The K9-5k Walk and Run for Animals was held on May 6 at Como Park. Walkers and runners, who were required to be accompanied by a canine, were encouraged to collect pledges to support the Ramsey County Humane Society. This 9th annual fundraiser supported the society's programs and services benefiting homeless animals.

Time to welcome summer! Arts Festival slated for June 3

More than 5,000 people from throughout the Twin Cities are expected at the 26th annual St. Anthony Park Arts Festival on Sat., June 3, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Festival guests will enjoy music, dancing, entertainment for children, ethnic and traditional fair food, the library book sale, and artists and craftspeople selling their creations. The festival is free and takes place around Como and Carter Avenues.

The festival kicks off the preceding evening with the Northern Lights 4-H Club ice cream social in the ParkBank drive-in lot, at Como and Doswell Avenues, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Homemade pie with ice cream will be served.

Then from 7 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, there will be a pancake breakfast at St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church, Hillside at Como Avenues.

Nearly 100 artists and their wares will surround the St. Anthony Park Library. Several, including potters from the Northern Clay Center and an oriental-style rugmaker, will demonstrate their crafts.

Some of the artists include:

Roger Allen-Wickler, "discharged" T-shirts
Linda Nelson Bryan, painted silk
Naomi Christenson, decorative Scandinavian painting
Peter Giese, blacksmith work
Barbara Hill, Barbie clothes
Sandra Johnson, oriental rugmaking
Esther Kanzenback, watercolor, batik, sumi-e
Connie J. Klockman, quilling, papercutting

With construction set to begin, some unhappy about noise wall

By Kristin Cooper

Construction of noise barriers along Highway 280 is set to begin following the July fourth holiday, according to Minnesota Department of Transportation Project Manager Earl VanBerkom.

The barriers will be made of concrete pillars and treated lumber similar to what is used for decking. The concrete pillars will face the highway, VanBerkom said, and landscaping will be completed next year after the soil has settled.

In spite of these efforts to make the barrier less noticeable in the area, some neighbors at the west end of Doswell Avenue near Eustis Street and on Brompton Street where it meets Doswell are unhappy with the noise wall plans.

Norman Kagan, who lives on the western end of Doswell, has contacted neighbors and found that about two dozen others share his concern about the wall blocking their view and being "terribly noticeable." He has collected signatures from residents of 15 households on a petition, written letters to officials and plans to organize a small demonstration at the State Legislature before it adjourns.

Kagan said the 20-foot-high wall is "overkill" and called the process to obtain it very political. He said neighbors would like more input about the type of barrier used.

Kagan was part of the discussion in a neighborhood group two years ago about what should be done about the noise on Highway 280, but he stopped attending meetings. He said he believed they were dominated by voices in favor of the wall and by residents on Bourne Avenue, whose view of the highway is mostly blocked by trees. "I was tired of banging my head against the wall," he said.

He said the wall has the effect of "pitting one neighborhood street against another neighborhood street."

"If that's the case, that's the first time I've ever heard it," said Jim Snoxell, a proponent of the noise wall and a member of the neighborhood task force that worked on getting the noise barrier.

"A tall wall going up is unfortunately the only means of having meaningful noise abatement," Snoxell said. He said the effort represents the work of a

Lauderdale has new city administrator

By Barbara Claussen

After interviewing six applicants for seven and a half hours, the Lauderdale City Council selected Tim Cruikshank, assistant city administrator in Mounds View, as the city's second city administrator.

The interviews at times were made tense by the presence of a somber group of staff and citizens who observed the proceedings. The candidates answered questions ranging from their grant-writing experience to how they would handle an irate citizen whose mailbox had been knocked over by the county snowplow. The six interviewed were selected from 15 applicants.

Cruikshank graduated from St. John's University in Collegeville, Minn., with a B.S. degree in government and a minor in business administration. He received a master's degree in public administration from Hamline University in 1992.

Cruikshank worked as an intern for the city of Minneapolis in two different departments in the city coordinator's office, the department of intergovernmental relations and the office of public affairs. He worked on special projects to gain experience while completing his master's degree.

In July of 1991 he began an internship with the city of Mounds View. He was named assistant city administrator two and a half years ago.

Cruikshank started in Lauderdale on May 22, changing from a city with a population of 12,600, to one with 2,700. He says he understands the small town aspect of Lauderdale since he grew up in Maple Lake,

St. Anthony Park Community Council News

Council actions at a glance

At its May 10 meeting, the Council:

- Heard a presentation on a neighborhood case of vandalism and discussed the possibility of a reward fund to encourage people to come forward with information leading to the arrest of vandals or other perpetrators of crime in this neighborhood. The issue will be further discussed at the May 24 Housing and Human Services Committee meeting.
- Elected new Council co-chairs: Bob Arndorfer from South, Alice Magnuson from North and Andy Boss from the business delegation.
- Voted to sign on as co-sponsors of the two Capital Improvement Budget projects for the St. Anthony Park Library. Ranked the projects in the following order: 1) library accessibility; 2) library improvements; 3) College Park play area; 4) Midway Stadium tunnel to Fairgrounds—design and engineering; 5) replace fuel tanks—equipment services; 6) Regional Training Center/Community Center.
- Accepted the final report of the Hospitality Task Force and thanked the members for their work. The council will be making specific efforts to reach a broader mix of community residents, businesses and organizations.
- Voted to endorse the action of the Executive Committee in sending a letter of support for the funding request to the STAR Program (half-cent sales tax money) for development of the Artspace Jerome Foundation project to create office space and performance space and studio space for arts organizations in the Specialty Building at University and Raymond Avenues.
- Voted to endorse the decision of the Housing and Human Services Committee to simplify the problem properties process. The Council will no longer keep its own list but will encourage concerned residents to use the city Office of Citizen Services (266-8989) to make inquiries and register complaints. If a neighbor is hesitant to call the city, the Council community organizer can provide this service.
- Voted to approve the update rosters of committee members to provide voting status to ad hoc volunteers.

Food drive a success!

On April 26, 1,120 pounds of food were collected for the Merriam Park foodshelf along with the recycling pickup.

Thanks to the efforts of Mark Hansen and the Scouts of Troop 17 who distributed the fliers. The cost of printing the fliers was graciously donated by First Bank Midway.

And thanks also to the staff at Supercycle, who are very helpful and a pleasure to work with.

Our next pickup at St. Anthony Park will be on the 4th Wednesday of October. Currently we are the only Community Council coordinating this service.

Donations to the foodshelf can be mailed to Merriam Park Foodshelf at 2000 St. Anthony Ave., St. Paul, MN 55104. Call Roberta Reberts at 645-0349 for further information. Eligibility for foodshelf services is determined on a case-by-case basis, and the need is continuing to grow.

Recycle your cereal boxes and more

Boxes you may think of as cardboard are called boxboard. They are gray, white or tan on the inside. Please empty all boxes, flatten and remove any plastic liners or plastic parts.

Recycle pasta boxes, snack boxes, cereal boxes, cake boxes, potato chip and pretzel boxes, etc. Bathroom and laundry boxes may include toilet paper and paper towel rolls and medicine boxes. Laundry detergent and additive (dry bleach, borax, etc.) boxes may now be recycled. Also recyclable are pop, water and beer boxes as well as shoe, toy, game and gift boxes.

Please DO NOT include any boxes that have remnants of food, or that have a coating of anything but paper, like wax or plastic. These boxes include microwave food boxes, ice cream and yogurt cartons, juice concentrate tubes, juice boxes, milk cartons and frozen food boxes. Also, no foil, plastic wrap or wax paper boxes, no paper plates, cups, napkins or paper towels, no pizza boxes and no egg cartons. Throw those in the garbage. A good rule of thumb is if the product needs refrigeration, it's probably not recyclable because of a coating.

Clean boxboard should be folded and put with the magazines and mail in your recycling bin.

Council-sponsored meetings are listed each month in the Bugle Community Calendar (see page 17).

Everyone is welcome!

Lauderdale City Council selects new member

By Barbara Claussen

Lauderdale City Council members agreed they faced a tough decision in choosing between two impressive candidates for a vacant council seat. At their April 25 meeting, they interviewed Kou R. Som and Karen Gill-Gerbig to fill the vacancy created by Gene Ohman's resignation. A majority of the council supported Gill-Gerbig, some citing her past involvement in the city and her awareness of the issues as the reasons.

Following the 3-1 vote, Mayor Jeffrey Dains encouraged Som to be involved. "I think you have some real potential to be on the City Council in the future," he said.

Gill-Gerbig has been a Lauderdale resident since 1983. She has served on the Planning and Zoning Task Force and the Park Committee and chaired the Lauderdale American Cancer Society annual fund drive for four years.

Gill-Gerbig sees the role of the City Council as caring for and maintaining the city as efficiently as possible. "It's important to look at the community as a whole," she emphasized. "When you're faced with 'irritated individuals' you can't forsake the city for the individual."

To prevent Lauderdale from merging with other communities is one of Gill-Gerbig's goals. "Since we are a small community, we have to be creative to stay as a small community as long as we can."

She stressed the importance of long-term planning to accomplish this goal. "I'd like to see the community switch from a reactionary mode to a planned, thought-out mode for the future."

As a member of the Planning and Zoning Task Force, Gill-Gerbig wants to help formulate Lauderdale's Comprehensive Plan.

She views infrastructure problems as a high priority for the city. "Lauderdale should initiate improvements to the sanitary sewers and water lines and add a storm sewer run-off system to ensure the city's future."

Another issue facing Lauderdale, she believes, is living together and getting along with its neighbors in a unique community within a larger metropolitan area. "We need to keep communication among ourselves open, listen, respect our neighbor and hopefully work to compromise on issues where we cannot fully agree." She would like to see more community participation.

Gill-Gerbig has a B.A. in anthropology from Hamline University and a master's in continuing studies-archeology from Mankato State University. She works part-time in the collections department at the Science Museum of Minnesota.

In the fall of 1992 she taught a course in anthropology for gifted and talented students at Brimhall Elementary School in Roseville. As the volunteer coordinator for the Horizons program, she persuades adults to create a program or extra-curricular class in their area of expertise for Brimhall students.

Vandalism case unsolved; reward fund set up

By Kristin Cooper

A reward fund has been established at St. Anthony Park Bank on behalf of area residents Bill and Cari Kidd, victims of extensive vandalism damage to their Doswell Avenue property over Easter weekend. Neighbors may send donations to Reward Fund, c/o Marvin Chapple, St. Anthony Park Bank, 2265 Como Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55108.

The Kidds hope that by offering a reward, someone with knowledge about this crime will come forward. Anyone with information about the vandalism, which involved dumping paint and spray-painting vehicles and the garage, is urged to call the St. Paul Police Juvenile Unit at 292-3612.

Because of the vandalism, Don Razskazoff, a neighbor of the Kidds, appeared before the St. Anthony Park Community Council in May to ask for its support in setting up an ongoing neighborhood reward fund.

He said the fund is necessary to reward people for coming forward with information leading to arrests in cases of neighborhood crime.

Members of the council voiced general support for the proposal, some considering a neighborhood tipline "regrettably a good idea." The council will further research the idea, along with possible liabilities, and was to discuss it at the May 24 meeting of the Housing and Human Services Committee.

The committee will report its findings at the next full council meeting on June 7 at 7 p.m. at the South St. Anthony Park Recreation Center.

Marie Adams of 825 Seal St. in South St. Anthony Park will celebrate her 100th birthday on May 29. There will be an open house for family, friends, hi-rise residents and the community on Sat., May 27, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the community room of the Seal Hi-Rise.

Adams, her husband Floyd, and their family moved to a home on Como Avenue in 1939 and lived there until 1955. After a period of time in Winona, they returned to a Raymond Avenue apartment in 1966. Floyd Adams died in 1977. Marie moved to Seal Hi-Rise in 1993.

Her children are Margaret Jagodzinski, also of Seal Hi-Rise, Nancy Keller of Fort Collins, Colo., and Dr. Roger Adams of Maple Plain, Minn.

Joshua Jongewaard, Benjamin Jongewaard and Joshua Sumner, all of the Como Park neighborhood, are among the top ten in their graduating class of 1995 at Como Park High School. They were among the top ten students in all St. Paul public high schools honored at senior honors night on May 23.

Leanne Matthiesen of Falcon Heights received the Northrup King Company Outstanding Junior Award from the University of Minnesota. This scholarship is awarded annually to the outstanding junior in the Department of Agronomy and Plant Genetics. Matthiesen is majoring in science in agriculture. She is active in the Block and Bridle Club, Gopher Crops and Soils Club and U Scholars.

Matthiesen also was named to the winter quarter dean's list in the College of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Sciences on the St. Paul Campus.

The Christopher Watson Dance Company will present its Minnesota debut concerts on June 1, 2 and 3 at the Hennepin Center for the Arts, Minneapolis. Watson lived in St. Anthony Park as a youngster and attended St. Anthony Park Elementary.

Robert O. Straughn, a resident of St. Anthony Park, was recently named a "Leading Attorney" by his peers as a result of a statewide survey of lawyers conducted by the publisher of "Guidebooks to Law & Leading Attorneys." Fewer than 5 percent of Minnesota's practicing attorneys were named "Leading Attorneys."

Straughn was nominated in the category of real estate law and appears in the current edition of "Minnesota Business Guidebook to Law & Leading Attorneys."

Maureen Filter, a junior at St. Paul Central High School and a resident of Como Park, was one of 11 students to spend the week of April 24 to 28 at the State Capitol as a high school page for the Minnesota House of Representatives.

Rita Butterfield of St. Anthony Park was one of six to be given an award by the Alumni Society of the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Minnesota. She received the Advanced Study Scholarship. Butterfield is a Ph.D. candidate majoring in recreation, park and leisure studies.

Ashley Johnson, 7, of South St. Anthony Park, the daughter of Jennifer Bintner, has been chosen as a state finalist in the Miss Minnesota American Princess Pageant to be held July 7 and 9 at the St. Paul Radisson Hotel. The pageant is for girls ages 3 through 7.

Harriet Lerman, a 6th grader at St. Anthony Park Elementary, was a winner at the 60th annual MMTA (Minnesota Music Teachers Association) piano contest. She will perform in the honors concert at Northrop Auditorium on June 3.

Arthur Payne, science teacher at Murray Junior High School and St. Anthony Park resident, was named one of 23 summer research teacher fellows nationwide by the American Physiological Society (APS). He will work for about eight weeks in the lab of Dr. Esther Gallant at the University of Minnesota. Payne will receive up to $5,000 for his research.

He also will get an expense-paid trip to APS headquarters in Bethesda, Md., for a one-week summer institute, where he will learn how to translate his research activities into classroom sessions for his Murray students, and $750 to attend an experimental biology meeting in Washington, D.C.

Support arts & crafts fair

Dear editor,

The Arts & Crafts Fair, which celebrated its first thriving quarter century last June, is entitled to look forward with considerable confidence to its next 25 years. Indeed, its next 50 and then probably 100 years. Is that bragging to the verge of fantasy?

Not really, for this annual early June show staged by the St. Anthony Park Branch Library Association on the library grounds is so much a part of life in the Park that its arrival virtually makes it official: Summer is here at last!

The Arts & Crafts Fair is the major source of income for the 63-year-old library association, whose mission is to support and enhance our splendid library and related community programs. For example, fair revenue has paid for books—notably for children—and furniture that an ever-tighter city library budget couldn't afford. It has paid for plants, flowers and trees and seasonal decorations. It has helped in many ways to make the library the crown jewel of the Park.

And, of course, the library association's Arts & Crafts Fair is part of a coordinated project: the library system's used book sale in the basement community room (which owes its existence to the association, by the way). Proceeds from the sale of "withdrawn" library books stay with the city-wide library system.

But more than that, the library association has had a cordial and mutually profitable and chore-sharing relationship with the 20-year-old St. Anthony Park Festival put on by the St. Anthony Park Business Association. Because the festival shares the day and our "downtown" area with the library-grounds fair, the two meld into a single merrymaking event as far as the community and its visitors are concerned. We would not want it otherwise. The festival, whose focus is on Como Avenue, features sidewalk sales and in general showcases the area's commercial importance and generously provides family-oriented entertainment.

The sum is congenial cooperation between two civic associations with otherwise different missions for a merry summer day, thanks to scores of our neighbors who don't seek but deserve our thanks. The need for such collaboration between citizen-volunteers and commercial-participants has never been more compelling.

The fair and festival need your support, and all of us—especially the younger families—will in the next 25 years and beyond need, in turn, the benefit of neighborhood organizations like these if pleasant places like the Park are to survive.

Still a nonprofit

Dear editor,

The board of directors of the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse program is concerned that St. Anthony Park residents will misunderstand the nature of Block Nurse based on the article in the May Park Bugle that gives the impression the program is a "business." The usual connotation is that a "business" makes a profit. While the program must be run on a businesslike basis in order to account properly for the money received from health reimbursement services, foundation grants, neighborhood fund drives and client payments, it is not a profit-making business.

The Block Nurse Program was started in our neighborhood by several women who believed that residents over the age of 65 should be able to stay in their own homes as long as possible. In order to do that, the nurse works with the resident to set up a care plan that may include volunteer visiting, homemaker, home health aide and other supportive services. The nurses and the block companions are paid the current wages for that field, as are our program and volunteer directors.

The program was in no sense created as a for-profit business but as a service for valued residents of our neighborhood. We want residents of the neighborhood who have supported Block

Nurse with both their time and their donations to understand clearly that their contributions have been given to a valid service program.

Block Nurse, Inc. grew out of the St. Anthony Park program in 1986 in order to replicate the program in other neighborhoods. The Living at Home services were merged with the Block Nurse Program in subsequent years.

Executive Committee & Board of Directors,
St. Anthony Park Block
Nurse Program

No place for hatred

Dear editor:

Thank you to all of the kind people who expressed an interest in donating to a reward fund to help apprehend the criminals responsible for causing thousands of dollars worth of damage to our property over Easter weekend. With the help of Don Razskazoff and other neighbors, an account has now been established at St. Anthony Park Bank. We appreciate your support and are buoyed by the knowledge that not everyone in "the Park" shares the views of the vandals who defaced our property.

What many residents don't realize is that this was not a random act of vandalism. This was a crime about hate—most likely the work of someone in St. Anthony Park who knows us, or knows someone who knows us. The photo you saw was the only photo that was publishable, due to the extent of vulgar obscenities that were spray-painted on both vehicles and our garage. Bill's truck not only had the word "PAYBACK" painted on a side window, but every available surface was covered with swastikas. My car was also covered with swastikas, along with crude, female-specific obscenities. On the side of the garage where I generally park, 3-foot letters spelled out another crude female obscenity, making it obvious that the person(s) who did this were familiar with who drives which vehicle.

This outrageous crime was a premeditated, targeted act of hatred by vigilantes, employing the same tactics used by organized hate groups to cause fear among their targets. The message of hatred came through loud and clear. In writing this letter, we'd like the parents of St. Anthony Park who cannot account for the whereabouts of their children in the wee hours of Easter morning to stop and wonder whether their child or child's friends are indeed capable of such an act, and to contemplate whether attitudes of hatred and intolerance are fostered in their own homes.

After going through this emotionally and financially draining ordeal, beyond the obvious question of "Who would do this?" looms an even larger question of "Why?" We can't come up with much, other than a minor incident in which we called police to talk to neighborhood kids. In posting a reward, it is our hope that someone will come forward. Even if nothing more is solved, at least we've brought an important community issue to light. Just as the popular bumper sticker reads, "Hatred is not a family value," we believe hatred should not be a "Park" value either.

South Park deserves coverage

Dear editor,

After years of denial, I am grudgingly admitting something: North Park (of which I am a resident)—or maybe just the Bugle—is biased against South St. Anthony Park.

The Parkview Cafe in South Park changed owners almost exactly a year ago. One brief mention was made in the Bugle because one of the two new owners sent in a write-up; it was not even published in its brief entirety. In the meantime, several North Park businesses have received timely and extensive free coverage: new businesses such as the jewelry store and the Scandinavian deli, moving businesses such as Tim's new frame shop location, change in ownership such as Tim and Tom at Speedy Market, and even the hiring of a new manager such as Nick did at the gas station.

In the meantime, interesting things have been happening at the Parkview: Renovations have occurred in a "spiffy biffy," there have been reported Elvis sightings, the queen and queen mother are currently in the window pointing out the new signage, the pope deplores meat on Friday, food is fantastic and service is great. It is now open nights and weekends, and even dutifully buys an ad each month in the Bugle.

The cafe's management was interviewed and pictures were even taken—granted after a little pressure—for supposed use in a Bugle article, all to no avail. There seems to be only one obvious conclusion: location, location, location.

Coverage that businesses get in the Bugle is important to their success, and even more critical for start-up management. The conclusion that South Parkites are deemed by the Bugle to be second-class citizens is a real de-motivator for prospective advertisers.

A disappointed resident,
Jan Meyer

A long journey back home

Author's note: This story was inspired by the recent tragedy in Oklahoma City. If ever there was a time where the gift of Johnstown, the Triumph of the Human Spirit, was needed for our entire nation, it is now.

One of my favorite memories is my first recollection of Johnstown, Pennsylvania. Though I was born there, my family moved to Cleveland when I was a year old. We lived in a small house not far from the steel mills, a world that seemed solely comprised of asphalt and concrete.

When I was about 4, my parents took me to Johnstown. I fell asleep in the car. When I awoke, I was in a strange room. My parents were sleeping in a big bed nearby. How did I get here? I opened the bedroom door into a colossal living area. It reminded me of President James Garfield's house (where we visited a week before). This was my mother's childhood home. Formerly owned by a steel mogul, this sprawling manse had 23 rooms.

I ran back into the bedroom to awaken my parents. "Where are we?" I exclaimed. "We're in Johnstown," my mother said sleepily. "What's Johnstown?" I asked. "This is where you are from," she said.

I was from this house? If that was true, why were we living where we were? I thought I could get used to this place very quickly. Later that morning, we had breakfast in the lavish dining area with my aunt, uncle and various cousins. My relatives regaled us with various tales of my mother's childhood. After that, it was time to explore the city.

"Come on," said my dad. "We're going downtown and then we'll go up the hill." We drove to the city's center and walked around. This was nothing like Cleveland; it was smaller and people were friendly. They seemed to know my parents and fussed over me. (This was a stark contrast to our neighborhood back home. I have never forgotten that the people next door would not let their kid play with me. They said we were "hillbillies" for no reason other than our accents. A Johnstown accent is very distinctive, though hard to describe. It's quite nasal with a pronounced drawl resulting from stretching every vowel to its limits. It gave us away every time.)

We toured downtown until we found our destination, a strange contraption called an incline place. It resembled a freight elevator, except that it was outdoors and ran on cables along the side of a nearly 1,700-foot mountain. As we rode up, downtown seemed to evaporate as the Allegheny mountains enveloped us. I marveled at the sun-drenched pines, maples and white birch that we saw on the way. This was like a Walt Disney movie about the wild frontier. It was great!

Our last stop was Grandview Cemetery. Grandview, located high on a scenic hill, is where most of my relatives are buried. After several minutes of trekking from grave to grave, I was bored, but had to wait until they completed this ritual. As we were leaving, my mom stopped. "Look over there," she said, pointing in the direction of endless rows of white headstones. "Those are the unmarked graves of the people who died during the Johnstown flood."

This was not the first—nor last—time my family would speak of The Flood. As a child, I could recite the stats from memory: On May 31, 1889, 2,200 people were killed, 755 of whom were never identified (most of whom were beneath the white markers). Even so, the gravity of this event was incomprehensible. A flood? Like the kind we had in the basement? How could that kill anyone?

Years later, I became a typical teenager and concluded that everything my parents did was embarrassing. Once, an older couple walked by our house and began chatting with my mom and me. "Where are you from?" the man asked my mother. When she told them, a big smile lit up his face as he turned to his wife and said, "They're hill people, Mama, just like us."

I was mortified and stormed into the house. I begged my mother not to tell anyone where we were from. That hillbilly label haunted me and I feared it could blight my social life forever.

"When I grow up," I declared, "I am moving to Hollywood, California." I also decided not to go to Johnstown any more. I especially didn't want to go on any more pilgrimages to Grandview Cemetery.

One day my mother was recounting some flood chronicles (she survived a smaller flood in 1936), when I stopped her. "Were those people stupid or something? Why didn't they just build a bunch of rafts?" My mother was astonished, but only said, "You'll understand someday."

I did leave Cleveland at 18, worked my way westward, and got as far as St. Paul, Minnesota—not quite Hollywood.

I mostly forgot Johnstown—until 1989. That year, I read an open invitation in the paper asking former Johnstown residents to return to commemorate the 100th anniversary of The Flood. At first, it seemed ludicrous—a joke—venerate a tragedy? And a Flood Museum, yet? But it also intrigued me, reminding me that it probably was time to visit my cousin Jessica, whom I hadn't seen in over 20 years.

Though she was my parents' contemporary, Jessie was unlike any adult I knew. I remember her as a beautiful woman with long blonde hair and sparkling blue eyes. Jessie never married, which was unusual for a woman coming of age in the early 1950s. "I never wanted to be tied down," she once told me. And Jessie, an artist, a fine writer, and weaver of tales, never was tied down to anything—except those ancient mountains.

I packed the car and began the journey back to Johnstown. When I was just outside of the town, I noticed a marker that read "2,500 feet." I was quite unaccustomed to these types of heights, let alone the fact that they didn't seem to believe in guard rails.

When I made it to her door, Jessie was waiting for me. She hadn't changed much. We spent the evening catching up. The next day we toured the town and headed for the Flood Museum.

I didn't remember much from the last time I was there, so we took many detours. That way Jessie could connect me with my past. "This is the hospital where you were born. This is the house you lived in during the first year of your life. This street is where your grandfather had his restaurant."

My head was spinning. For though I grew up in Cleveland it never felt like home. But here I was in a place I barely remembered, but in a deeper sense had always known. It's strange to unearth something long-buried in your conscious mind. It can be exhilarating or frightening. For me, this was a little of both.

My transformation culminated during our visit to the Flood Museum. Jessie and I watched a film that powerfully recreated Johnstown in the late 1800s and the flood. Johnstown then was inhabited by many immigrants from Germany, Wales, Scotland and Ireland. Some worked the earth, extricating the coal needed to fuel the major industry, the Cambria Iron Company, where others labored. To them, working under dangerous conditions, making less than $10 a week, was a way to make a new life in the New World. The population had grown to 30,000 in 1889.

The surrounding area's magnificence did not go unnoticed by another group of people—the Pittsburgh elite. There, in South Fork, about 14 miles up the valley from Johnstown, the Carnegies, the Mellons, and others built summer "cottages" (anywhere from 20 to 50 rooms). The members designated themselves the South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club. At South Fork, they sequestered themselves from the outside world.

Besides the rolling hills and clear streams, they also inherited the South Fork Dam. The dam, already in poor repair, was made even less structurally sound by the club members. They widened it to allow their carriages to cross and lowered a part of it called the spillway to enhance the beautiful falls. They spent summers picnicking, boating and fishing in this idyllic neverland.

Club members were cautioned about the dam's precarious state, but the warnings went unheeded. On Memorial Day in 1889, after nearly a week of non-stop rain, the dam burst, or, as one witness recalled, "moved away." On its journey down the valley, it picked up velocity and enough houses, trees, rocks and other debris that it resembled a "moving mountain." At certain junctures, it was over 50 feet high. Though it was contained briefly by the Johnstown viaduct, the rubble, as well as the dead animals and

Flower power: Elementary students plant 'Peace Garden and Forest'

By Amy Causton

Something new is springing up at St. Anthony Park Elementary School. Students there are making the neighborhood a little more beautiful with a new garden, which they planted on May 12.

More than 30 trees and shrubs were planted in the garden, which is right in front of the school entrance off Knapp Street. The garden is described as a "Peace Forest," since students at the school selected peace as their theme for it. Originally planned to be in the shape of a peace symbol, it is now in a circular shape, with a grassy center.

In addition to the trees, eight bird feeders and three benches donated to the school will be installed. Also, a perennial garden was planted in the nearby cement circle.

The garden project, called "Time for Trees," is part of a new program at the school. Over a year ago, St. Anthony Park Elementary was one of about 30 schools nationwide selected to become a "generator school." The school received a grant of $11,000 over three years to develop service learning programs, incorporating service projects into the school curriculum.

The grant, administered by the national Youth Leadership Council (NYLC) and funded by the Dewitt Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, provides for teacher training, in-service learning and educational reform.

Lisa Griffin with Community Education at St. Anthony Park Elementary, says, "It's not reinventing the wheel, but it's coming back a little bit" to the concept of teaching basic values of service and citizenship in the schools.

The "Time for Trees" project began last summer after several St. Anthony Park Elementary teachers attended an NYLC service learning camp. One of the groups doing a presentation there was the Tree Trust, an organization based in St. Louis Park.

Janeen Whitchurch, an ESL (English as a Second Language) teacher at St. Anthony Park, was interested in doing a project with the Tree Trust. "I have an interest in outdoor and environmental things, and I know quite a bit about gardening," she says. So she wrote for the grant that allowed the school to go ahead with the garden.

A "green team" composed of students, staff and community members was then organized to plan the garden. Using the team's ideas, the Tree Trust's professional landscapers designed a garden to suit the school's needs.

Among the many varieties of plants used are maple, crab and chokecherry trees and lilac, sumac, pussy willow and rose bushes. In addition to designing the garden, the Tree Trust provided the school with tree materials and gave several classroom presentations.

It is expected that the garden will function not only as landscaping, but also as an "outdoor learning area," in Whitchurch's words. All grade levels were involved in the planting of the garden, and already several classes have met there for environmental and science units. It also will be a beautiful place to read, study or relax.

Whitchurch says she welcomes community input. "We're hoping the community will be involved in garden maintenance in the summer months," she says. The school considers the garden a gift to the whole neighborhood—a gift that will keep on giving for many years to come.

Lauderdale residents evaluate community park improvements

By Barbara Claussen

Alexander Calder, the artist who was fascinated by the circus, would have loved to have Lauderdale's new brightly-colored playground equipment in his backyard. Some of the neighbors would have preferred something more subdued.

The large equipment was installed last fall in the Community Park, at the corner of Roselawn Ave. and Fulham St., replacing some equipment that was almost 30 years old.

Last year, Lauderdale received a $35,000 Community Development Block Grant to update playground equipment and make the play area accessible to those with physical disabilities. Work on the path and playground continued this spring.

A public hearing at city hall on April 25 allowed citizens to voice concerns about Lauderdale's parks. The hearing was a requirement for the city's Department of Natural Resources grant application.

Denise Hawkinson suggested putting sand under the volleyball court instead of grass. She also voiced concern about the dilapidated condition of the basketball hoop and backboard.

Karen Gill-Gerbig commented that the improvements are very good and are long overdue. She asked the council to reestablish the Park Committee.

Elizabeth French expressed concern about the aesthetics of the park. "Presently it looks like a gravel pit." She emphasized the need for shrubbery to improve the play area's appearance. French also stated her concern with future changes in lighting. She said the pavilion in Falcon Heights is not lighted at night and the city has no problem with vandalism.

Mary Croteau brought up the tennis court safety issue. "I play a lot in the summer and you can trip going up to the net." She also believes that if the entrance to the tennis courts is enlarged to the 42-inch wheelchair-accessible requirement, roller bladers would zip down the sidewalk into the courts, causing damage to the surface. She suggested leaving an outer gate to slow them down.

Hawkinson defended the roller bladers. "They are shooed off the tennis courts, go to the basketball courts and then end up on the streets. I think we should think about blacktopping the hockey rink."

Council Member Jack Barlow responded that the council could probably look at doing something about the basketball hoop and backboard without getting a grant. Council Member Susan Bardill suggested that the staff present estimates of the cost at the next meeting.

People interviewed in the park regarding park improvements expressed a variety of opinions.

Marcella Nelson responded, "I appreciate the new play equipment," but added, "My 2-year-old daughter, Johanna, cannot access half of the equipment. For a mother it's more work to come to the park."

Marcella's husband, Ken, said, "I think it's nice. I am really pleased with all of the park equipment. It makes it a lot more fun for Johanna to come to the park."

Children who grew up in Lauderdale and frequent the park had strong opinions about the changes.

"I like it," said Michelle Lyles, 11. "I would have liked a more natural looking color so it doesn't stand out, but blends in with the environment."

David Molitor, 10, said, "I pretty much like it. It has two slides and it's a lot more fun. The one thing I don't like about it is the rocks under the play area. I'm always getting rocks in my shoes. I liked the grass better."

"I like the new equipment," responded Ruth Molitor, 12. "With all of the things connected together it's easier to play tag. I think it's good that they left the old slide and the old swings."

Her younger sister, Rebecca, agreed that it's more fun to come to the park. She likes the colors. "I like red and blue together." She suggested smaller steps for the slides because it's hard for Esther, her 3-year-old sister, to get up there. "She needs a lot of help."

Falcon Heights Elementary

On May 16, author Nancy Carlson came to our school. Students in grades K-3 were also able to buy her books that were for sale earlier. She signed some books for those students.

The spring concert was a big success. At the evening concert our new gym was packed with people. The 5th and 6th grade band performed as did the 4th, 5th and 6th grade orchestra. Our 5th and 6th grade choir also sang. The boys' and girls' chorus also sang. The girls sang a medley from "Lion King." The boys sang "Yesterday," a song originally sung by the Beatles but now also by Boyz 2 Men.

The 6th graders had a research fair earlier this month. The students chose a topic to research and present. The kids could pick any subject they wanted to. Here are some examples: space, X-men, Mercedes Benz, etc. All or almost all participated in it.

It has been fun writing for the Bugle this year.

put on "Forecast," "Queen's Flowers," "The Boy Who Cried Wolf," and "Nothing Happened Today." The 5th graders are doing "Alice and Alex," "The Great Dinosaur Caper" and "Follow the Drinking Gourd." All the plays are awesome!

On April 26, the 5th graders put on a talent show for the whole school that was slamin'. There were double dutch rope jumpers, dancers, pianists and rappers. Also a gymnast put on a really cool act with hand-springs, backflips and other moves.

On March 6 and 7 we had our annual Jelly Bean Days. That's where we try our hardest to earn jelly beans in the gym. Some things we had to do to earn jelly beans were situps, pushups and 18 other challenging stations. Jelly Bean Days are put on by our awesome phy ed teacher, the "Jelly Bean Queen," Ms. Mary Hoisser. On June 1 Ms. Hoisser is going to be holding a second Track and Field Day for all grades. The first day was on May 18. A gunny sack race, 50-yard dash and a long-distance run are just three of many activities.

Our school participated in the annual MS Read-a-thon. Together, Dugan McGraw, Peter Leggett and Luther Flagstad raised over $1,150 for multiple sclerosis. There were lots of other participants who raised some more money.

On May 9 the Chelsea Heights orchestra, directed by Mr. John Middleton, and the school's concert and varsity bands, directed by Ms. Pam Paige, put on a concert. The concert band joined the varsity band for the last two songs, "Power Rock" and "Let's Go Band!" We had a standing ovation.

A new playground is under construction at our school. We are receiving a 100 percent sliver-free playground and a new basketball court. There is going to be a section for 2nd grade and under and a section

Drama

"The Prodigal Son" in Middle Eastern context will be presented on Sat., June 3, from 6:45 to 8:15 p.m. at Luther Seminary Chapel of the Incarnation, Olson Campus Center (Hendon at Fulham). The play, directed by Doug Cox, is part of the National Student Conference on Islam. A freewill offering will be accepted.

Music

On Pentecost Sunday, June 4, at the 10:30 a.m. Mass, the Schola Cantorum of the Church of the Holy Childhood, accompanied by orchestra, will sing "Mass in A" by Cesar Franck. Other music will include French choral and orchestral works. Soloists will be baritone John Jagoe and chorister Jacob Flaherty, son of Dan and Lynn Flaherty. Stephen Schmall will conduct, with Robert Vickery at the organ.

June 4 also marks a celebration of the Buchanan-Larsen Endowment, initiated a little over seven years ago to help ensure the future of the church's unique 49-year-old music program. Founding pastor, the Rev. John Buchanan, will be present to award the honors scholarships to Schola boys and girls. The endowment funds the scholarship as well as the orchestra Mass. Anyone interested in furthering this program of sacred music is invited to call 646-0852.

Church of the Holy Childhood is located on Midway Parkway at Pascal Street.

All are invited and children are especially welcome to sing old and new favorite hymns at the 7th annual Luther Seminary HymnJam. Following the theme, "Dance the Old Songs," the HymnJam will be held on Tues., June 6, at 7 p.m., in the Chapel of the Incarnation, Olson Campus Center.

Songs will be led by John Ylvisaker, a well-known contemporary composer and folk singer in the Lutheran faith, and Douglas and Shirley Norquist.

Ylvisaker has published a songbook, "Borning Cry," which will be used during the evening. Douglas Norquist, a Luther Seminary alumnus, is the pastor of Bethesda Lutheran Church in Strandquist, Minn.

Featured will be songs "known by Lutherans but neglected in their current hymnals—Sunday evening songs, midweek Bible study songs, camp songs and Sunday school songs," said Gracia Grindal, professor of rhetoric and organizer of the event.

A freewill offering will be taken during the event, which will be followed by an ice cream social.

The Itasca Trio, including St. Anthony Park resident Brian Krinke, will give a recital on Sun., June 18, at 3 p.m., at St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ, 2129 Commonwealth Ave. The trio will perform works by Henze, Schumann and Ravel. The Itasca Trio has performed in Alice Tully Hall at Lincoln Center and other venues in New York.

Trio members violinist Brian Krinke, cellist Stacy Madura and pianist Jennifer Undercoffer are all recent graduates of The Juilliard School in New York. All three are natives of the Twin Cities, and have performed extensively with such groups as the Schubert Club, Thursday Musical and Greater Twin Cities Youth Symphonies.

Donations will be accepted.

Visual Art

"Divergent Paths/Woven Connections," an exhibit of fiber art, will be at the University of Minnesota's Goldstein Gallery from June 25 through Sept. 24. The opening reception and lecture is scheduled for Wed., June 28, at 4 p.m., in 33 McNeal Hall. The featured speaker will be fiber artist Chris Allen-Winkler. The focus of the lecture is the role of the fiber artist in contemporary society.

The exhibit features the work of faculty from the university's Second Annual Split Rock Arts Program Institute for Weavers, an intensive series of workshops for fiber artists at the university this summer. Included are works by bead artist Virginia Blacklock, wearable arts designer Randall Darwell, tapestry weaver Laura Foster-Nicholson and basketmaker Shereen LaPlantz.

Admission to all events is free and open to the public. The Goldstein Gallery is located in 241 McNeal Hall on the St. Paul campus. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mon.-Fri.; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thurs.; and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Sat. and Sun. For more information, call 624-7434.

Midwest Media Artists Access Center (MMAAC) will hold an exhibition of photographs at Susan's Coffeehouse & Deli, 2399 University Ave., through June 17. The show will feature a variety of photos by different artists. For more information, call 644-1912.

"The Marks of An Artist," an exhibition featuring work by four young ceramic artists, continues through June 30 at the Northern Clay Center. Nancy Blum, Mary Carroll, Matthew Metz and Linda Sikora exhibit work containing highly individualized marks left on their art during construction and decoration.

Gallery hours at the Northern Clay Center, 2375 University Ave., are Mon.-Sat., 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Thurs., 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Call 642-1735 for more information.

The St. Anthony Park Writers' Workshop will meet on Tues., June 6, at 7:30 p.m., at 2419 Como Ave. For further information, call 645-6312.

Film

Filmmaker John Waters' appearance at the University of Minnesota St. Paul Campus Student Center ballroom has been changed to Fri., June 2, at 8 p.m. He will discuss his life and his art.

Waters' films such as "Pink Flamingos," "Polyester," "Mondo Trasho" and "Hairspray" have become cult classics. His characters are social outcasts who do not care about conventional morality nor the fashion of the day.

Admission for the show is $6 for U of M students, $9 general admission, and may be purchased through Union Station at the St. Paul Student Center or Northrop ticket office at 624-2345. Waters' film "Cry Baby" will be shown afterwards, for an additional cost of $1.

Church says good-bye to pastor

Peace Lutheran Church bids farewell to its pastor of 19 1/2 years, Ray Geist, at the 9:30 a.m. service on Sun., July 2.

The special farewell service is the last of four events of remembrance and reunion for Pastor Geist. On Feb. 26, all those who had traveled as part of Peace groups to Holden Village, backpacked in Wyoming, canoed the BWCA or St. Croix and Red Cedar Rivers, sailed together on Lake of the Woods, been part of baptism retreats or Wilder weekends and those who had participated in ARC Peace groups, were invited to share memories and begin planning future trips.

Students from the Children's Circle, a Waldorf-inspired preschool in St. Anthony Park, welcomed spring on May 3 with the traditional maypole dance and festival. It is said May Day has its roots in Celtic traditions. The maypole represents fertility and the tree of life.

On April 30, confirmation class reunions were scheduled. On May 21, the 86 couples married by Pastor Geist and the 140 children he baptized were invited to return. In the July 2 service, open to the community, ELCA pastors who were part of Peace during their seminary years are being invited to return. For the past 20 years, Peace has been a teaching parish of Luther Seminary and it expects to continue that close working relationship.

Ray and his wife Gay, who is employed with the St. Anthony Park Block Nurse Program, will continue to live in St. Anthony Park.

FALCON HEIGHTS

U of M retirees' luncheon

The St. Paul Campus Retirement Luncheon honoring those who will retire from the University of Minnesota this year will take place on Thurs., June 15 at noon, at the Earle Brown Center. University retirees and friends are welcome to attend. Luncheon tickets for $6 and information are available from Nancy Pitzer in Room 42 at the St. Paul Student Center, 625-6785. In recognition of the retirees, a tree will be planted at the Parkview Center School forest in Roseville.

Gibbs Farm special events

Gibbs Farm Museum, a farm originally owned by Heman Gibbs, an early settler in what is now Falcon Heights, is a living history museum run by the Ramsey County Historical Society. Each Sunday during the summer, from noon to 4 p.m., special events are featured:

June 4: Dairy Day. The Schroeder Milk Company will share both the story of the 111-year-old family business and a taste of its products. Demonstrations, music and a petting farm will keep visitors entertained.

June 11: Blacksmithing Day.

Watch a blacksmith in action at the forge and anvil.

June 18: Father's Day. Antique cars, fire engines and carriages will be on display. Fathers will be admitted free when accompanied by their children.

June 25: Family History Day. Hear the history of the Gibbs Farm from a direct descendant. Learn how to gather your own family history.

Gibbs Farm Museum is located at the corner of Larpenteur and Cleveland Avenues. Admission is $2.50 for adults, $2 for seniors and $1 for children. Call 646-8629 for more information.

ST. ANTHONY PARK

Leisure Center celebrates 25 years

On Wed., June 21, the St. Anthony Park Leisure Center will celebrate 25 years of ongoing get-togethers for those 55 and older. The center began in 1970 as a cooperative effort of five area churches: St. Anthony Park United Methodist, St. Anthony Park Lutheran, Corpus Christi Catholic, St. Matthew's Episcopal and St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ.

The center has met on Wednesdays at St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church (Como and Hillside Avenues) since its inception. Members come together weekly for socialization, entertainment, a nutritious low-cost meal, activities and to share their talents. No church membership is

In June,

Tom Dornsbusch is Employee of the Month

Tom squeezes 28 hours of work out of each day. His 25 years as a master carpenter has given Home Tailors a new mantra, "no problem, I've done that before". Tom carries out his work with the precision and concentration of an expert archer, one of Tom's pastimes. He also enjoys birdwatching with his wife and an occasional home project. Thank you Tom.

required, nor is there a membership fee. Activities include sewing and crafts, card playing, health programs, a book review once a month on the fourth Wednesday, or just visiting over coffee.

Programs planned for June are: June 7: storytelling by members and necktie display; June 14: Father's Day, dogs and/or horses for centerpieces, birthdays and program by Merle Meyer; June 21: 25th anniversary with harp music by Catherine Salovich Victorsen; June 28: 4th of July play by school youngsters.

Reservations for the noon meal should be made by calling Anita Thompson at 488-1058.

Langford Park/ South St. Anthony Rec Centers

Registration will continue through June 9 for the following youth activities: art adventures, chess club, clay camp, tennis lessons, ten-to-one card club, preschool tumbling and Book-start.

The Parks and Recreation Track and Field meet will be held on Fri., June 16, at Harding High School. Boys and girls, ages 7 through 14, are eligible to participate.

Upcoming field trips offered through Langford and South St. Anthony include a Cannon Falls to Red Wing bike tour on June 16, a beach party at Lake Elmo Park Reserve on June 23, Chutes and Ladders at Hyland Park Reserve on July 7, and a trip to the Bunker Hills Wave Pool on July 14.

Langford Park's 1995 4th of July celebration will include games, races, volleyball, horse-shoes, a parade, music and more. A complete schedule of events will be available by June 21.

Call 298-5765, for more information about any of the events or classes.

MMAAC receives grant

The McKnight Foundation has granted Midwest Media Artists' Access Center (MMAAC) $80,000 to purchase new film photography, video and audio equipment. In addition, the McKnight Foundation has increased its level of general operating support from $15,000 to $20,000 per year.

The Jerome Foundation and the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation also contribute general operating fund grants to MMAAC, which is located at 2388 University Ave.

MMAAC took over operation of the access center previously run by Film in the Cities (FITC) in December 1993, and has been providing low-cost access to the same media arts equipment and facilities that FITC had for over 19 years.

Remodeling planned at UCC

St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ will be remodeling its building in the summer of 1996 with anticipated completion in the spring of 1997.

In 1990, a church remodeling committee was formed to study ways in which the building on Chelmsford Street and Commonwealth Avenue could be made more accessible to persons using wheelchairs. After considerable consultation with architects, the committee proposed that many physical aspects of the church be changed.

"Our remodeling will add the functionality expected in modern times—an elevator, larger entry with separate coatrooms, and improved offices," stated committee chair Tim Wulling. "Other parts of our 80-year-old building will be refurbished.

New members of the St. Anthony Park Community Council, from left, Joann Benesh, Randy Flacksbarth and Sheri Booms, began their service at the May council meeting and attended an orientation session. Not pictured here, but also new to the council, are Stephen Stoup and Arlene West. Benesh and Flacksbarth represent South St. Anthony Park; Booms and Stoup are members of the business delegation; West is an alternate on the council representing North St. Anthony Park.

Our wonderfully inspiring sanctuary remains an asset that new buildings cannot match."

The congregation of St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ was formed in 1886 as the Congregational Church, and it met in several buildings until 1914, when the current structure was built. In 1965, a fellowship hall, offices, classrooms and kitchens were added on the west side of the sanctuary.

'What can we do all summer, Mom and Dad?'

By Michelle Christianson

Summer will soon be upon us and the perennial question inevitably arises from school-less children: "What's there to do?" A quick survey of neighborhood institutions reveals a surprising range of activities, many of which cost little or nothing. Here is a brief summary of some of them.

Animals

The Ramsey County Humane Society is providing a series of animal adventure camps for children in grades 3 through 6. The camps are for children who would like to learn about what the shelter does, how to be a responsible pet owner and what children can do to make our world better for both companion animals and endangered species. For more information, call Jan Kelner at 645-7387, ext. 103.

Como Zoo's Summer Safari Zoo Schools, wherein children learn about wildlife conservation and the care and management of animals at the zoo itself, have proved to be so popular that an extra class was added for July 17-21. The zoo also has new classes on animal masks, kite and puppet making. Call the education department of the zoo at 488-9646 for availability.

Art

Local artist Lena Rothman once again is offering a series of classes for children, teenagers and adults teaching the fundamentals of drawing and painting with emphasis on drawing accurately and applying technique and method. Day sessions for children ages 9-14 are in July and August and sessions for adults and teenagers will be Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings. Call Rothman for more information at 645-3062.

Northern Clay Center is running one-week clay camps for children ages six and up in July and August at a cost of $50 per session, which includes materials and firing. To register, call 642-1745, or register in person at the center.

Falcon Heights will provide a preschool art class exploring many media on Fridays in June and July. Register by mail or in person at the Falcon Heights City Hall. Call 644-5050 for information.

Northwest Como has programs for preschoolers and older children including puppet-making, tie-dyeing and papier mache. Call 298-5813 for further information.

Langford Rec Center has a program called Art Adventures for children ages 5-8 on Tuesdays and Thursdays starting June 13. Call 298-5765 or register in person.

South St. Anthony is offering clay camps in June for children ages 6-12. Call 298-5770 or register in person.

Bible School

St. Anthony Park Lutheran Church will hold two sessions of Bible School with the theme "Awesome Adventures: God's Amazing Deeds." The preschool week is June 5-9 for ages 2-5 and the K-6 week is June 26-30. Call 645-0371 to register.

St. Anthony Park United Church of Christ is planning a music camp for children during the week of Aug. 14-18 in the evenings. Participants will use music, crafts and activities to create a program based on a Bible story that will be performed in the church on Sun., Aug. 20. Call Kathy McIntosh at 645-1858 for more information.

Mount Olive Lutheran Church will hold its Bible School the week of July 31 to Aug. 4 for 3rd through 8th graders. Call 645-2575 to register.

Como Park Lutheran Church is offering a pre-K through 6th grade Bible School called "God's Awesome Adventure" the week of June 12-16. Call Randi Quanbeck at 649-0074 for more information.

Dance

The St. Anthony Park School of Dance continues dance classes through June 30 and offers summer dance camps July 11-13 and 17-28. Call 646-0502 for more information.

Reading and Languages

The St. Anthony Park Branch Library is once again running its summer reading program June 12-Aug. 25, providing a reading record chart, bookmarks and rewards for reading 10, 25 or 40 books. The library also offers programs on Thursdays at 2:30 p.m. and Fridays at 10:30 a.m. beginning June 15. The programs feature the Minnesota Zoo Zoomobile, a mime, a puppet show, a juggler, a magician and films for children. A calendar of events is available at the library, 2245 Como Avenue.

The Bookmobile will be at the Northwest Como Recreation Center on June 14 at 1 p.m. with a program on "Remarkable Reptiles."

Bookstart for ages 4-6 will be held at South St. Anthony Rec Center on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings from 9-10:30 a.m. beginning June 13. Call 298-5770 for more information.

The Alliance Française of the Twin Cities will hold two one-week sessions of summer French camp for children. Linguistic and cultural activities

Theater

Steppingstone Theater is holding two of its five camps at St. Anthony Park United Methodist Church. Camp Caldecott for ages 3-5 uses Caldecott award-winning books to explore creative drama, movement and music June 13-29, July 11-27 and August 1-17. Create-a-play Camp for ages 6-8 explores acting, dance, music and art to create a unique play for the ends of the sessions, which run June 12-30, July 10-18 and July 31-Aug. 18. Call Matthew Vaky at 225-9265 for more information. (The theater also holds other camps for ages 9-18 at Central High School, the Science Museum and another

St. Paul location yet to be announced.)

Sports

Although the registration for some summer sports is over, students may register for tennis lessons and tumbling at Langford through June 9. Falcon Heights has programs in beginning ball skills, floor hockey, t-ball, near ball, bowling, baseball, tennis, basketball and soccer. Northwest Como Rec Center offers golf, tennis and boxing. Call the recreation centers or register in person.

U of M

As usual, the university will hold sports camps for children ages 9-15 in a variety of areas beginning June 12. The camps teach scuba diving, tennis, bowling, sailing, golf, table tennis, inline skating, swimming and diving, indoor court sports, outdoor adventures, snorkeling, junior lifesaving and Japanese karate/self-defense.

The Kids' University teaches classes in ceramics, weather, photography, math brain teasers, archeology/paleontology, computer challenges and economics. These classes are for children ages 9-15.

Gopher Adventures (for ages 5-12) offers swimming, sports, arts and craft and other special events.

Call 625-8283 for a program catalog.

Other activities

All rec centers serving Bugle neighborhoods offer many interesting activities for children from chess club and card playing (Langford) to cooking (Falcon Heights) and international studies (Northwest Como). See their brochures for more information or call 298-5765 (Langford) or Carol Kriegler at 644-5050 (Falcon Heights) or 298-5813 (Northwest Como).

Most recreation centers have a variety of field trips and one-time activities as well as their ongoing programs. Although there are too many to list here, it is worthwhile to explore these options through the brochures offered by each center. Also, there are eight city-wide programs listed in Langford Park's brochure, or you can call the downtown recreation office at 266-6400 for more information.

More items may be recycled at curbside

Additional categories of goods have been added to the list of items that may be brought out to the curb on recycling days in St. Paul, Falcon Heights and Lauderdale.

In St. Paul, thin boxes made of cardboard called boxboard may now be recycled. These boxes are gray, white or tan on the inside and include cereal, cracker and cake boxes; potato chip, pretzel and snack boxes; noodle and pasta boxes and more. Put these items in the bag or bin already used to recycle mail and magazines. Coated boxes, including most boxes made to go in the freezer or refrigerator, may not be recycled. For more information in St. Paul, call 644-SORT.

In Falcon Heights and Lauderdale, empty aerosol cans and mixed mail may now be recycled. Aerosol cans may be mixed in with other types of cans. Please remove the caps. Also known as "junk mail," mixed mail includes any kind of paper that comes in the mailbox except brown or manila envelopes. Mixed mail should be kept separate from newspaper. For more information, call Falcon Heights City Hall (644-5050) or Lauderdale City Hall (631-0300).

COULD THIS BE YOUR DREAM HOME?

Do you have a bit of imagination?

1519 Grantham is located on one of the prettiest streets in North St. Anthony Park. In this location, almost any amount of money you choose to invest in a home can be considered a safe investment, because the one thing you can't change about a home is its location, and this is the best! As you view this home from the street, wouldn't you agree that it is one of the most attractive homes you've ever seen in the Park?

Consider the following:

This home needs some updating, but it is priced accordingly, at $159,900. But try not to look at the house as it is - look at it for what it could be. It's already got a bright and sunny sun-room, a large living room with a handsome brick fireplace, a formal dining room, 3 nice bedrooms, and very workable floor plan. Then consider that it's located on one of the largest lots in the Park. In addition, it's got forced air heat, so a new furnace with central air conditioning could be done at a reasonable cost. Further, look carefully at the floor plan with an addition in mind. Notice the way the stairway is configured. If you were to add an addition to the rear of the house with a large 4th bedroom and a private bath on the second floor, entry to that bedroom could come right off the stairway landing. A family room, 1/2 bath and eating area for the kitchen could be added on the main floor. Given the size of the lot, you could add this addition, build a 3 car garage, and still have a nice back yard.

You could do the redecorating now, build the addition later, and end up with one of the most beautiful homes in the best location in North St. Anthony Park. This may be the one for you! CALL ME!

Scouting for Food a success

Boy Scout Troop 218 of Holy Childhood Catholic Church collected 871 pounds of food for the Scouting for Food program on April 29. The food was given to area food shelves.

Members who participate in a chapel cleanup on June 9 & 10 at Tomahawk Scout Camp will be eligible to go on a Sparta-Elroy bike trip on June 16 & 17. A Boundary Waters canoe trip is scheduled for July 15 to 23. Tomahawk Scout Camp dates are Aug. 5-12.

Regular Monday night scout meetings ended on May 22 and will resume again in September. For more information, call Fred Priesnitz, 644-0808.

Coleman to visit on June 26

St. Paul Mayor Norm Coleman will visit with District 10 residents on Mon., June 26, at a community meeting at the Como Lakeside Pavilion at 7 p.m. Attend this informal gathering with the mayor to learn about his vision for the city and ask questions. Refreshments will follow the meeting.

The District 10 Como Community Council is forming a temporary committee to plan the mayor's visit. Anyone interested in helping may call the District 10 office at 644-3889.

Tour new movie studio

The Land Use Committee of the District 10 Como Community Council will be touring the new movie studio, James Productions and Energy Park Studios, on Tues., June 6 at 6:30 p.m. The studio is located at 1515 Brewster St. The committee decided to ask the studio to conduct the tour to help address nearby residents' questions and concerns.

The studio, which houses four soundstages, storage areas, screening rooms and office space, will be one of the largest studios between Los Angeles and New York. Although most residents are only curious about the studio, some have expressed concerns about parking and the new truss on the roof.

To help the committee prepare for the meeting, anyone interested in attending may RSVP by calling the district council office at 644-3889.

Summer social to highlight stroke prevention

Live bluegrass music featuring "Middle Spunk Creek Boys" and "Sotagrass," clowns, face painting and stroke education and exhibits will be featured at the Minnesota Stroke Association's Get Stroke Smart Summer Social on Sun., June 11, from 1-5 p.m., at the Como Lakeside Pavilion. The event is free and open to the public of all ages.

While over 500,000 people have a stroke each year in the United States, stroke is recognized as the most preventable of all catastrophic medical conditions.

The event is sponsored by Abbott Northwestern Hospital, LifeStyle Choices, Beverly Enterprises and Noran Neurological Clinic.

Como Zoo benefit

Como Zoological Society presents "Midsummer Night's Dream," an evening of food, fun and entertainment under the stars for the benefit of Como Zoo's animals, on Sat., June 17, from 7:30-10:30 p.m.

The zoo grounds will be illuminated and decorated in a fantasy theme. Desserts will be served. The Coffee Grounds will sponsor a gourmet coffee tasting, musicians will play at several locations and nocturnal animal programs will be presented.

Tickets are $20 per person or $35 per couple, with discounts for society members. For more information, call 487-1485.

Like a good neighbor,
State Farm is there.®

Construction to begin on Hwy. 280 noise wall ... from 1 large number of people over the past three years, and there were many opportunities for neighbors to voice opposition.

Snoxell said the wall represents a tradeoff and that the members of the group are not blind to the visual implications of the wall, but feel it is necessary to reduce the noise.

While the wall may provide relief eventually, constructing it may bring more noise in the short term. VanBerkom of Mn/DOT said some of the construction work on the noise wall may take place in the evening to avoid shutting down a lane of traffic during peak driving hours. This may require the construction workers to use lights at times. He said the noise should not be much worse than the road noise.

The first phase of the noise wall, which will stretch from Territorial Road almost to Como Avenue along the east side of Highway 280, should be in place by winter. The cost is estimated at $1.5 million.

Lauderdale city administrator hired ... from 1 a community northwest of Minneapolis with a population of 1,400. "The population was 1,000 when I lived there."

Cruikshank is excited about his new job. "I'm very much looking forward to working with the City Council to achieve the goals of the community and the council. My job is to implement these goals as developed by the community and the council."

Asked about the challenges facing Lauderdale's new city administrator, Cruikshank replied, "I think all challenges are opportunities to take steps forward. My challenge is to implement the direction of the council and to get the council and the community where they want to go. I'm looking forward to this new opportunity."

Cruikshank stressed the importance of educating the public to better understand the governmental process. He believes citizens should be brought into the decision-making process. "It's very helpful in my opinion for them to have as much information as possible in order to make the best decisions."

Mounds View Mayor Jerry Linke said, "I'm extremely excited for him and sad to see him go. We're going to miss him. He's been with us for four years and he's been able to handle everything we've thrown at him."

He added, "One thing I've got to say is in our city everything is done on a team basis. He's been able to work with everyone very well."

Cruikshank succeeds Kathleen Miller, who was fired by the City Council in January.

Arts Festival
from 1

Entertainment slated for the stage in the Park Service parking lot on Como Avenue includes the St. Anthony Park School of Dance, Borderline country western line dancers, as well as a variety of music.
Special events and activities will be held throughout the day with attractions for the whole family.

Back by popular demand is Water Wars, a water-balloon playground, and the ever-popular dunk tank. Other successes from past years returning to the festival include the University of Minnesota Raptor Center, the St. Paul Saints, Como Zoo animals, the St. Paul Police K-9 unit, pony rides and the Gibbs Farm Museum. New to the festival this year will be a petting zoo with lots of farm animals, baby animals and even a llama.

The options from the food vendors promise to whet any appetite: fresh fruit drinks, iced cappuccino, lemonade slush, gyros, corn dogs, cheese curds, buffalo burgers, baklava, cotton candy, popcorn and minidonuts.

The festival is co-sponsored by the St. Anthony Park Branch Library Association and the St. Anthony Park Business Association. Historically it has been two separate events, the Library Association's Arts and Crafts Fair and the Spring Festival, sponsored by the Business Association. This year the two organizations have united the event into one St. Anthony Park
Arts Festival.

"The festival is an important neighborhood tradition in St. Anthony Park," said Galen Cadle, co-chair of the business association's Promotions Committee. "It is an opportunity to showcase our community to people from elsewhere, and for our own friends and neighbors to enjoy. The business association is very pleased to be a part of the event, and we enjoy collaborating with the library association on it each year," Cadle said.

The business association uses proceeds from the festival for its neighborhood promotions, newsletters and educational programs.

Co-chairing this year's art fair are Susan McIntyre and Jane Delger Donaho. "We're pleased to see that many artists return every year because they like the St. Anthony Park Art Fair," Donaho said. "We also have some unusual and high-quality first-time exhibitors this year."

Park resident and longtime library association member Janet Quale was one of the founders of the "Arts & Crafts Fair and Bazaar" in 1969.

Johnstown from 5 dead people that it engulfed the previous seven miles, collected and spread for about 30 acres.

The viaduct soon ruptured and the flood increased in speed, raging toward its final target—Johnstown. In less than 11 minutes, it obliterated Johns-town's center and killed over 2,000 people.

After the water subsided,
those remaining began the horrific cleanup process. However, the rest of the world responded to the tragedy by sending money, provisions and lots of coffins. People (including Clara Barton) also arrived to help. As for the South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club members, they left forever. Their contributions to the efforts totaled zero dollars.

The centenary's theme, "The Triumph of the Human Spirit," was the real celebration in Johnstown that year. The sung and unsung heroes, the commitment to bringing a phoenix forth from the ashes, and the caring of the world were cause for rejoicing.

After saying goodbye to Jessie,
she admonished me, "Remember now, these hills are in you and are a part of you." Before I left the city, I stopped at Grandview Cemetery. Somehow I was able to locate each of my relative's graves. Then I waded through the sea of known and unknown resting places of those who had perished 100 years ago. Standing there that hot day in May, I finally comprehended that not just my personal history, but the history of this town—its tribulations and triumphs— were also part of my legacy.

Obituaries

Ruth Arlander

Ruth E. Arlander, a resident of 1666 Coffman in Falcon Heights, died on April 20, 1995. She was 89 years of age.

Arlander was a lifelong member of Elim Baptist Church in southeast Minneapolis and a charter member of her PEO chapter. She was a graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Nursing.

She was preceded in death by her son Phillip Arlander and a brother, Gordon Peterson. Survivors include her husband, Dr. Clarence Arlander; two sons, Thomas Arlander of Minneapolis and David Arlander of Rochester; grandchildren, Scott and Jodi Arlander; and great-grandson, Christopher Arlander.

Ruth Bartlett

Ruth Bartlett died at age 79 on May 4, 1995. She had lived recently at Lyngblomsten Care Center in the Como Park area. She was a member of Warren-dale Presbyterian Church.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Jack Bartlett; brothers, Bill, Albert and Kenneth; sisters, Grace Zorn and Lanore Waalkes. She is survived by a sister, Christine Withrow of Muskegon, Mich.; and nine nieces and nephews in Michigan.

Rodney Briggs

Rodney Briggs, former St. Anthony Park resident, died on May 10, 1995, at 72 years of age. During the 1950s, Briggs made his home on Hythe Street while teaching at the St. Paul Campus of the University of Minnesota. He had recently lived in Shoreview.

Briggs was born in Madison and graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1947. He served in the Battle of the Bulge in World War II, was in the front lines in Germany and V-E Day, and was awarded the Bronze Star. He also served in Germany during the Korean War, before coming to Minnesota.

From 1959 to 1969, he was the first chancellor of the University of Minnesota at Morris, where the library is named for him. He then went to Nigeria for two years as director of research for the International Institute of Tropical Agriculture. After returning to the U.S., Briggs served as president of Eastern Oregon State College for nine years, until retiring in 1982. He also was chief executive officer of the American Society of Agronomy.

Survivors include his wife, Helen Briggs; three daughters, Amy Briggs of St. Paul, Carolyn Briggs Style of Boston and Kathleen Briggs of St. Paul; two sons, David Briggs of Madison, Wis., and Andrew Briggs of Portland, Ore.; two brothers; and six grandchildren.

Charles Burnham

Charles R. Burnham, a longtime resident of St. Anthony Park on Branston Street, died on April 19, 1995. He was a professor of cytogenetics at the University of Minnesota and noted for his work with the American chestnut tree.

Burnham is survived by two daughters, Sarah Burnham Mertz and Barbara Burnham Strickland; and a granddaughter, Cora J. Hodges.

Dorris Flesner

The Rev. Dr. Dorris A. Flesner died on May 3, 1995, at 80 years. He was a retired professor of church history at Luther Seminary. He lived in Roseville.

Flesner was one of the founding organizers of the Lutheran Historical Conference and served as its first chair. He was a member of St. John's Lutheran Church in Minneapolis.

He is survived by his wife Ruth Flesner of Roseville; two sons, the Rev. Paul Flesner of Wheeling, Ill., and Dr. David Flesner of Gettysburg, Penn.; a daughter, Lois Goetz of Plains, Ga.; four grandchildren, Julie Bacon of Moline, Ill., Joy Flesner of Wheeling, Ill., Carolyn Flesner of Boulder, Colo. and Diana Flesner of Gettysburg, Penn.; a great-granddaughter, Jessica Bacon of Moline; and two brothers.

Mildred Grecco

Mildred C. Grecco, a resident of St. Anthony Park for over 40 years, died at the age of 86 on April 29, 1995. She taught piano lessons to many neighborhood youngsters from her music-studio home on Como Avenue. Along with her husband, Joseph, a violin teacher, she planned many recitals over the years.

Grecco lived at St. Anthony Park Home in recent years. She was a member of Corpus Christi Catholic Church. Born Mildred Carlson in Center City, Minn., her family was well-known in that area.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph Grecco of St. Anthony Park; her daughter, Cheryl Masserelli, San Francisco; three grandchildren; and a sister, Marian Fischer of Minneapolis.

James Kelly

James "Thomas" Kelly, a former resident of St. Anthony Park, died on May 11, 1995. He was 67. He had lived in Brandon, Fla., most recently.

A native of Crookston, Kelly grew up on Raymond Avenue. He graduated from Murray High School in 1946, then entered the armed forces. He served in both the U.S. Army and the Air Force from 1946 to 1972. He served in Korea and in Vietnam, earning the Bronze Star there.

He is survived by his wife, Ellen of Brandon; his daughter, Teresa Richardson of Memphis, Tenn.; and his sister, Mary St. John of Dresser, Wis.

Howard Morgen

Howard A. Morgen died at age 91 on May 12, 1995. He was a Como Park area resident and a member of Como Park Lutheran Church.

Morgen is survived by his wife, Lillian, of Como Park; three daughters, Joan Krueger of Bloomington, Dr. Fay Thompson of St. Paul, and Carol Boerger of Coon Rapids; eight grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Rose Rydberg

Rose J. Rydberg, a Falcon Heights resident, died on May 11, 1995. She was 81 years old and a member of Como Park Lutheran Church.

Survivors include her husband, Kurt, of Falcon Heights; her son, Bruce Rydberg of Trophy Club, Tex.; and two grandsons, Brant and Eric Rydberg.

School News from 8

for children in 3rd grade and up.

Karli Thorstenson, Jenni Swenson, Jesse Davis and Ellen Sokol

St. Anthony Park Elementary

St. Anthony Park Elementary School is packing in many activities before school is out.

The SAPSA meeting was held again at the Hubbs Center on May 12. Parents who do not live in our neighborhood did not have to drive so far to be able to attend the meeting.

The students, teachers and residents of St. Anthony Park spent May 12 planting our Peace Forest and Garden as a part of the Tree Trust program. Ms. Swartz's 3rd graders' pen-pals came from Blue Earth, Minn., to visit them on May 12. Our 3rd graders visited Blue Earth on May 19. Our school celebrated Peace Day on May 19. We marched around Langford Park and shared peace with others. There also was a Peace Garden dedication.

The spring band and orchestra concert was held on May 18 and there was a display of our students' art and literature talents.

Ms. Guerstneau's 4th graders enjoyed activities with the residents of St. Anthony Park Home. All three 4th grade classes have been working with forestry students from the University of Minnesota. They have been studying and promoting recycling and other environmental issues. Fourth graders also visited Fort Snelling and the Sibley House to finish their Minnesota history unit.

Mrs. Polfliet's 5th grade class created a rain forest in their classroom by using only recycled materials and their original artwork. They also researched rain forest animals, plants and insects. The whole 5th grade visited the St. Paul airport as guests of Mr. Boynton. A team of 5th grade students raised money for the bomb victim scholarship fund in Oklahoma.

The St. Paul Patrol parade and picnic was held in downtown St. Paul on May 16. Our 6th grade participated in the marching and had lunch in Como Park. (Last year's 6th graders took 1st place. They were judged on how well they marched together.)

The kindergartners had a special lunch day in their cafeteria on May 26. It was a new experience, because they normally do not eat lunch at school.

Track and field day will be held the afternoons of June 1 and 2. All students in 1st through 6th grades will participate in various events. On June 7, the 6th grade will go in-line skating at the John Rose Oval in Roseville. The money to fund the skating was made at the 6th grade sponge throw booth at the school carnival.

The last day of school is June 9. June 8 is the last day for you to stock up on Rainbow coupons to use over the summer. You can buy them all day at school on June 8.

Como Park High School

Congratulations to Bonnie Brings, this year's winner of the Athena Award. This award goes to outstanding female athletes in the St. Paul metropolitan area. This is the first year that this award has been presented in St. Paul.

Everyone at Como Park wishes our ex-administrator, Mr. Ross, good luck at his new job. He was promoted to be a principal at Franklin Middle School in Minneapolis. His time with us at Como was a true experience for everyone. His absence will be felt by all of us. Best of luck in the future, Mr. Ross!

A note to all Como parents: The Parent Advisory Council meeting has been changed from the evening of the 23rd to the evening of the 30th.

May 25 is Teacher Appreciation day. Looking for ways to celebrate? I suggest that if you have never given your teacher a bright, red apple, this would be the day to do so!

Como's last dance is coming up May 26. At the spring fling, students can pick up pre-ordered yearbooks. Normally the school will not pass out the books until a later date, so this is a chance to get a sneak preview!

Carin McIntosh

Murray Junior High

Murray had its annual spring concert on May 25. Many different groups performed and the concert was great!

The Murray garage sale had a profit of over $500 for the school. Thanks to everyone who helped and came to the sale!

Thurs., June 1, is awards night. Over 200 students will be honored with academic and attendance awards. Three special awards are given out: the Christopher Stout, Naomi Mergenthal and the Johnnie Rudolph. These awards are in honor of Murray students who have died.

June 6 is Activity Day. Eighth graders will be going to Valleyfair and 7th graders will be going to Grand Slam. Any student with overdue library books or unpaid fines can't go.

Finals are June 8 & 9 and the last day for students is June 9.
