by Judy Woodward

Susan Hoyt is leaving the best job she's ever had. On April 24, the city administrator of Falcon Heights will take up her new position as physical development director for Dakota County. But she'll be leaving with many regrets. "Falcon Heights has been a wonderful community," she said. "Residents and business people here truly understand the role of government. They've been very involved and very civil. We have a small city staff, but it's fun to be part of it. This is the happiest place I've ever worked."

The regrets are mutual. Says the "other Sue," Falcon Heights Mayor Sue Gehrz, "It's not going to be the same without her. She's a fine strategic planner, she has a great sense of humor and, as a parent, she understands some of the challenges that families face. It's given her a broader perspective. With her talent we knew it was only a matter of time before she was snatched away. It's going to be a challenge to replace her."

In her 11-year career with City of Falcon Heights, Hoyt has gone from being a 10-hour-per-week employee balancing work with the demands of three small children to a full-time manager who says that she's too busy to have any hobbies except "running and hanging out with my family." She's been in her present post for the last nine years.

As she reviews the past decade in Falcon Heights, she acknowledges that there hasn't been much visible change in the community during her tenure. And that's fine with Hoyt. "We're still a folksy little town with a low crime rate and

U of M neighbors winning fight to restrict on-street parking

by John Marino

On the same night the University of Minnesota was unveiling new parking plans for its St. Paul Campus, the St. Anthony Park Community Council was voting to support neighborhood residents seeking to expand non-resident parking restrictions.

"It's not ill will," said Council co-chair Alice Magnuson, "the university needs to be made aware of how the neighborhood feels about the parking situation." The unanimous vote, with one abstention, was taken at the council's March 8 Neighborhood Meeting at Murray Junior High School.

Neighbors who live on selected streets that immediately border the St. Paul campus to the west collected enough petition signatures to qualify with the city to request the change in signage. The signs currently allow one hour parking for anyone from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. All other times are by permit only.

The petition requests that parking be restricted exclusively to residents with area 2 permits, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday. The council then voted to send a letter of support with the petition to the St. Paul Public Works department, which will write a resolution that will be forwarded to the City Council for a vote.

The neighborhood blocks in question are:

* Dudley Avenue from Cleveland Avenue to Chelmsford Street

* Raymond Avenue from

Dudley Avenue to Hendon Avenue

* Hythe Street from Dudley to Buford Avenue

* North side of Hendon from Raymond to Hythe

* Both sides of Hendon from Hythe to Chelmsford

Although enough signatures were collected, some residents didn't sign the petition because it extended the restricted time beyond 6 p.m. and other reasons.

Falcon Heights legislator Mary Jo McGuire aims for Congress

by Dave Healy

Mary Jo McGuire would like to change Houses. The six-term DFL state representative from Falcon Heights, who has represented Minnesota District 54A since 1989, is a candidate to fill Bruce Vento's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

When Vento, 59, learned recently that he had lung cancer, he decided not to seek a 13th term representing Minnesota's 4th Congressional District. That left the door open for a host of candidates, including seven announced DFLers.

McGuire, 43, a life-long resident of Falcon Heights, is a graduate of the College of St. Catherine, Hamline University Law School, and Harvard's JFK School of Government. Currently she serves on three House committees: Family & Early Childhood Education, Finance, Crime Prevention, and Judiciary Finance.

If she's elected, McGuire hopes to continue working at the federal level on several issues she has promoted in Minnesota, including affordable health care and prescription drug prices, workers' rights and a higher minimum wage, and campaign finance reform. She lists other legislative priorities as well: crime control (she authored anti-stalking legislation), the environment (she has a 100 percent rating by the

Struggling SAP biz association joins strong Midway chamber

Changes in administration and support services will help the St. Anthony Park Business Association continue for years to come. The association has been working for several weeks to make a transition from independent group to a part of the Midway Chamber of Commerce. The business association will now be a standing committee of the chamber. St. Anthony Park Business Association members will also be chamber members.

Proponents say the change will allow the local group to maintain its independent identity and continue to sponsor events, host networking meetings and serve the neighborhood. The association can raise its own funds for special events and business promotions. Programs such as the successful building facade improvement program, which has

Industrial redevelopment on track

Pro-green rain water gardens ease environmental woes

by Pete Keith

After some delays, the latest version of a major redevelopment template for 700 aging industrial acres of southeast Minneapolis and parts of western St. Anthony Park was unveiled to the public on March 15. After a long and extensive study, the comprehensive area plan is clearing the last hurdles toward final approval.

The SEED (South East Economic Development) a.k.a. SEMI (South East Minneapolis Industrial area) plan will function as a blueprint guiding the eventual conversion of the region's aging industrial land, to a variety of newer light industry and mixed-use developments. This redevelopment is expected to take many years, with parts of the area not likely to redevelop for at least 20 years.

The region covered by the plan encompasses the area west of Highway 280, from Kasota to University Avenues, west toward the University. Historically, this has been an industrial area of grain elevators, rail yards, and factories. Parts of the region have already undergone redevelopment, including Westgate in St. Paul, and along most of Kasota Avenue and Elm Street. However, much of the SEED area contains aging and abandoned industrial sites, and many of these are likely to have significant contamination, said Jim Forsyth, project coordinator for the Minneapolis Community Development Agency.

The SEED/SEMI plan primarily directs the infrastructure design for the area including roads, storm water management, and green spaces. The plan also addresses environmental mitigation, as well as historic preservation.

The plan now calls for two new east-west roadways, one just to the north of the existing rail yards, and one just to the south. Linking the area from north to south are two new bridges over the railroads, one to the west and one to the east. The roadway plan is intended to allow better access to the full area via Kasota and University Avenues from highway 280, and via a proposed extension of Kasota to Como Avenue near interstate 35W.

Como Lake cleanup on April 15

On Saturday, April 15, the District 10 Environmental Committee, in conjunction with the St. Paul Parks and Recreation Department, is holding a Como Lakeshore Cleanup. People interested in helping out should call the office at 644-3889.

District 10 meetings set

On Tuesday, April 18, the District 10 Como Community Council Board is hosting a community meeting to discuss the initial phase construction of the Como Park Education Resource Center Project. Meanwhile, District 10's environmental committee meets on Thursday, April 27, 7 p.m., at St. Timothy's (886 West Nevada).

St. Anthony Park

Foundation's annual meeting meets on April 12

Plan on attending the St. Anthony Park Community Foundation's (641-1455) annual meeting on Wednesday, April 12, 7 - 8:30 p.m., at the St. Anthony Park Branch Library. Presentations by 1999 grant recipients, a talk by John Adams on urban neighborhoods, and wine and dessert reception highlight the evening.

Langford plans and meetings moving forward in April

On April 18, residents of St. Anthony Park will have a chance to continue in the historic tradition of Horace Cleveland, by helping map out a vision for Langford Park for the next 100 years. What features within the park need to be addressed, enhanced, or preserved? What do you think needs to be addressed within the process? Bring your ideas, requests, dreams and hopes to the United Methodist Church in St. Anthony Park at 7 p.m. on April 18.

Information about the process to date, identified problems and issues, Bugle articles and a map of Langford Park will be posted in early April at the St. Anthony Park Library, St. Anthony Park School, and Langford Recreation Center. If you cannot attend the April meeting, you can leave your comments at any time wherever the information is posted.

Information from the meeting will be used to develop preliminary sketches, which will be posted later this spring. A community meeting to discuss the sketches is planned for early July.

Final concept plans will be drawn up this summer after the July meeting, with a community forum planned for early September. The City needs our final plans in early autumn in order to integrate engineering and construction schedules into the Spring 2001 street construction project scheduled for that part of St. Anthony Park.

Green gardening workshop

The St. Paul Neighborhood Energy Consortium will offer two spring workshops on gardening and landscaping using Minnesota native plants. Native plants require no fertilizers and less water than non-native species.

Workshop participants will learn about the benefits of using native plants, receive professionally designed landscape plans that can be modified to fit their yards, and have an opportunity to order plants at reduced prices through the NEC.

Workshops will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The first one will be March 29 at the NEC office, 624 Selby Avenue. The second workshop will be held April 4 at the Hayden Heights Library, 1456 North White Bear Avenue.

Workshops are free, and child care is available upon request for children 2 years and older. However, space is limited, and preregistration is required. Call the NEC at 221-4462 to register for a workshop.

Franklin-Emerald's development

The St. Anthony Park Community Council and the City of St. Paul Department of Planning and Economic Development is sponsoring an open house to discuss the future of the Franklin-Emerald area of St. Anthony Park on Monday, April 10, from 5-7 p.m., in the community room of the South St. Anthony Park Recreation Center, 890 Cromwell Avenue. The area under study is bounded by University Avenue on the north, Highway 280 on the east, Interstate 94 on the south, and Emerald Street (city limits) on the west.

Interested members of the community are invited to attend any time between 5 and 7 p.m. Questions? Please call Carol Madison, St. Anthony Park Community Council, (649-5992) or Donna Drummmond, Department of Planning and Economic Development, (266-6556).

Environmental committee supports personal rapid transit

The St. Anthony Park Community Council's environment committee recently planted shrubs along the Highway 280 sound wall. On April 15, the committee will replant Kasota Pond. The committee is also supporting the advocacy group, Taxi 2000, in its effort to acquire legislative funding for Personal Rapid Transit, a monorail-type transportation system that would be used in tandem with buses and possibly light rail transit.

The Community Council passed the recommendation of the Physical Planning Committee, which requested that a third building on the corner of University Avenue and LaSalle, one block east of Raymond Avenue, be built with three walls made of wood and the fourth wall of aluminum. The building would be of similar appearance to the other two buildings on that corner that were remodeled about 10 to 15 years ago. ■

A new water tank for St. Anthony Park

St. Anthony Park is getting a new water tank, which will hold 750,000 gallons, and is scheduled to be operational sometime between the summer and fall of 2001.

"We got the most out of this tank," said James Graupman, manager, Engineering Division, St. Paul Water Utility, who spoke at the St. Anthony Park Community Council town meeting on March 8 in the Murray Junior High Auditorium.

"The neighborhood uses about 2.2 million gallons of water each day," Graupman said. It gets its water from the State Fairgrounds tank, which holds 1.5 million gallons and the current tank, which holds 200,000 gallons. The existing tower, located on the corner of Cleveland and Dudley avenues, was built in 1914 and last repaired in 1982. It's rusted to the point that it would be a hazard within five years, he said.

It will be torn down after this year's State Fair, and the new 90-foot high spherical tower will be erected in the same spot. It will have a triangular-shaped base of 35 feet in diameter that would taper to 12-1/2 feet in diameter at about 33 feet up from the base. Unlike the current tower, which is surrounded by a barbed wire fence, the new tank will have landscaping around it. ■

EDITORIAL

Hail to the chief, Sue Hoyt

Sue Hoyt is professionalism personified. She is official without being officious, courteous without being condescending, and political without being partisan. Now, after 11 years as Falcon Heights' city administrator, she is leaving her post to become physical development director for Dakota County. Congratulations and good luck. Still, Hoyt will be truly missed by all.

Hoyt is one civil servant who has not lost faith in the power of government, possessing a steadfast belief in the need for public and private sectors to work toward the common good. Indeed, Hoyt holds true to the creed made famous by our late president, John F. Kennedy, who said, "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." So long and farewell, Sue Hoyt. ■

Vote in SAP council election

St. Anthony Park residents go to the polls on Tuesday, April 11, when they select representatives to the community council. Far too few exercise their voting rights. By sitting out the election you're declining to comment on the neighborhood's direction from parking crunches to park designs. Representatives to the council, who act as liaisons to the St. Paul City Council, make monthly decisions that directly affect your workday lives. South St. Anthony residents may choose two reps from a select crop of four. Meanwhile, three candidate stand unopposed in North. It's your choice, just make one. ■

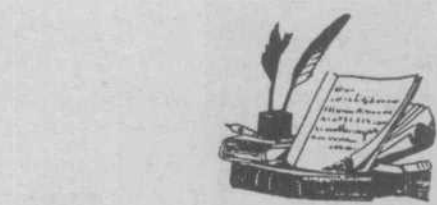

Parking concerns

I am writing in response to a letter published in the March issue of Bugle regarding proposed "unfriendly" parking restrictions. I am one of a number of residents who petitioned neighbors to revise the existing permit parking regulations in our area of St. Anthony Park. We proposed in our petitions that the regulations be changed in our immediate neighborhood to No Parking, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday, except by permit (Area 2). The streets that would be affected by this change are Dudley (from Cleveland to Chelmsford), Raymond (from Dudley to Hendon), Hythe (from Dudley to Buford), and Hendon (from Raymond to Hythe). On March 8, the St. Anthony Park Community Council voted in support of these petitions.

I wish to point out that this is not just a Dudley Avenue issue. Residents on Raymond, Hythe and Hendon, as well as Dudley, have joined together to support changes in the permit parking regulations. And support for this exceeds the 60 percent that was reported in the letter. On Dudley Avenue alone (between Cleveland and Chelmsford), 90 percent of the households supported the petition I circulated, considerably higher than the 60 percent required minimum.

After putting up with the parking situation in front of our house for nine years, I've had enough. I'm tired of friends and family not being able to park in front of our house during the week. I'm tired of having my driveway blocked by inconsiderate drivers who are late for their classes at the university and are unwilling to walk another block to the campus from an open parking spot. I'm tired of having my garbage container hit when students attempt to back into my driveway to turn around but inevitably miss the driveway. I'm tired of putting my children at risk when they are on the sidewalk because of students, blindly pulling into the driveway to turn around instead of going around the block. I'm tired of having the new curbs in front of our house run over and parked on by students' pickup trucks. After going without much of a boulevard for several years, I am tired of seeing the new grass ripped up when drivers overshoot the curb. Simply put, I am tired of being taken advantage of.

This change in parking regulations, by itself, won't completely resolve the parking issues. We realize it is one step toward an overall solution that must include increased enforcement, more affordable on-campus parking, and a revision of how permits are issued to fraternities and sororities. However, if we don't take this first step the problem will only escalate. It is imperative that we work together with the City of St. Paul and the University of Minnesota to find a long-term solution.

There are a few individuals, outside of the affected area, who have characterized this as an unfriendly action toward students. I take exception to that. We are frustrated by this growing problem and we need relief. It seems to me that we've had to put up with the unfriendly actions of student parkers who routinely violate the current parking rules. Recently, the St. Paul Police Department discovered that one of the fraternities in our neighborhood had been fraudulently printing and issuing their own parking permits. As of this writing, seven cars using those permits have been impounded and the owners fined. I've placed reflectors on steel fence posts to help students know how close they can park to the driveway and then watched as they have run them over, never bothering to get out of their cars to see what they've done. We've picked up their trash and cleaned up their messes (one neighbor even going out with kitty litter to soak up oil after one student decided to change his oil on the street).

We live in a wonderful neighborhood and we want to take care of it. We are friendly people but we are not patsies.

Blaine Thrasher

How many of you belonging to an association or club have offered your houses to host its next meeting? Was parking for your guests difficult? Probably not if you reside at a comfortable distance from the St. Paul campus. But for those of us living within two blocks of Cleveland Avenue, parking has been a source of nagging frustration for a long time.

Presently, the restriction for Dudley

Avenue, just west of Cleveland, are as follows: parking on one side of the street from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with the option for residents to buy a permit for the year. However parking in front of our own houses is still congested.

On week days, Dudley Avenue, located directly across from the St. Paul campus gym is monopolized all day long by cars belonging to students attending classes and to people using the gym. The latest petition initiated by Blaine Thrasher is to allow parking by permit only from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Friday. That would give us some guest parking for meetings and other gatherings.

Even with this improvement, we will still have parking difficulties because fraternities in the region have many permits and some may be duplicated.

Residents here are merely trying to regain some access to their own street. I am very aware that this petition, if successful, will inconvenience some. I hope that all of you not directly affected by that parking problem will try to understand our plight.

Maryse Fan

We live on Dudley Avenue, and lobbied for 'permit only' parking that the community council just approved. This was needed because of daily illegal and grossly inconsiderate habits:

- *Blocking our driveway (not every day, but weekly).
- *Not moving cars for posted street cleaning (for 15 years!). *Ignoring 'No Parking' signs for utility projects, tree trimming, moving vans. *Dangerous (laying rubber) in driveways and alley, racing for a parking place. *Driving over sprinklers, recycling containers, shrubs and other boulevard objects.

Should our street be a parking lot? The U of M has parking for students and employees, but we're cheaper. With lax enforcement and St. Paul parking fines half what Minneapolis charges ($15 vs. $30), we're a good deal.

A separate but related issue is that of student houses (with parking permits) using the street as a parking lot and adding to many of the problems listed. Being part of the community is a two-way street. If you wish to enjoy the benefits, then be responsible and follow the rules.

Dave Hansen and Karen Lilley

Langford Park fine as is

I read the article in the February Bugle concerning thoughts to revamp Langford Park. I wish I could shout to Mayor Coleman, "It ain't broke! Don't fix it!"

My grandparents settled near Langford in 1913. I have lived about a block from the park for over 30 years. It is a plain and simple park . . . pretty much the same now as it was back then. That is what makes it such a unique place. It is peaceful, quiet, and unstructured. Because this park is not "designed," each person that comes to it can create what they want at the time. To my father, the old building was a bandshell. In his teens, he played his trumpet there. To me as a college student, the building was a quiet place to ponder life with friends. To

Serving on the Council these past four years has given me an opportunity to better understand our community and its role in our daily lives. Maintaining this sense of community for our generation and the generations to follow is of great importance to me. Our environment is another issue that deeply concerns me, whether it's cleaning up the area around Kasota Pond, in the fall neighborhood clean up, pollution issues, or promoting recycling. Continued work with the Tree Trust, stabilization and restoration of our many fragments of wetlands and Oak Savannah, and development of Urban Corridors to link these parcels, will continue to hold a high priority with me.

I have served as an alternate delegate for South St. Anthony Park during the past term.

I have also served on the SAPCC environment committee for about six years, and have been active in conservation efforts at Kasota Pond in St. Anthony Park, in greater Minnesota, and internationally. I would like to continue working on behalf of the neighborhood by seeking to build consensus on difficult issues, and to protect and conserve our unique natural resources.

"Let me represent you"

Mark your calendar for Tuesday, April 11, 4 - 8 p.m., when the St. Anthony Park Community Council holds its annual elections. The library is North's polling spot and South residents cast ballots at Seal Hi-Rise.

BRUCE KIMMEL

Public Finance Advisor

As commercial redevelopment occurs in and around St. Anthony Park, I want to work with the Community Council to help preserve and enhance the diverse housing options, safe streets, pedestrian-friendly retail areas, attractive parks, and other qualities that make our neighborhood great. I currently serve on the St. Anthony Park housing and human services committee and South St. Anthony Park traffic safety task force. As a financial advisor to communities on housing and economic development projects, a former St. Paul business liaison, a graduate of the Kennedy School of Government, and a new homeowner, I would bring policy expertise, practical experience, and fresh ideas to the Community Council.

Background: *Homeowner and resident of South St. Anthony Park. *Professional background in Natural Resources Management/ Environmental Sciences/Resource Analysis. *Current job as Information Technology Professional at the University of Minnesota, St. Paul campus.

Goals: *To address and follow-up on the immediate issues affecting our community. *To organize and help community members to take an active role in our neighborhood. *To discuss, coordinate and implement new ideas that community members have within the Council. *To keep my neighbors informed of the important issues that directly affect our community.

Interests: *Environmental quality issues in our neighborhood (safety, health, and positive progress). *Bringing businesses and residents closer together with project work. *Neighborhood beautification and grassroots projects directly involving community members.

Internet Marketing Executive

I'm completing my first two-year term on the Council. As I believe to be true with any board seat, it has taken some time to understand the workings of the organization and its interactions with the City of St. Paul and the community-at-large. Now that I have gained that experience, I look forward to continuing my participation in what I hope and expect to be a meaningful manner.

SUZANNE GARFIELD
Information Technology Specialist

The recent College Park playground controversy highlighted how deeply I care about this community, its members and its assets, both tangible and intangible. I have enjoyed the challenge of serving on the new playground committee and working with other neighbors to develop a compromise plan. As a course instructor and computer support person at the University, I have a strong customer service orientation and think I can be an effective representative for St. Anthony Park on other issues of import. I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to continue serving the neighborhood and to be a steward for the whole community.

ALICE MAGNUSON
Academic Advisor, Metropolitan State University

As an incumbent delegate to the council I'm amazed and impressed with the passion exhibited by

St. Anthony Park residents. We have a unique, vibrant, and strong neighborhood because of this passion. We must maintain this passion as we look to the year 2000. I'm concerned about noise and transportation issues. These include Highway 280 traffic and maintenance, MN Santa Fe Railroad Hub and increased mainline train traffic, increased airplane and helicopter flights, a growing truck industry and increased student parking. We desperately need senior housing to allow long term residents to stay in the Park. I want to see small business growth to continue in north and south St. Anthony Park and on University Avenue. I am a life long resident of the Park and I care deeply about its future. ■

Theft, the act of stealing, is the highest reported crime in the neighborhood. Approximately half of these crimes are thefts from auto or of auto accessories.

Here are some reminders to help you keep items safe in your vehicle:

- Never leave your keys in the car or in the ignition.
- Always lock the doors and close the windows, even in front of your home.
- Park in well lit areas.
- Put your valuables in the trunk before you reach your destination.
- Don't leave items like purses, wallets, backpacks, gym bags, shopping bags, and jackets on the seat — thieves smash windows and grab these items, hoping to find cash, checkbooks, credit cards, IDs, etc.
- Accessories such as cell phones and stereos are often stolen. Put away CDs and tapes, and if you can, stash the phone in the glove compartment or under the seat.

Thefts occur throughout the neighborhood. As the warmer weather returns, thieves find more opportunities to commit a crime. Be especially careful around the parks and commercial areas to present less of these opportunities to thieves who may be looking for theft opportunities in these areas.

great neighborhoods. The civility and sense of community make Falcon Heights a really nice place." There have been challenges, however. By far the most memorable struggle, said Hoyt, was the effort two years ago to persuade the University of Minnesota to relocate a proposed soccer stadium from a field directly adjacent to the university retirement facility at 1666 Coffman. Retired professors and other residents joined a host of local and regional officials working in concert in a carefully orchestrated campaign to convince the university to find another spot. Their efforts were eventually successful. The stadium was ultimately built in a less populated area adjacent to the University golf course.

Another tough issue for Hoyt had a more poignant outcome. Several years ago, she explains, "We realized that our long-time volunteer ambulance service no longer met the medical needs of the community." The volunteers were disbanded in favor of a professional ambulance service with more sophisticated medical training, but, says Hoyt, "It was sad for us, and saddest for the committed volunteers," who were replaced by the change.

Hoyt grew up in nearby Arden Hills. Still, she is no stranger to Falcon Heights. Her father was a faculty member of the university's vet school, and Hoyt came of age "hanging out in the barns" on the St. Paul campus. Nowadays, Hoyt has renewed her acquaintance with the campus, since her husband is a professor in applied economics "with an office in the next building over to my Dad's."

After picking up a B.A. at Carleton and working for a couple of years in local government outside the metro area, Hoyt began working on a Ph.D. in urban geography at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Three years later, her degree was unfinished, and Hoyt was living in Falcon Heights. One day she wandered into city hall, intending to apply for the planning commission. Instead, she found herself hired for part-time employment and at the beginning of a new career. After 11 years, she continues to put her faith in the public she serves, "If you give people enough information, they are usually responsive." ■

SCHOOL NEWS

Kindergarten Round-up is a traditional springtime event when preschoolers begin the exciting transition to kindergarten. Children who will be five years old by September 1 are invited to attend a Kindergarten Round-up at the school they plan on attending. During the Round-up children and their parents meet teachers and principals, visit classrooms, and receive registration materials. Parents are asked to bring their child's birth certificate and immunization record.

Kindergarten Round-up at St. Anthony Park Elementary (293-8735) is set for Tuesday, April 11, at 6 p.m. in the library. Meanwhile, SAP 5th graders pursue the environmental studies at Camp St. Croix from April 12 to 14. Children who want to train for the Melpomene Race on May 6 can join Running Club at its April 18 meeting in the gym.

On April 28, SAP students stage a Talent Show at Murray Jr. High, 7 pm. Families are invited to attend a special meeting of SAPSA on April 13. Beginning at 6:30 pm, Community Education will lead families in a craft activity, the business end of the meeting will follow.

Many families will fondly remember DeeAnn Dech, kindergarten teacher for many years at SAP. She died February 19. See Obituary page 14.

Como Park Elementary (293-8823) hosts its Kindergarten Round-up on Tuesday, April 18, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Como will be offering an all day kindergarten program next year. Principal Mary Dybvig is pleased to report recent successes at Como due to its membership in the Midway Chamber of Commerce. Partnership with local business has created several programs that have made important contributions to the school. "Adopt-a-Classroom," sponsored by Support Our Schools founder Roger Barr, has donated money to classrooms. Businesses involved include US Bancorp Piper Jaffray, Riverside Bank, and Western Bank. Como Northtown Community Credit Union Marketing Director, Aaron Kastner has been working with attendance liaison Judy Paitich to create a program that rewards perfect attendance.

Coached by Mr. Payne, Murray Junior High Science teacher, 37 Murray students and three Murray graduates participated in the Twin City Regional Science Fair on March 10 and 11. Seventeen students from this group won prizes at the Fair and will compete in the Minnesota Academy of Science State Fair.

Murray also boasts a finalist in the National Geographic Spelling Bee. Nate Wells will be competing at Macalaster College on Friday, April 7.

Como Senior High Freshman Emily Letourneau and Anna Bishop from Central High presented an award winning team research project at the Regional Science Fair on March 10. The pair won the Kodak Award, the Army Award, and the Navy Award. They will be joined by Murray Jr. High alumnus and Highland Park High student Mark Galatowitsch, who nabbed 12 awards for his project, in going on to state competition in Duluth, April 14-16. They will also go on to the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF) in Detroit in May.

Chelsea Heights (293-8790) Kindergarten Round-up will be April 18. Sixth graders meet with middle school representatives on the morning of March 29 and sign up for next year's classes.

Brimhall Elementary School's (638-1958) Kindergarten Round-up is set for Thursday, April 6, at 6:15 pm. The public is invited to celebrate the first annual International Festival on Friday, May 12 from 5:30 to 8 pm.

Architecture in the Grove

Thomas Fisher, dean of the University of Minnesota's Architecture School, will present a slide tour of the architecture in the University Grove. Homes dating from the 1930's to present time will be included. University Grove has always been unique in requiring every house built, to be architect-designed. The area was laid out with houses backing onto large open-space commons in place of alleys. Details of life in the Grove has always been tightly controlled by the University, from the design of the houses to the occupational qualifications of the prospective buyers.

Three on the wall

Local artists present exciting show

“Three On The Wall” is an exhibit of watercolor and acrylic paintings by three St. Anthony Park artists. Anders Himmelstrup, Peg Houk, and Marjorie Moody have collaborated to mount this show of their most recent work. It is on view at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church (2136 Carter Avenue; 645-3058) and continues through April 17. This exhibit will also be featured adjunct to the Sunday, April 16 “Music in the Park” concert. On that day, the exhibit will be open from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Each of these three professional artists developed their award-winning skills from different beginnings. Anders Himmelstrup is a professional graphic designer, having been trained in lithography in Copenhagen, Denmark. He is owner of Graphic Systems, Inc., but is moving toward a full-time career as a watercolor and acrylic artist.

Peg Houk is a retired teacher in learning disabilities for the St. Paul Schools and is now making watercolor painting her full-time career. She came to watercolor painting after experimenting with pottery, weaving, and drawing. She owned and operated the Spring Street Gallery in Stockholm, Wisconsin, for two years and has studied with both local and national teachers.

Marjorie Moody, a California native, received her Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Minnesota and focuses her work in watercolor, gouache, and oils. Although she has travelled widely and finds inspiration in other cultures and peoples, she is often to be found painting on location in her own perennial garden.

Each artist displays a distinct style and a unique approach to the world around them. Himmelstrup favors abstracts, landscapes, people, and more recently, three-dimensional sculpture/painting — a bold technique combining watercolor and acrylic in combination with foam core. For him, spontaneity and mood are foremost. He enjoys both the process of creation and surprise at the outcome.

Houk brings strong colors, vivid light, and exuberant energy to her work. She wants each of her paintings to tell a personal story to the viewer. She paints a wide variety of subjects — floral, still life, seascapes, abstracts, and, most recently, watercolor collage.

Meanwhile, Moody emphasizes color, mood, rhythm and spontaneity in her work. With a fairly loose expressionistic style, she creates engaging landscapes, florals, abstracts, and human groupings. Her paintings affirm life, joy, freedom, beauty, and peace.

Exhibit hours are 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. and 6:30 - 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays; 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. on Fridays. To arrange individual appointment call the church office at 645-3058 or Peg Houk at 645-4453. ■

Art fair deadline

The 31st annual St. Anthony Park Art Fair is set for Saturday, June 3, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and the deadline for participation is Monday, May 1. Applications are available at the St. Anthony Park Branch Library (2245 Como Avenue). This year's fair marks the addition of a children's craft and activity area.

Preschool applications

North Como PreSchool (965 Larpenteur Avenue; 488-7137) is accepting registrations for the 2000-2001 school year. The school is accredited for classes for children ages 3-5.

And the band plays on

The St. Anthony Park Community Band (642-1559) begins its 19th year on Tuesday, April 4, and welcomes new members interested in playing a challenging repertory under the baton of director Paul Husby. Rehearsals are held during April and May, with a full concert schedule through the summer. Instrumentalists of all ages are welcome at Tuesday evening rehearsals, which meet at Como Park Senior High School (740 West Rose Street) from 7:14 to 9 p.m.

Rec center news

Langford Rec Center (30 Langford Park; 298-5765) baseball and softball registration, ages 8 to 16, continues through Friday, March 31. It could have come from the pages of one of St. Anthony Park librarian Rosie Foreman's favorite books, Wait 'Til Next Year which follows the life of writer Doris Kearns Goodmann. Everyone has missed the chance to pop into the library, check out a few books, read the New York Times, or simply see Forman's hospitable smile. Now, and it's no April Fools joke, construction is over and neighbors are eager to inspect the children's addition and welcome its handicap accessibility. Recently, Forman saw the fifth grade school patrol outside the library, who upon seeing that the library had reopened began to chant, "The library is open, the library is open, Happy New Year." Forman agrees with the youngster's sentiment, adding, "It's good to be home."

Sierra Club), education, saving Social Security, and reducing the national debt.

McGuire acknowledges that it will be difficult to stand out in a crowded field, but she believes her 12 years in the Minnesota House have been just the right kind of preparation for federal office. McGuire noted that when Bruce Vento first ran for Congress, 12 candidates vied for DFL endorsement. So far, she is one of seven announced DFL candidates for Vento's seat.

McGuire has already had a taste of how hectic campaigning can be at this level. On March 11, she attended eight out of 11 precinct caucuses, at which the DFL's 342 delegates were chosen. On May 6, those delegates will meet and attempt to endorse a candidate.

McGuire is seeking party endorsement and will honor the delegate's decision.

Bruce Vento is an institution in the 4th Congressional District, and McGuire admits that it will be difficult to fill his shoes. "It would be impossible to duplicate Bruce's accomplishments," she said. "I'm a different person than he is. ■"

Force gave a presentation, outlining upcoming projects for the next year. Jan Morlock, the university's director of community relations, said there is a six-year plan in place that gets reviewed each year.

For example, Morlock said, "Next year we want to fully fund the new greenhouses, so that we could take down the old greenhouses on Cleveland and Larpenteur."

That comment brought some sighs of relief and a few chuckles from the audience, which numbered about 65 people from the neighborhood, including council members, and university.

Bob Baker, director, parking and transportation services at the university, talked about the university's efforts to encourage students to park in the large State Fairgrounds lot where it leases about 1,700 spaces. He said it costs students $36 a month, or $2.50 daily. Some residents said that was cost-prohibitive. Baker explained that the cost of parking to the university was not subsidized by education dollars nor legislative funds.

The university is currently building a 750-space campus ramp on Gortnor Avenue that is replacing a surface lot of 350 spaces. The ramp may cost about $55 to $60 per month and $3.50 per day during peak time. Baker said the university sent out a letter recently encouraging students to use the Fairgrounds lot.

"It was very effective," he said. "We saw an increase in parking in the Fairgrounds lot."

But some residents immediately stated that they, too, have recently seen an increase in parking on residential streets. One resident asserted that he sees only one-fifth of the lot being used.

Magnuson is optimistic about solving the parking issue. "Now the university is making a concerted effort to talk to all of us." ■

The plan anticipates that most of the near-term redevelopment will occur in parcels adjacent and north of University Avenue. The resulting increase in traffic in this area will be eased by the new north-south connection to Kasota and highway 280, reported Bill Smith of Biko Associates, one of the plan contributors.

A general concern with the increased development in the southern part of the SEED/SEMI area has been overloading University Avenue with traffic. However, Smith further added that even in the highest density development scenario, the new roadways would be able to handle the increased traffic in the area, without congesting University Avenue.

One of the more innovative aspects about the SEED/SEMI plan focuses on storm water management. Currently, runoff in the area flows through pipes directly into the Mississippi River, according to Bob Sykes of the Land and Water Design Institute, another of the plan contributors. The new plan calls for much of the street runoff to flow directly into the ground in a series of small "rain gardens." The remaining runoff would flow into a series of holding ponds, which would be the centerpiece of a long, narrow park alongside the southern east-west roadway. From there, the water would discharge into the river, but of much higher quality than direct street runoff.

The runoff from many of the rooftops would be separately diverted into a "linear wetland" following the course of the original Bridal Veil Creek, a creek long since buried since the area was originally developed at the turn of the century.

According to Sykes, the runoff from the roofs is relatively clean, and the wetlands created by it would be of relatively high quality.

The current plan represents the culmination of several year's efforts by a variety of agencies and consulting engineers and designers. Bob Arndorfer and Ellen Watters of St. Anthony Park have both served on the SEED Committee, helping guide the plan's evolution. Both have been pleased with how issues impacting St. Anthony Park have been incorporated into the plan. But Watters cautioned that "the devil's in the details." For example, the significantly higher traffic flow to Kasota and 280 will necessitate improvements to that intersection, a separate issue that will require approvals and funds from the city. ■ received Neighborhood Sales Tax Revitalization (STAR) dollars in recent years, can continue.

It also means that St. Anthony Park business owners may take advantage of business networking, information and support from the larger Midway organization. The association will have its own regular news column in the Midway Chamber's monthly newsletter.

Most importantly, it means an end to what had become an ongoing struggle for staff time and resources. The business association has had three directors over the past four years. The job's part-time status has made it a challenge to find and retain staff, especially in light of the strong local economy.

"It's the classic situation that small non-profits and community groups face," said accountant Catherine Holtzclaw, a past business association president. She and others note that the volunteer time and energy needed to raise funds to pay someone part-time detracted from other activities for business association members. It also took time to repeatedly go through hiring processes for a director.

At its January membership meeting, St. Anthony Park

"Ellen Watters has been phenomenal in helping the St. Anthony Park Business Association."

— Paul Kierkegaard

Business Association members voted 20-1 to join the Midway Chamber. That vote has also meant changes in business association bylaws to allow for the Midway Chamber's support.

The chamber and the business association began discussing options several months ago. Holtzclaw and other past presidents began discussing the need for changes as part of a nominating committee for business association officers. That led to talk among the business association members about the need for fund-raising for staff, hiring staff and resources.

That's when Midway Chamber Executive Director Ellen Watters was asked to step in. Watters, who was St. Anthony Park Business Association Director for two years more than four years ago, worked with business association members to explore options and make the transition.

St. Anthony Park has had a separate business association since the 1970s. Lifelong community resident and businessman Andy Boss notes that for many years, the business association was the St. Anthony Park Association's Commercial Committee. The neighborhood association got its start in 1947. ■

Uncover the alluring shopping secrets of University/Raymond district

by Jodie Maruska

With its soft yellow walls, high tin ceilings and comfortable furniture, the Prairie Star Coffeehouse (2399 University Avenue.; 646-7827) spotlights locally roasted coffee, sandwiches, soups, and salads. Try the yummy Gemini Guernsey ice cream at live music concerts, presented 7 to 9 p.m., every Friday and Saturday.

The Minnesota Women's Press Book Shop and Library (771 Raymond, 646-3968) is celebrating its 15th anniversary. Buy Jane Hamilton's latest, an anthology of women's poems, or the wonderful On the Day you were Born. Make Oprah happy! Downstairs, the 8,000-volume library allows members to borrow for only $10 annually.

Fill your senses and find something new for your home at the Raymond Avenue Gallery (761 Raymond; 644-9200), a

The Raymond/University neighborhood is industrial in appearance and demeanor, but upon closer inspection, you'll find a neighborhood filled with charming shops and restaurants, practical services, and people invested in their community and customers.

14-year-old neighborhood tradition. Local artists rule, such as Warren MacKenzie (potter), Nancy MacKenzie (fiber artist), Joseph Brown (sculptor), Wayne Potratz (sculptor), and Tim Lloyd (metalsmith).

The Midwest Media Artists Access Center (MMAAC) (2388 University Avenue; 644-1912) offers film and video artists resources for high-quality equipment and facilities. Photographers may access the black and white dark room for just $95 per year. Major events include exhibits featuring grant winners in photography and film, and the December Film Slam which has people re-writing the ending of a favorite movie, or re-staging a famous photograph. Let's just say that last December, Dorothy did not get back to Kansas.

Succotash (781 Raymond; 603-8787) offers "Mid-Century Miscellany" from retro furnishings to clothing, kitchenware, pottery, and games. Even the most traditional decorator can find a zingy twist here. For instance, buy a Chemex coffee maker from the 70s — yes, the same one Mary Richards used! You're going to make it after all — the coffee that is!

Walk into Chet's Taverna (791 Raymond; 646-2655) and you're immediately wrapped in delicious aromas! This intimate store-front restaurant is known for its savory pork loin, but cooks other treats such as a chicken pizza with roast apple puree, pancetta, oregano, and fontina. There are vegetarian offerings and a lighter spring menu is about to be introduced. Order a half-bottle from the extensive wine list and don't forget to ask about dessert. Take-out is also available.

To accompany that take-out, be sure to find a bottle of nice chardonnay from Sharrett's Liquor Store (2389 University Avenue; 645-8629). This family-run business features an especially good imported and specialty beer inventory and sells many "singles." If you can't get to them, they offer prompt delivery service with a smile!

Roasting Stones (2388 University Avenue; 644-1645) is where "coffee rocks and rolls." Sisters Mia and Angela Deeb's aim to make every customer comfortable. Pair a cup of specialty coffee with a sandwich and soup or other goodies, and sit at one of their European-style tables, complete with table cloth and fresh flowers. Warm weather will bring outdoor seating.

Noll's Hardware (789 Raymond; 646-5408) is a 25-year-old family business. If owner Tom Garfield doesn't have what you're looking for — he'll track it down. Bring in that broken Michael Graves toaster — they fix appliances and even have a woodworker on staff who can assist you in furniture questions or repairs. These men could turn the most domestic malcontent into Martha Stewart!

Raymond Computer (795 Raymond; 642-9890) is just the spot to bring that old Commodore or Amiga computer that no one knows you still use. This two-person repair center specializes in older systems, but they can work on your new IMac II, and will even make a house call!

While we're fixing things, why not reupholster that old chair in the basement? Bargain Upholstery (797 Raymond; 642-1838) offers quality craftsmanship at a reasonable price. Their prompt and personal service means you can even shop within the comfort of your home. Who knows — now that you have a "new" chair, it may be time to update the sofa as well! ■

Gordon Nelson

Gordon Harrison Nelson, age 83 and a descendant of the Gibbs farm family, died on February 19. He was born December 10, 1916, to George Herbert Nelson and Alice Gibbs-Nelson and spent his childhood on the Gibbs Farm, now a Ramsey County Museum in Falcon Heights. The eldest of five children, he was involved in the family-owned wholesale/retail flower business, Gibbs-Nelson Greenhouses on Larpentour Avenue.

After graduating from Marshall High School in Minneapolis, Mr. Nelson attended the University of Minnesota School of Horticulture, finishing in 1936. In 1940, he married Elise Wassing, a marriage that lasted 52 years. As a floral designer, he was highly respected in the Twin Cities. He managed the intercontinental distribution of sweetheart roses. At the age of five, he won a blue ribbon for his prize squash.

After the sale of Gibbs-Nelson Greenhouses, he worked as a gardener at Como Park Conservatory for 25 years. He designed and installed the oriental Garden, the Sunken Gardens, and the seasonal shows. In recent years, he lived in the Como Park area on Merrill Street.

Preceded in death by a sister, a brother, three grandchildren, and his wife, Elsie, he is survived by daughters, Carolyn, Geraldine, and Patricia; son Gary; 14 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; sister, Ione; brother, Donald; and special companion, Cherie.

my son it was a medieval castle to attack with snowballs, a jail for hide and seek, or a spaceship to pilot to the stars.

SAPLING thinks they are doing something wonderful. But I feel they are misdirected. Langford Park does not need to be updated. It is beautiful just as it is. I take exception to her environmental, rhetorical labels and exaggerations used to gather support. A puddle of snowmelt for a week each spring until the frost leaves the ground is not a "seasonal wetland." A few acres of mowed grass do not constitute "rolling open meadows." This park does not need a prairie garden, a butterfly garden, a peace garden, nor meandering walkways. We taxpayers just paid $90,000 for the railroad gardens in South St. Anthony Park where I understand these items will be the theme. Additionally, those things already around in Como Park just two miles away.

IF SAPLING and others really want to help Langford Park, why don't they donate money for a new tree or two to replace those recently lost in storms. Coordinate with the school and have the kids plant them on Arbor Day. Then, I would strongly request they just go home and leave Langford alone! It has done very nicely over 90 years as a simple park.
