2154

Music in the Park presents the Apple Hill Chamber Players. Sun., May 3, 2 p.m., at St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ, 2129 Commonwealth. Program includes Schubert's "Trout Quintet," Jon Drake's "Songes Has a Birthday" (Minnesota premiere), and Faure's "Piano Quartet in C Minor." Tickets: $9 in advance at The Bibebit Shop or Micawber's Bookstore; $10 at the door; 85 student rush. Call 644-4234.

"Popular Music in Japan—Shonen Knife and Beyond," will be presented in the Minnesota Community Room, St. Paul Campus Student Center, at 7:30 p.m. on Tues., May 12. Free.

St. Anthony Park Community Chorus will appear in concert on Tues., May 19, 7:30 p.m. at St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church, Como at Hillside. See article on p. 3.

Visual Art
"Artists of the Circle," a Native American art collection, opens Sun., May 3, at the Paul Whitney Larson Gallery on the lower level of the St. Paul Campus Student Center, University of Minnesota. Opening reception is May 3 from 1:30–4 p.m.

On Wed., May 13 at noon, the Three Rivers Dance Clan will present dancing, drumming and narration. The same day, a "Native Visions Art Video Series" will be shown at 11 a.m., noon, 1 p.m. and on request during gallery hours: Mon.–Fri., 10 a.m.–4 p.m.

Annual Awards Meeting
May is a big month for the St. Anthony Park Association. At the dinner in May outstanding members of the community, including two students from Murray Junior High School, will receive awards recognizing their achievements.

Then the Association will hold its annual meeting and elect a new board for the coming year. After the meeting, Northern Lights 4-Hers will put on a skit about multiculturalism and Creative Theatre Unlimited, along with its director Charles Nurnich, will present folk tales, traditional music and oral histories of the Hmong people and their experience coming to Minnesota. Hope to see you there.

Tues., May 12: Dinner, 6:30 p.m.—Program, 7:30 p.m. St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ 2129 Commonwealth Ave.

Dinner costs $5 for SAPA members, $6 for non-members and $4 for children. Call Linda at 770-8097 to confirm or cancel reservations. Free babysitting is available.

Busway from 1

This technology could be used on the route to monitor the speed of the buses, make certain no unauthorized vehicles make their way onto the busway and watch for the safety and protection of pedestrians or bicyclists in the area, Turner said. "There may be a joint benefit in terms of applying technology to transit as opposed to personal vehicles."

The patent for Auto-Scope, which is now being used on Highway 394 in Minneapolis, is held by the University, director of the Center for Transportation Studies Dick Braun said. Its primary function is to count vehicles and monitor their speed.

University officials are also talking about the possibility of testing other new technologies on the portion of the busway furthest from the residential area, during hours the busway is not in use.

One technology under consideration is an automated vehicle device. This would allow buses to "platoons," or travel one after the other closely by an electronic system that locks the speed of the second vehicle to match the speed of the first.

"Ultimately you should be able to lock onto the vehicle in platooning and read the newspaper on the way to Dinkytown," Braun said. Public use of this technology is 20-25 years away, but the busway offers a unique place to test the equipment because there is no traffic in after-hours.

"This is all so nebulous because it is just in the talking stage," he said, "but it would be an opportunity to do some high-tech development."

Hwy. 280 ramp to open sooner than expected
The Minnesota Department of Transportation (MnDOT) has agreed to accelerate work on one segment of the Hwy. 280 project to allow for the University/Territorial Rd. exit from southbound Hwy. 280 to be open by July 1. This is six weeks ahead of the previously announced Aug. 15 completion. Workers will be on the job longer hours (6 a.m.-6 p.m.) in order to finish sooner.

Businesses in the Westgate and South St. Anthony areas that depend on the University/Territorial interchange had pressured MnDOT for some type of accommodation. This accelerated construction schedule is seen as a partial solution—and probably the only one forthcoming.

Ahlgren is a champion skater
Leif Ahlgren placed 3rd at the North American Speed Skating championships in Vancouver, British Columbia, in March. He started against stiff competition, including the Vancouver team, considered best in the world. He expects to try out for the next Winter Olympics.

Ahlgren started his speed skating career in 3rd grade and is now an 11th grader at Minnesota Academy.

This season has been a rough one. He missed the first half of the year due to mononucleosis and then, after winning the national junior title with record-breaking times, was injured in a fall.

The 60th annual Festival of Nations, sponsored by the International Institute of Minnesota, runs Fri., May 1-3 at the St. Paul Civic Center.

Historic traditions from 86 ethnic groups will be showcased through cultural exhibits, ethnic cafes, dance performances, folk arts demonstrations and an international bazaar.

Tickets are available at the door for $7 (adults) and $4 (youths 5-16).

SteppingStone Theatre gets grants
SteppingStone Theatre for Youth Development, which presents plays and workshops at Murray Junior High, has been awarded several grants by local organizations. St. Paul Companies provided $15,000 toward the recent production, "Make A Joyful Noise." That show reached approximately 6,700 people with a history of African American music. The City of St. Paul and Josten's have contributed toward SteppingStone's operating budget. Other contributors include IDS Grand Metropolitan Food Sector, Target, the Minnesota State Arts Board and the Hugh J. Andersen Foundation.

Local youth in SteppingStone play

To Your Credit
Financial news and advice from your neighborhood Norwest banker

Tapping your home's equity

After years of looking elsewhere for convenient credit sources, Americans are coming home. They're ending costly relationships with high interest credit cards and installment loans and replacing them with a new financial commitment—a home equity loan.

Equity to cash

Basically, a home equity loan is a second mortgage against your house. The maximum you can borrow, or your "available equity," is usually calculated at 70 to 80 percent of your home's market value, less the balance of your first mortgage.

"Home equity is the fastest-growing type of loan," says Ann Elsone, loan product manager, Norwest Banks. In many cases, people are using their home's equity to replace existing debt, which is probably at a higher interest rate and not likely to be tax deductible.

Interest on consumer loans is no longer tax deductible. A home equity loan, however, is currently a mortgage, and its interest is tax deductible in most cases.

Elsone advises to proceed with caution. "If you use it to pay off your other debts, then go back out and run up your credit cards, you'll be no further ahead," she notes.

Multiple uses

Other than replacing existing debt, the most common uses for home equity loans include home improvement, cars, secondary property investments and school tuition. Still, they're not for everybody.

"If you plan to move during the next three to five years, it could prevent you from having the money for a down payment on a new home," Elsone notes.

Red Cross blood drive
The Red Cross bloodmobile will be at St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church, 2233 Como Ave., on Mon., May 11, 2-7 p.m. Call the church office, 646-0371, to reserve a time to give blood.
New eligibility rules for those who give blood went into effect March 16. New all prospective donors must know the exact name of any prescription medication they may have taken within 30 days. The upper age limit for giving blood, previously 75 years, has been removed, allowing anyone 17 years or older to give. Persons who have had a heart attack or cardiovascular conditions in the past, but are now symptom free, have no restrictions on physical activities and do not take any heart medication, can now give blood. Also, the weight minimum has been reduced from 110 pounds down to 105.
As part of the process, Red Cross nurses will continue to ask potential blood donors questions about behaviors that may indicate a risk of exposure to AIDS, hepatitis or other diseases.

Update on barrel dump
Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) has agreed to work with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency on investigating the barrel dump on ADM’s former property in the Westgate/Hwy 280 area.
ADM’s consultants question several of the conclusions reached in a previous study of the dump site, however. So before ADM commits to a barrel removal, the company wants to perform additional investigation. The MPCA staff will oversee this investigation.

Block Nurse Program gets grant
The St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program has been awarded a Minnesota Department of Human Services (DHS) grant to expand its operations. The program will receive $22,000 over the next 18 months to add services for a broader group of neighborhood seniors.

The Block Nurse Program has provided nurse-managed home care for seniors in the Park for ten years. With the DHS grant, it will add social and supportive services, modeled on the St. Paul Living at Home Program, for seniors who don’t need formal nursing care.

Funding for the grant is provided through the Seniors Agenda for Independent Living (SAIL) program. SAIL was adopted by the legislature last June to address the long-term needs of Minnesota’s elderly.

For more information about the Block Nurse Program, call 662-9062.

Park Festival June 6
The annual St. Anthony Park Festival and Art Fair will be held on Sat., June 6, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., at the Como and Carter Avenues. There are several new attractions planned for the year’s festival. A staging area will be set up near the gas station for animal demonstrations. Como Zoo, the Raptor Center and several University of Minnesota large animal groups have been invited to participate.

A safety fair is being organized in conjunction with the St. Anthony Park Community Council which includes vendors displaying the latest in home and security devices.

Spring has arrived...and so have our bedding plants, herbs, vegetables, and abundant life seeds.

Traditional favorite local talent will be highlighted at the show, with a medley performance on stage near Milton Square.

Anyone interested in performing or setting up a booth for the festival should call Bridget Forsy at 645-2386 by May 20 to reserve a spot. All participants will be required to pre-register for booth assignments, so plan ahead.

What can I do, Mom?

By Vickie Gilmer

Long, warm, sunny summer days always feel inviting right now. But come summer those days can get pretty long. Perhaps it’s the secret behind local kids’ activities this summer, with lots of possibilities here.

Artistic adventures

Summer art classes will be taught at Langford Centre. These classes offer students a chance to develop their skills in many different drawing and painting. Sessions are held in the afternoons on Mon., Wed., Fri. and June 22-26, July 20-31, and Aug. 3-14. Cost is $80. Class size is limited to five students per class. Call 645-3602.

The Northern Clay Center offers clay camps for kids ages 5-9 the mornings of June 22-26 or Aug. 3-7. These classes will be held at Langford Park Rec Center. Cost is $80. The Big Wheel gives kids a break from the midday heat when they plunge their hands into cold, wet clay. This two-week course is for 5-14-year-olds. The cost of $100 includes clay and firing. Classes are held at 2375 University Ave., July 6-10 and July 13-17 in the afternoon. Call 298-5770.

The Clay Center also offers family workshops on Sunday afternoons.

Two art classes sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Arts Forum will be offered at South St. Anthony Rec Center. The fee charged is only a fraction of the actual cost of conducting the classes, thanks to the support of the Arts Forum. Call 298-5770 about either class.

Art Class I for grades K-2 will meet Tues., 2-3 p.m. Cost is $15 for 6 sessions, beginning June 9. Call 340-3600. Demaris Jackson will teach.

Art Class II, for grades 7-9, will have sessions Tues. 4-6:30 p.m. Cost is $20 for the six-week session. Each session includes basic drawing and painting skills using pencil, pastels and water colors. Teacher is Lena Rothman.

Crafts for kids provides youngsters with an opportunity to utilize many art mediums. The class is offered Friday mornings June 26-July 31 at Curtiss Field and Falcon Heights Community Center. Cost is $16. Call 644-9500.

Leather crafts will be taught at Langford Park on June 12 in the afternoon. Cost is $20.

Arts and crafts classes for 5-7 year olds are held from 3-4 p.m. for six weeks beginning Thurs., June 11, or 4-5 p.m. on the dates for 8-12 year olds. Call Northwest Como Rec Center at 298-5813.

Community Education offers art classes at St. Anthony Park Elementary School. These Tues. classes which begin June 16 are for students in grades 3-6. Call 293-8738.

Theatrical themes

Theatre arts (storytelling, creative dramatics and puppetry) will be taught by Charles Nunzio, along with classes by Linda Fonzi in drawing, painting, sculpture and video as part of Creative Theatre Unlimited’s Summer Reach Out program. Classes run Mon.-Fri., mornings June 13-17 or July 20-24 at St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ, 2129 Commodewold. Cost is $160 for either 3-week session. The program is designed for students ages 4-9. Call 645-8972.

SteppingStone Theatre is offering a variety of workshops at Murray Junior High for kids of all ages interested in theatre. The Creative Workshop is for children 3-8 years old and gives them a chance to learn creative dance, dramatics and includes music. Cost is $65.

Connecting Characters is for children 9-12 years old who are interested in taking acting classes, singing, dancing, auditioning, stage combat and playwriting. Children will create a play and perform it (daily classes in either June or July sessions). Cost is $252.

Youth ages 13-18 interested in theatricals are encouraged to join the Performing Arts Workshop where they will receive daily classes in technical theatre and playwriting and rehearsal music to perform. Cost is $330 for daily sessions July 27-Aug. 21. Call Nancy Paul, 225-9253, about any SteppingStone offerings.

SteppingStone Theatre will also teach acting to 3rd-5th graders at St. Anthony Park Elementary School on Wednesday afternoons beginning June 17. Cost is $30. Call 293-8738.

Making music

At Musical Trolley children ages 4-8 will get hands-on experience with various instruments plus songs, creative dramatics, visual art, literature and movement. Classes are offered at the Children’s Museum and Bandana Square mornings or over the noon hour June 15-19 or July 22-26. Call 627-4020.

Stories and poems

Expose your kindergarten-3rd grade child to World Storytelling through folk tales, fairy tales and fables that come to life in stories, crafts and musical activities. Bring them to the Children’s Museum at Bandana Square June 15-19, mornings. Cost is $45 for members, $65 for non-members. Call 644-5365.

The Bookstart program will again be held this year at South St. Anthony Rec Center, thanks to the efforts of Community Education, Recreation, District Council and the Library Association. Classes will be held Tues., Wed., Thurs., 9-10 a.m., starting June 9 and continuing for 15 sessions. Children will discover the enjoyment of books and reading. Lisa Steinemann will teach this class for children ages 4-6. This year classes will also be held on Wednesdays, 11 a.m.-noon, at Hampden Square Community Room.

The Bookmobile will be at the Northwest Como Rec Center every other Wednesday beginning June 10 from 1-3 p.m.

A storytelling class will meet Mondays, 4:30-5:30 p.m., at Northwest Como Rec Center. Cost is $6 per session. Call 298-5813.

The St. Anthony Park Branch Library will sponsor a summer reading program for kids up to age 12. Children get a card to record how many books they read and receive a prize for every 10 completed. Pre-readers can enroll, too, if an adult reads to them. Call 298-6760.

Celebrate St. Anthony Park Library’s 75th birthday on July 30. Join in the fun and dress up in pioneer costumes, play games and enjoy cookies and lemonade. Call 292-4635.

It’s magic!

Also at the Children’s Museum, 2nd and 3rd graders will enjoy Best Beginning Brain Busters which is designed to encourage math in a fun and friendly setting. The day is Thurs., July 16, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. cost is $10 for members, $19 for non-members.

Creative Computers will be offered by Community Education at St. Anthony Park Elementary School mornings in June for students in grades 2-3 (320) and 4-6 (325). Call 293-8782.

Computers: Logo will be offered for grades 3-4 and 3-5 beginning June 29 in the mornings. Cost is $25 or $15 depending on age. Call 293-8782.

What Are Buyers Looking For?

By Carol Weber

Today’s buyers are busy people with a variety of interests. Surveyors say they would rather pay a little more for a home that is well organized, clean and updated (especially the kitchen and bath), and is in good condition throughout. Fresh paint and newer carpeting are a real plus when buyers are making a decision. They also want convenience and easy maintenance in the interior and exterior of the home.

Buyers have a variety of interests so they need storage space for all their belongings. The master bedroom should have two closets, ample storage in the kitchen and bath plus room in the garage or basement for the weekend toys such as: snowmobiles, boats, bikes, trailers, skis (water and snow), hockey equipment, golf clubs, and exercise equipment. We in Minnesota do not travel lightly even with our four seasons!

A yard for privacy, gardens or pets is still a prime motivating factor for home ownership. People want space and escape from confining, stressful jobs. A home is more than a shelter. It can, and should be, a refuge, peaceful and rejuvenating. We can be of help in finding that refuge please call us.

If we can be of any assistance in your future housing needs please call: Edna Realty, 656-2299, Carol Weber.

Lucy Abbe

Lucy Boothroyd Abbe died on March 19, 1992, at the age of 85, following a lengthy series of illnesses. She was a retired teacher of biology at Macalester College and a researcher in plant biology.

Mrs. Abbe was born in Rhineland, New York. She entered Cornell University in 1924, where she received a master's degree in botany. She collaborated in plant research, notably in the structure of trees and gene expression in corn.

In 1950 she married Ernst Abbe, and the couple went to Harvard, where he obtained his Ph.D. in botany and she did extensive research. The Abbes came to the Twin Cities in 1955 when Ernst Abbe received a teaching appointment at the University of Minnesota. In the years that followed, Lucy and Ernst went on many expeditions to study rare plants. During World War II, Mrs. Abbe's research shifted to a study of a Russian dandelion, a possible source of rubber—a project on which she spent several years. She was offered a teaching position in biology at Macalester College in 1954 and taught there until 1966. During this time she also did extensive field work with her husband in Southeast Asia. They collected over 800 flowering and wood specimens of oaks and other species. These were catalogued over a period of years, largely by Mrs. Abbe.

Lucy Abbe was noted for her intellectual curiosity and her persistence in the completion of many of her research projects, but also for her adventurous spirit that welcomed opportunities to botanize in out-of-the-way corners of the world. Being somewhat of a feminist too, it gave her great pleasure to demonstrate that women are as competent as men, even under physically demanding circumstances. Her son, David, said she was not an outspoken feminist but instead preferred to be recognized for "her achievements instead of her declarations."

Donna Behrend

Donna J. Behrends died on March 15, 1992, at the age of 52. She was a resident of the Como Park neighborhood and a member of Holy Childhood Catholic Church.

Lutheran quilters provide warmth and beauty worldwide

By Mary Mengenthal
At St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church you can count on seeing 13-15 women hard at work making quilts. They're quick to clarify that they're not making fine handmade quilts but rather sturdy, practical ones. Sturdy as practical quilts are not visually unappealing, however.

Working with donated fabric the group makes quilt tops that are as attractive as possible. Those tops are then applied to purchased backs to make quilts for warmth and privacy for people in all parts of the world.

Between January 1 and April 1 the group completed 51 full-size quilts and six crib quilts. They accept contributions of good use condition used quilts and particularly welcome lengths of new fabric.

Before Christmas the group donated quilts to the Salvation Army, Union Gospel Mission and Marie Sandvik Center. Crib quilts are regularly donated to South Asian Ministry, to be given to newborn arrivals. At the end of the quilting year (the group sews from September-May) quilts are sent to Lutheran World Relief (LWR) for distribution worldwide. Sixty were delivered to the LWR warehouse early in April.

Why do these women spend their Thursday mornings tearing, measuring and sewing? "We relish the opportunity to provide something which is real service to people around the world. Each person has her own job so we work as a team to complete about three quilts each week. And, of course, the companionship we enjoy is no small part of our reasons for being here either," said leader Sigrid Rothman. "We've seen in LWR videosquilts like ours used as room dividers in Third World countries as well as for warmth."

Council Actions at a Glance:

Town meeting to explore
St. Anthony Park Elementary
School parking lot request

At its April meeting the council:
• decided to hold a town meeting on June 10 at the library to present a proposed plan for a parking lot at the elementary school.
• approved the site plan for the Lutheran Social Services administration building on the Luther Northwestern Seminary campus. Construction to begin in late June or early July.
• voted to approve the attorney report by H. B. Fuller to allow for parking lot construction at its facility on Energy Park Drive.
• reviewed and approved the landscaping site plan for Total Petroleum at 2189 University Ave.
• approved the site plan for a 3,000 sq. ft. warehouse addition by Worum Chemical Co., 2130 Energy Park Dr., with additional landscaping.
• denied a variance request to convert a duplex to a duplex at 3077 Como Ave.
• took no action on the request for a non-conforming use permit at 2338 Carter Ave. to allow conversion of duplex to a fourplex. Owner must get the consent of 2/3 of the property owners within 100 feet.
• voted to adopt the proposed plan to reconfigure the Hendon/Como intersection for the good of the community, to remove some street parking on Como Ave., for improved sight distance at Brompton; to change the 2-hour parking limit on Brompton to 24-hour parking.

1992-93 Community
council elected

Nine new council members will begin their terms on May 13 when they join five continuing members and four incumbents as neighborhood decision makers. There is still one vacancy on the South St. Anthony delegation and two midway on the Midway Civic and Commerce delegation.

Elections to select residential representation held on April 14 resulted in naming Alice Magnuson, Barbara Murdock and NONA navarroo to 2-year terms as North St. Anthony delegates. Richard Nelson and Dirk Duncker were elected as alternates for a 1-year term. Richard Allen and Allen Walters will serve as delegates from South St. Anthony and Scott Magnuson will be an alternate. One alternate position is vacant and will be appointed by the delegation if a volunteer steps forward.

Midway business and commercial delegates and alternates are named by the Midway Civic and Commerce Association and the St. Anthony Park Merchants and Professionals Association. The 1992-93 delegation from the business community will include Jeff Clossmore. Six transfer: Dave McElroy First Bank Midway; Howard Ostrem, Luther Northwestern Seminary; B. Warner Shippee, Courtyard Antiques, and Gary Woodford, Graphics. Two alternate positions remain to be filled.

Two delegates from North St. Anthony and three delegates from South St. Anthony will serve the second year of their terms; Phillip Duff and Jean Mayer from the Midway Civic and Commerce delegation and John Grantham and Beth Richardson from South.

In May each delegation selects a chairperson and organizes four subcommittees. Each person, delegate or alternate, is asked to serve on one of the standing committees—environment, housing, human services or physical planning. Community residents or business people interested in serving as ad hoc members on any of the standing committees or wishing to inquire about serving should contact any council member or call the office at 292-7884.

Bookstart registration set

Lisa Steinmann, Bookstart teacher, has announced that the session will begin earlier in June this year and will be held in two locations. Co-sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Community Council and Community Education, Bookstart is a free program that teaches 4- to 6-year-olds the fun and joy of reading. Several classes will be read each day along with activities to promote creativity and imagination.

South St. Anthony Park Rec Center will be held from June 9-30 on 16th St. W. There are 10-30 a.m. Class during the same dates will be Wednesday at 11 a.m. in the Hampton School Community Room. Register by calling the Community Council office (292-7884) or the Rec Center from May 18 to June 5 (295-5770).

Council-sponsored meetings are listed each month in the Budge Community Calendar on page 17. Everyone is welcome!
